Chalk Dust

On opening day of the new Performing Arts Center everyone gathers to watch Band President Matthew Fogal (05), Drama President Ashley Recker (06), Student Council President Victoria Castillo (05), and Choir President Shadilea Johnson (07) cut the ribbon to unveil the Center.

OPENING

The year began with a blank chalkboard ready for whatever writing would signify the year. The dust had already settled from the new school roof and the building of the Performing Arts Center which opened with grand tours; it was used for the premiere of the 2005 Senior Video and September class meetings.

PHHS also dusted off its trophy shelves this year to make space for its newest award--100 years of continuous North Central Accreditation. Principal Mr. Ronald H. Wollen proudly received the honor for the school. On the down side, the teacher contract talks did not go well and teachers picketed in front of the school on several occasions. Class sizes were larger after some teachers were laid off.

Symbolically the chalk dust collected on the ledge as a year of educational pursuits proceeded.

Hopscotching his way to success, Eric Brown (06) takes time out of his sixth hour to help carry on the Chalk dust theme. "Hit em' hard", written by Emily Miller (08) were words of encouragement before the Homecoming game.

Seventh Heaven Stars, George and Geoff Stults take time out of their famous everyday lives to capture a moment with fan, Kathy Weller (07).

Sidewalk Chalk

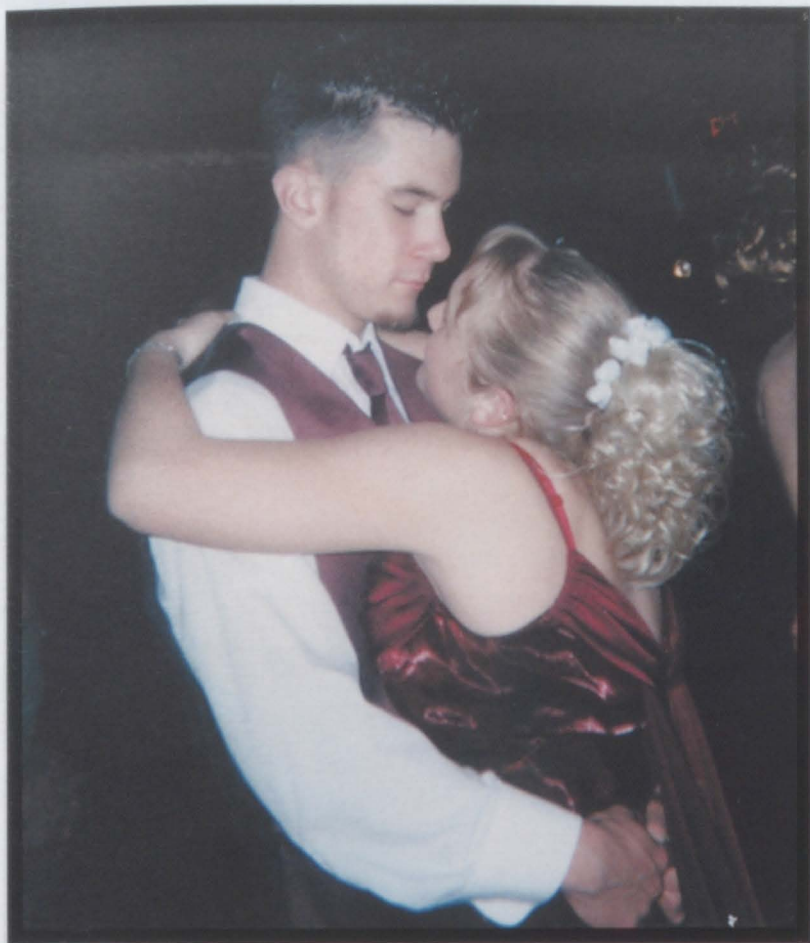

Over the summer, senior Renee Privette, went on a mission trip to help underprivileged kids at a school in Montego Bay, Jamaica. While in Jamaica she helped the community by repairing a porch and fixing walls damaged by Jamaica's severe storms.

STUDENT LIFE DIVISION

Picture this...it's a warm summer day and children are outside drawing on the cement with their buckets of sidewalk chalk. The pictures seem to come to life while they excitedly doodle as fast as their imaginations can come up with new ideas.

Lives of Port Huron High School's students are as interesting and unique as the sketches on the blacktop. Each and every person contributed a piece to the mosaic of Big Red Country. Evidence of this was found all around the school in photos, on plaques and through performances—from Spirit Week to Talent Show. If senior prom and Homecoming were chalk drawings, it would have taken every color in the bucket to mimic the many colors of the dresses and tuxedos from the evening events.

Damon Dyer (05) and Melinda Frappier (07) enjoy each other's company on the dance floor at the Senior Prom.

Mr. Wollen instructs Garrett Veal (06) about talent before his interpretation of "Running Buck Naked in the Rain".

Natasha Nutt (07) and younger sister Caleesha Nutt stop for a second to take a picture with a local celebrity, Charlie the Iguana, of Cabo San Lucas, Mexico.

A Starlit Romance

Themed "A Starlit Romance," the Class of 2005 met for an enchanted evening at Crystal Gardens.

"I was really excited to hear that we were having prom at Crystal Gardens; it's so pretty there," commented Camille Downey (05). Due to the beauty of the building itself, the senior class officers opted not to use one of the picture backdrops offered by the photographer, but to instead use the gorgeous staircase at the hall as the photograph background.

Entering into a foyer, party goers stepped onto the black and white ceramic floor flecked with stars. The staircase was the first architectural element to capture the eye. A double door way was on the left, leading to the ballroom. Above the dance floor was a mirrored ceiling.

The decorations were composed of two types of centerpieces. The first was a three tiered box with black and white polka dots. The second centerpiece was composed of three wine glasses that varied in height containing floating candles in them. Both centerpieces were accented with ribbons and flower petals in the class colors of black and pink.

One of the unique things about last year's prom was the tickets. Instead of using a standard paper admission, the class of 2005 gave out tuxedo shaped memory books as tickets. The memory books included a list of the class colors: black and pink; song: "Here I Go Again" by Whitesnake; flower: Calla Lily, motto: "Enjoy the little things, one day you may look back and realize they were the big things"; a list of the class officers: President Jennifer Moretz, Vice President Micheal Mowinski, Secretary Kameel Stanley, and Treasurer Katie Adolph; the school fight song; and a poem about senior year. This offered the seniors two mementos from prom, the glass frame with a clock in the middle given out when leaving the hall and the memory books.

"Prom was off the chain; we had so much fun and I can't wait 'till Senior Prom 2006," stated Latisha Mitchell (06).

"It set high standards for how I want my prom (2006) to be," commented Renee Privette (06).

The 2005 senior prom was held at Marysville Crystal Gardens from eight o'clock until mid-night on May 14, 2005.

Dapperly dressed Anthony Doan (05) and Brian McDougal (05) take a moment to admire how hot each other looks in their tuxes.

Kaitlin Tallmadge (06) and Eva Marie Rapson (05), good friends for years, make sure they capture the memory.

Bare-shouldered fashions, as worn by Sarah Robinson (06), Jessica Davis (06), and Jacqueline Shonka (08), work well for the mid-May occasion.

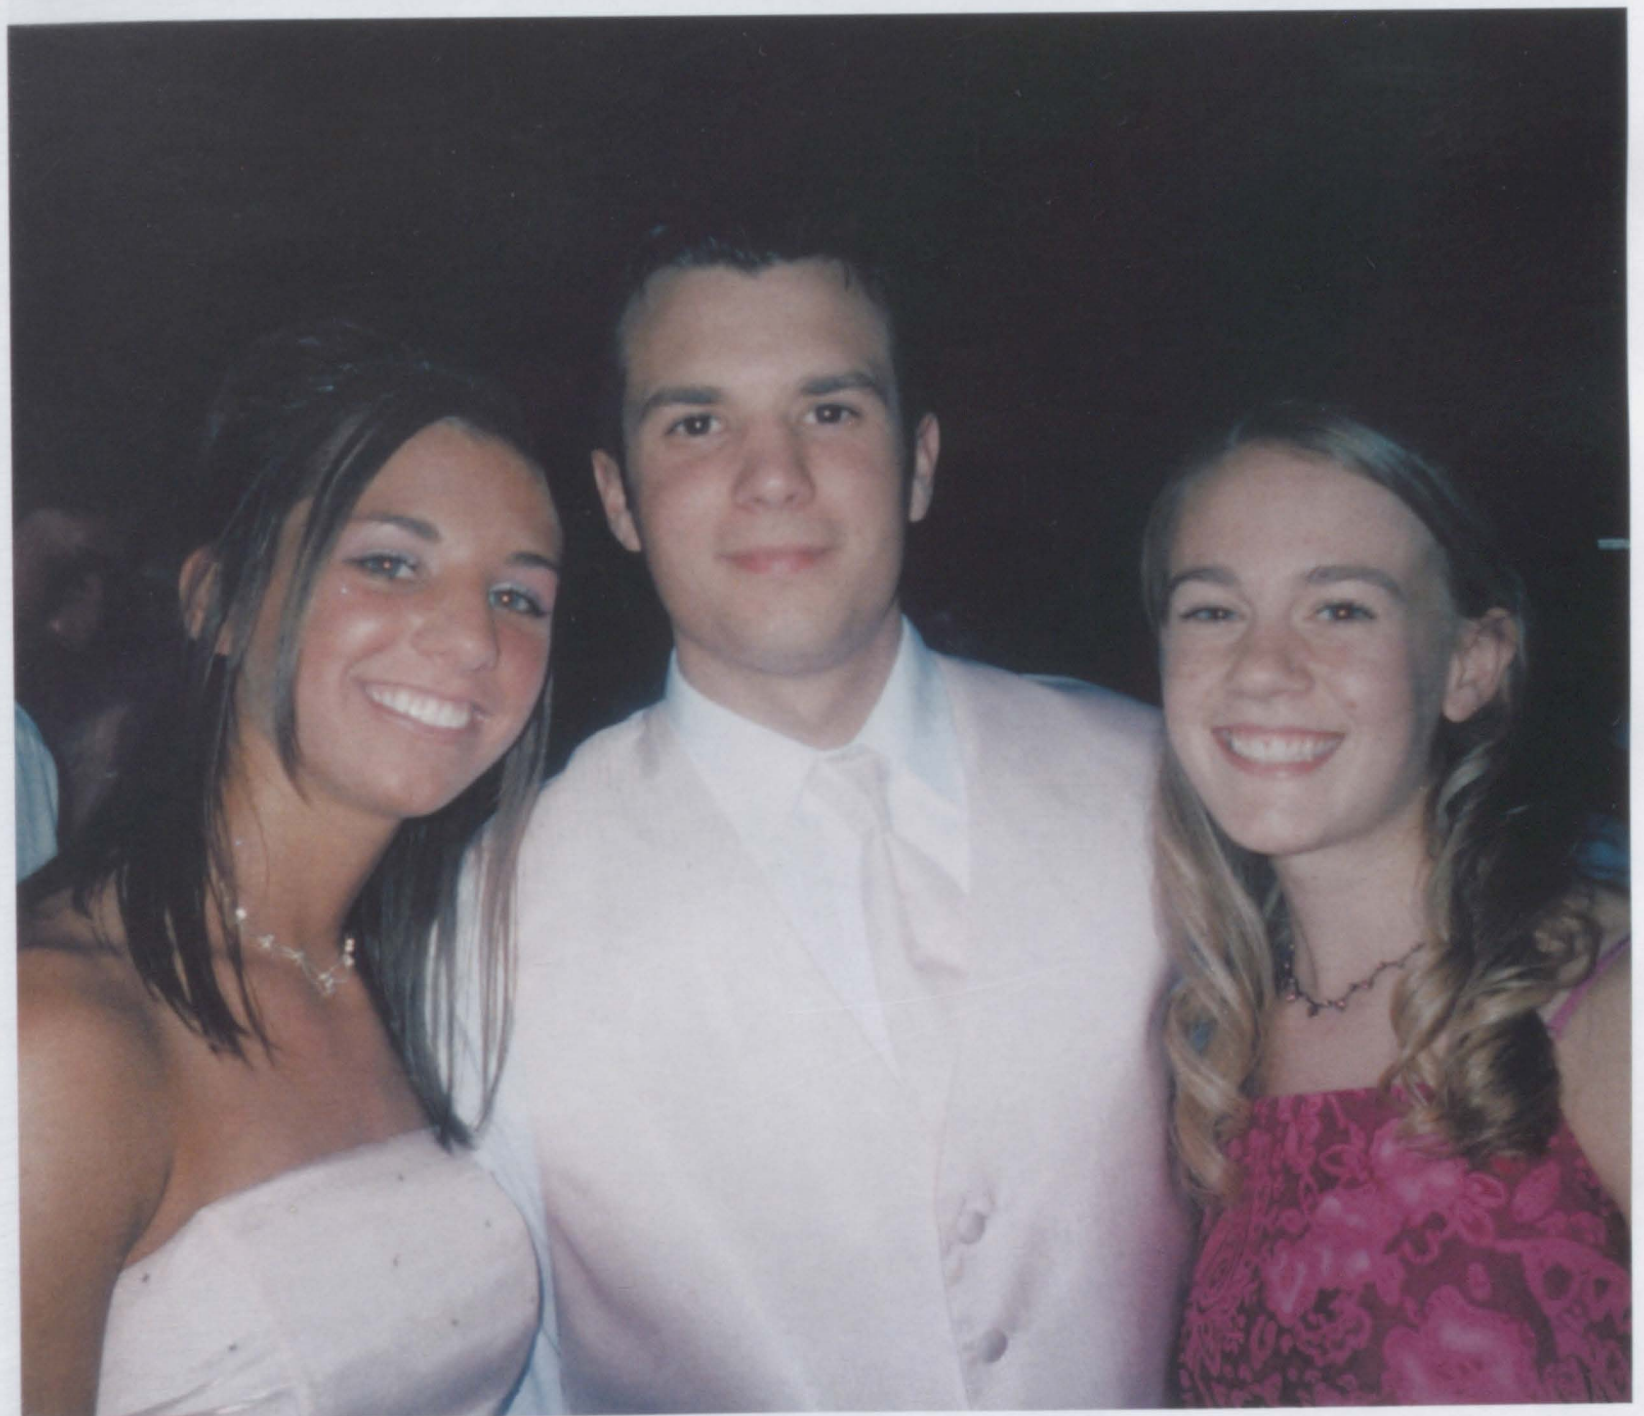

Before joining their friends for dinner, Brittney Russell (05) and Nick Brown (05) kick prom night off together.

Before heading off to dinner at Andiamos in their Escalade limousine, a group of juniors and seniors model the latest prom fashions by the boardwalk lighthouse.

All attired in shades of pink, Renee Privette (06), Micheal Mowinski (05), and Tiffany Hering (06) take a break on the dance floor.

SENIOR PICTURE

The Class of 2006

Since we first stepped foot into the loud, crowded hallways of Big Red Country as timid, scared freshmen, many experiences have molded the class of 2006 into the finest graduating class of Port Huron High, "Bar None!"

The senior class was orphaned at the start of year when it was left without an advisor. Thankfully, Ms. Kris Pettengill and Mrs. Trisha Ford adopted the graduating class and became co-advisors.

With the large variety of events that took place throughout senior year, it's no wonder why it was both tedious and exciting. Having to fill out numerous applications to colleges, spending hours at marching practices, and applying for scholarships were all very monotonous, but also very exciting because it is the next step.

The class elected Ashley Bowden as president, Tiffany Hering as vice president, and finally Brianna Chapman as class secretary.

As their last year at Port Huron High, seniors stole first place of Spirit Week largely due to their contributions of $654 to the Hurricane Katrina Relief Fund.

On October 9, 2005, the day after our very last Homecoming, the senior class gathered on the stage of the newly completed Performing Arts Center, spelling out "06" as the senior picture. The class of 2006 was the first class to graduate with complete use of the Performing Arts Center.

Though the years at Port Huron High School have finally come to a close, each student will take memories with them that cannot be erased like dust off a chalkboard, but the recollections will forever be sketched into our hearts as a familiar voice chants a familiar phrase, "Let's Go Big Reds!"

"We're '06 scream and shout, raise the roof and go all out."

Back Again

What is talent? According to Webster's Dictionary, "Talent is any natural ability or power."

Jennifer Green (06) stated, "Talent is something a person can do well and be confident doing it."

But what fun is having talent if you can't flaunt it?

Directed by Ms. Denise McCaffrey, the Performing Arts teacher, and Mr. Terry Beasley, the Choir and Guitar Instructor, the 2004 Talent Show was the first of its kind in years. "This is the first one in a long time," said Ms. McCaffrey, who wanted students to have the chance to use that talent.

The auditions were held in early May. Altogether there were eighteen contestants who performed; approximately ten other acts were cut after tryouts.

Christen Snyder (05) won her first place title by presenting a modern dance to the judges. Thomas Portis (05) sang, "One, Two Step," by Ciara featuring Missy Elliot, pulling in the second place title with back-up dancers Naesa Collier (06), Mercedes Smith (06), and Chrystianna Meadows (07). Senior Anne Moss (05) belly danced her way to third place. Adding humor, Arthur Harris (07) and Garrett Veal (06) did a half strip to their original song, "Singing in the Rain."

For a mere two dollars students and members of the public could get a great seat in the gymnasium on May 27th to watch the competition. Performers entertained the audience for two evening hours. According to Mr. Beasley, "The performance was a great success because it drew a good crowd and gave talented students a showcase for their skills."

The Talent Show was brought back because Mr. Beasley (the choir and guitar instructor) thought it would be a good fundraiser for choir, guitar, and drama. Students were glad the occasion was offered so they had a chance to perform for a live audience, since there are very few possibilities for performers if they are not part of the drama program. The show gave these students the chance to strut their stuff whether it was dancing, singing, or playing an instrument; so that parents and friends could come and watch.

In years past, the Talent Show was directed by Mrs. MaryAnn Foxlee, who has since retired. Performances used to be held in the cafeteria and faculty members were selected as judges.

The directors, Ms. McCaffrey and Mr. Beasley get ready to announce the participants of the next act; they were not only announcers but also the coordinators of the Talent Show.

First place winner, Christen Snyder (05) presented a unique modern dance to the judges and the audience.

"I love it when you one, two, step," pulled in the second place title for Thomas Portis (05).

Belly dancer, Anne Moss (05), stole third place with her distinct moves.

Joshua Walters (08), Daniel Hiebert (06) and Jason Oliver (07) performs one of their own songs from their band.

Tearing their pants off, Art Harris (07) and Garrett Veal (06) sang an original song, "Singing in the Rain."

Hollywood on Parade

The stars quued up for Hollywood on Parade and left the parking lot at one in the afternoon. Young fans from Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson lined the streets for a glimpse of the court candidates and floats and listening to the sounds of cheering and the band.

The Big Red Marching Machine revved up the crowd with "All Star" and "The Fight Song". All three levels of cheerleaders followed, shouting "The Big Red Rumble". Behind the Cheerleaders were the convertible-driven Court Candidates.

Float builders from all classes waved to the watchers as they displayed their hard work. This was the first year that students walked beside their floats of riding in the truck pulling them. Marilyn Monroe graced the front of the Junior float and won first place. In the background, were the word "Big Reds Walk of Fame, 2007."

With a click of the movie marker, the senior float came out to a second place finish. The senior's float consisted of a movie clapboard that said "Take One: Victory in Big Red Country" with stuffed football players on both sides.

The sophomores won a third place with their golden Oscar on a vibrant star lined Red Carpet; an old-fashioned camera with a strobe light as the flash detailed the back of the float. The back of the float said "The Award For Best Class Goes To Class of 2008!"

Freshmen, who took fourth place, had a movie reel unrolling from the goal post, and a football field with yard lines and numbers making the base of their float.

Close behind the floats was the parade Grand Marshal, Mrs. Mary O'Connor, a former Big Red secretary. The new superintendent, Mr. Michael Jones, and the principal, Mr. Ronald H. Wollen were next. The car behind brought Ms. Janet Barrett and Ms. Terry Stoneburner, assistant principals. The very last was the Central Middle School trolley of students, soon to be led by Mrs. Terry Stoneburner, their new principal.

Roosevelt Elementary School and Woodrow Wilson Elementary School showed their spirit while watching all the activities roll down the streeted-runway. They had red and white pom-poms that were waved with pride. Many marchers in the parade ran up and gave the future Big Reds high-fives. "The best part of the parade was seeing all of the kids when we went by the schools," said Shawna DeRosia (08) a marcher in the parade.

Though it was very chilly, the parade had another year of success. The Student Council directed the event, a very important role because setting it up was their job. Mr. Keith Hodge was the "producer."

Freshmen, having the movie magic, got a fourth place in floats using the idea of a gigantic film reel unrolling from the goal post.

Walking triumphantly onto the football field, juniors RoseAnne Woodard and Shannon Jacobs show off their winning float.

Following the juniors in the parade, the sophomore float stood tall above the rest with a golden Oscar standing 6 feet, 5 inches. The sophomores finished in third place.

Playing music and marching can be hard for most people but not for drummers Ernesto Castillo (09), Matthew Schoettle (06), and Daniel Williams (06).

After completing two weeks of preparation, the seniors display their homecoming float of a movie clapboard. The senior class finished in second place for floats.

We've Got S-P-I-R-I-T

Twice every year students at PHHS are encouraged by the Student Council to show their school spirit by getting a little crazy. In the two weeks, one being Homecoming and the other being Spring Spectacular, students show their spirit in a special way.

After months of strict rules and regulations, Spring Spectacular broke up the monotony. On Monday the ladies (as well as the guys) flip flopped to school in overwhelming numbers. Sunglasses seemed to be a hot commodity for Tuesday, and as Wednesday came rolling through Hawaiian apparel was everywhere. Thursday was green with envy as students came rushing through the halls with a look that was right for March 17th, in honor of St. Patrick's Day. Traditional Red and White Day was Friday. Many students also participated in the annual History of Rock and Roll, which took place during all three lunches one day each season.

For more than forty years Homecoming Spirit Week has been a Big Red tradition. During the week prior to Homecoming, students got the chance to show off their "wild" side and dress for spirit points. These points combined with Float Building and Games Assembly credits led to the award for the most spirited class, and the biggest reward check from Student Council. This year the first place prize was awarded to the Juniors who got $250.00 to help defray their previous expenses. The Seniors took second place and got $150.00 for their prom expenses for Prom 2006. The third place went to the Sophomores and the Freshmen took last.

On Monday to start off the fall spirit students came pouring into the school with sunglasses on their eyes and smiles on their faces because they knew that for this day they were allowed to wear the shaded glasses and not get in trouble for it. Tuesday was Mis-Match Day, Erin Jones (07) loved it and said "It's fun to wear crazy things during school." Wednesday brought in a blast from the past as students dressed in 80's attire. On Thursday, University Day, Lisa Collier (06) rebelled a bit, "Everyone seems to be a Michigan fan, except me, so I wanted to show my (Michigan) State pride," she exclaimed. As always we closed off the fall Spirit Week with the annual Red and White Day, but Student Council added hats to the attire as well.

Taking advantage of Hat Day, Rachel Gieche (07) displays her flying elephant hat.

Bryan Jacobs (07) shows his spring school spirit on Hawaiian Day.

With a few extra minutes Aaron Fowler (06) stops for a picture on Sunglasses Day.

Dressed up for Mis-Match Day Mrs. Jameson shows her spirit and dresses in plaid and polk-a-dot.

Capturing the attention of his audience, D'Artagnan Stephens (06) plays his trumpet for the annual History of Rock 'N Roll.

Spooky faces, spooky music! Sam McLaren (07), Kenisha Williams (06), Sarah Swoffer (06), and Arthur Harris (07) star in "Thriller" by Michael Jackson.

Where Did You Get That?

Where did you get that, was a question that everyone was asking. "I like shopping at Hollister, American Eagle, and Abercrombie & Fitch," commented Meghan Watson (08). "I like to be comfortable, but look good at the same time."

This year's fashion was all about bright and bold colors for shirts and pants. Girls were also seen wearing faded, worn out denim jeans and skirts with fringe, studs or sequins. Add a cheerful-colored top with some "Bling" to accent the ensemble.

Fads matched fashions. The shine of sequins shimmered down the hall during the long school day, when many of the girls had bangles attached to their shoes, clothing, and purses. "My sequin belt is a good way to look dressy and look casual at the same time," said Maggie Schneider (09).

A way to keep warm during the winter months at school called for track jackets. They came in different colors and patterns. If it got too warm in the stylish track jacket, then most students had a longer matching T-shirt underneath.

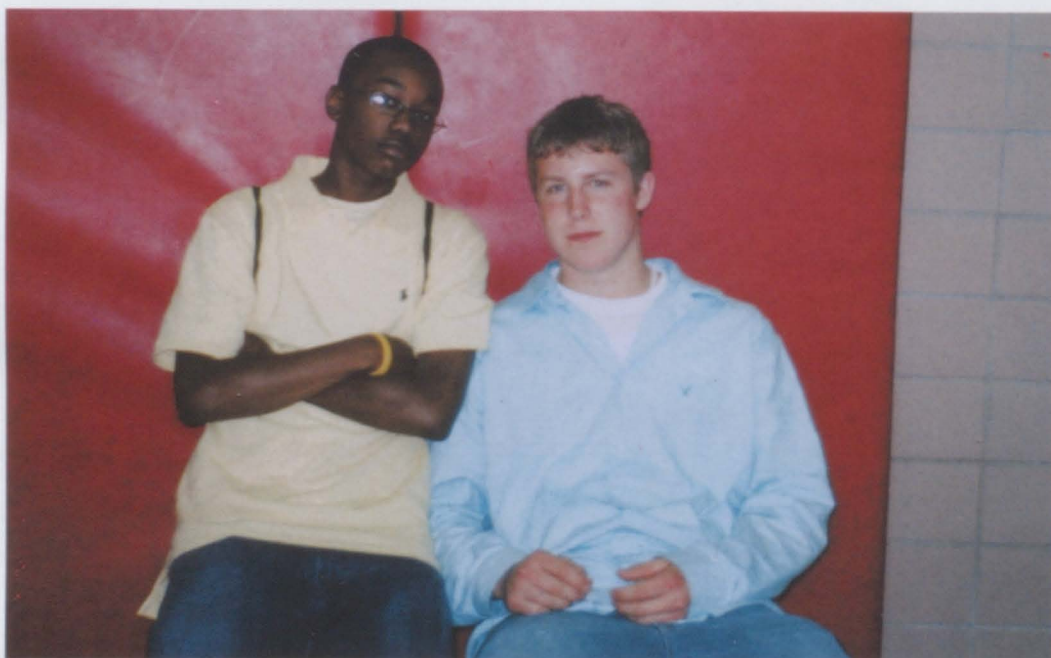

Shoes made a big statement. "I keep my shoes as clean as possible," said Justin Trendy (07), "I like comfortable shoes like K Swiss, and Iversons." Other favorite footwear included Etnies, Phat Farms, Reebok Classics, flip-flops, Nike Shox, Adio, DC Shoes, and Adidas.

The "Boho" style was not only seen on celebrities but on the students of PHHS. The style consists of earth tones, big necklaces, chunky bracelets, flowing tops and unique patterns. "The big necklaces with many colors make a simple outfit look great," said Jordan Stroyan (08).

The "Hot" look for guys this season was polo shirts. Striped, button-down, brand name, and colorful were the types of polo shirts that many guys were seen wearing. "My button-down shirts are a good way for me to express my style," said Jared Jarvis (07).

One of the biggest fads included the Apple's MP3 player the iPod Nano. "My iPod has made my life easier, now all of my favorite music is in one player, and I don't have to carry all of my CD's around with me," said Breeyn Maxwell (07).

Another fad was buying bracelets which funded charities like cancer research or sponsored causes like the support of the Armed Forces. "I like how they match my outfits, and it's a great way to show which charities I'm supporting," said Miles Johnson

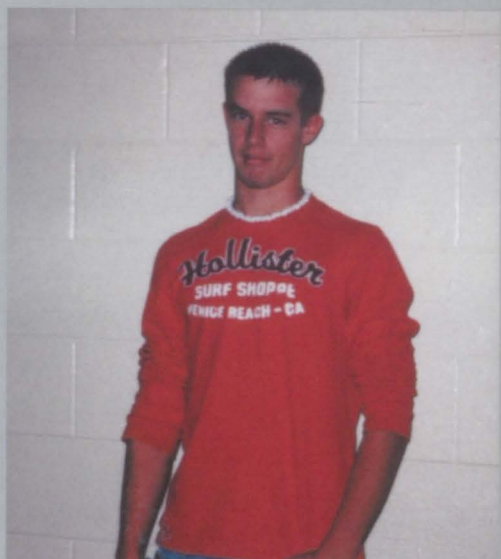

Showing off their true colors, Justin Williams (08) and Derrek Smith (06), look fabulous in their designer labels and baggy pants. Many guys were seen in Ralph Lauren, Abercrombie and Fitch, Hollister, American Eagle, Aeropostale, Under Armor, football and basketball Jerseys, NASCAR shirts, Concert Tees, Gap, and Pacific Sunwear apparel.

Students showed off skater shoes with all different colors. "I like to have many different pairs so they can match whatever I'm wearing that day," said April Cook (08).

One of spring's best looks for girls was 3/4 length sleeved shirts, worn by Toni Spana (07); for the guys was button-down shirts, worn by Craig Allen (06).

Meghan Watson (08) and Jessica Kindle (08) model their "hot" styles of the new school year; Meghan's wearing Hollister and worn out jeans, while Jessica supports her sport and shows off the new look of Under Armor.

On the last day of school, Kristina Gamble (08), Kaitlin Addley (08), and Emily Miller (08) make their final impression with the straight hair style.

Red Carpet Romance!

With a flash of the lights and a stroll down the red carpet, elegantly dressed males escorted formally-clad females into a Standing Room Only event for the romantic evening.

This night included the walk on the lighted, deep, red carpet to the gym. Two huge popcorn boxes connected by a balloon arch towered over the party-goers in the hallway. Covering the courtyard windows were Hollywood movie posters.

The ballroom featured huge red and metallic-gold balloon archways. A maroon-red vinyl mat, purchased by Student Council and the administration, protected the gym floor and will be used for graduation and other assemblies.

In Hollywood style, the halls were graced with royalty. Representing the freshman class, Lord Corey Cates, and Ladies Charli Head and Lindsay Brockman arrived. Duke Andrew Pesta and Duchesses Kandace Thomas and Lorna Johnson led the sophomores in the votes. Prince Jonathan Blake and Princesses Jordan Gutierrez and Laura Towns representing the juniors. King candidates included Charles Cook, Danny Price and William Pinson. Queen candidates were Tiffany Hering, Danielle Tuttle, Blair McDowell and Ruth Seppo. When the Oscar envelope was torn open, this year's King was Charles Cook and his Queen was Tiffany Hering.

Typical of the movie star glamour, high school stars followed fashion by choosing colors that matched their dates; the men's vests and ties of their suits coordinated with their ladies' dresses. Normally, the girls would find and purchase their dresses, and then, the guys would take the information to the tuxedo shops. Notable in formal wear for this season was a return to shorter gowns.

Loud, modern tunes beat a rhythm in Rap and R&B. More slow songs enticed the romantic couples onto the dance floor.

This year's theme "Hollywood" won the vote. For the first time in years it was a school wide vote. The students were able to select one idea from the top three themes suggested by the Student Council Theme Committee. The other possibilities were Pirates of the Caribbean and Candyland.

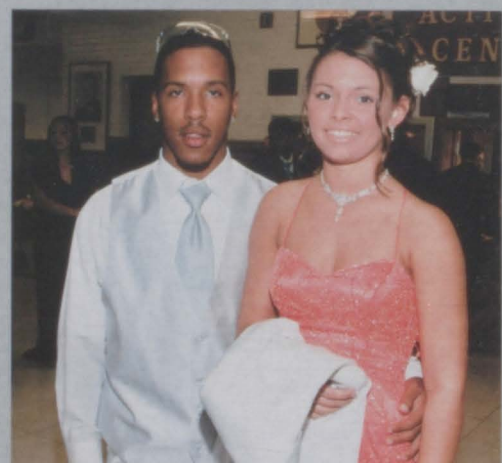

With a little Hollywood style and grace, 1,300 students enjoyed a Red Carpet Romance.

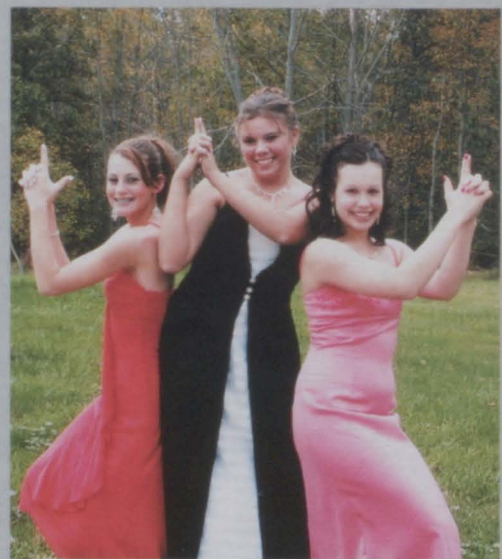

Bright lights and a small city here Kathy Weller (07) Tyler Evans (09) Justin Finch (07) Mallorie Krul (07) Kayla Jones (07) and Tiffany Makowski (07) come from dinner with an hour to spare they decided to ride the carousel.

Ready to wave to the crowd and their fans, this year's King and Queen make their way to the convertible to take their lap around the field.

Another glimpse of Port Huron High's Homecoming alumnus Jonathan Russell (05) escorts Amanda Lowe (06) to the Homecoming Dance.

Charlie's Angels Dayna Aiken (06), Jessica Bukowski (07) and Stephanie Adolph (06) follow the Hollywood theme.

2005-2006 Senior Court included: Danielle Tuttle, William Pinson, Ruth Seppo, King Charles Cook, Queen Tiffany Hering, Blair McDowell and Danny Price.

Sophomores Take It

"Bring 'em Out! Bring 'em Out!" was the starting song that accompanied the Big Reds as they entered the gym. With competition in their hearts and on their minds, class representatives stormed the gym for the Games Assembly for the finale of the 2005 Spirit Week.

The games went along with the theme of the dance, "Hollywood". The students could gain points for their class during Tug-of-War, Race for the Oscar, Musical Chairs, PH Idol, Hollywood Extreme Makeover, Hula-Hoop Pass, and Limbo.

Race for the Oscar consisted of a male and female pair from each grade who stood at one end of a red carpet. The referees blew the whistle and the game was on. They competed to see who could get dressed the quickest, by putting on a dress or a suit, with dressy shoes, and rushing to meet up with their partner in the middle of the carpet and they walked together arm in arm and received their Oscar. The winners were the Juniors.

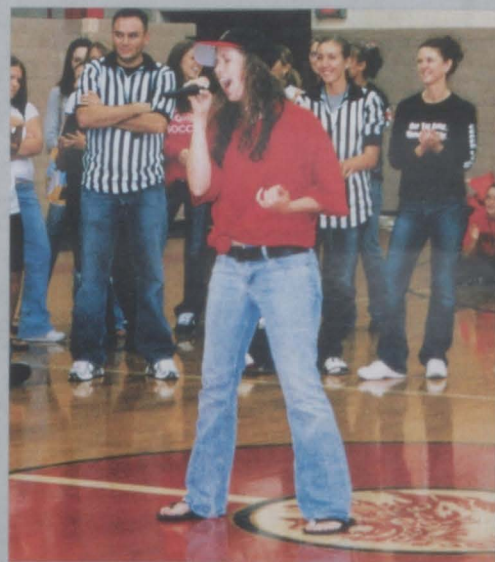

Each class had a boy and a girl who "made-over" a teacher for Hollywood Extreme Makeover. Freshmen took on the challenge of beautifying Mr. Juan Hernandez with makeup and a purse. Ms. Elizabeth Brandt was the wigged victim of the sophomore class, who came in first place in this event. Juniors recreated Mr. David Reno as he carried his new handbag, while Seniors gave Ms. Kris Pettingill a "new look" with barretts and makeup.

PH Idol was the Port Huron High School's version of the hit television show American Idol. Tryouts were held in October; the finalists competed during the assembly. The winner was a senior, Erin Dwyer, who sang "Since You've Been Gone" by Kelly Clarkson. The Junior candidate, Luke Sheldon, sang "Chariot" by Gavin Degraw. "If I Ain't Got You" by Alicia Keys was sung by Sophomore Elizabeth Newman. Freshmen chose not to enter in this event.

Seniors "lowered" themselves into first place in the Limbo Game, which tied up the score between the 12th graders and 10th graders. The first tug match was between 9th and 10th graders. Juniors rose above the seniors in the next face off. The Juniors gave great effort against the Seniors and Sophomores in the good old fashioned game of Tug-of-War, but in the end were disqualified. Tug-of-War was the tie breaker for the two classes. Sophomores pulled their way to a victory over the Seniors and the Freshmen.

Ashley Collier (09) and her partner Corey Cates (09) race down the red carpet in the lead to receive their Oscar first during the "Race for the Oscar" game.

The crowd is pleased by Erin Dwyer's (06) version of "Since You've Been Gone" by Kelly Clarkson.

Helping the sophomore class come in first in the Hula-Hoop Pass, Tiara Forsyth (08) pulls her lead leg through the hoop.

In between games, Corey Cates (09), Neisha Mallory (08), Ashley Ahles (08), Jessica Kindle (08), Abbey Bates (08), Naesa Collier (06), Karlie Livingston (08), and Mercedes Smith (06) stop to smile.

With enthusiasm and effort, Latisha Mitchell (06) and the rest of her senior team try their hardest in Tug-of-War against the sophomores, but ultimately lose.

Representing the senior class, Ashley Recker does a dance after winning first place in the Limbo Game.

Drawn Together

Over the summer, a group of sophomore friends gather together to celebrate a close bud's birthday. They played basketball, football, and volleyball outside and listened to music. Pizza, pop, and chips were available to eat.

PEOPLE DIVISION

Invisible chalk lines connect each of the students of PHHS; these threads bind the diverse opinions, groups and styles represented by the individuals. One grouping is the grade level; each of which includes the necessary classes a student has to pass in order to go on to the next grade level. Another factor is course choice; students may select one or more electives to prepare them for their future. There are numerous sports, clubs, and organizations after school hours for students. People also display various styles; the different fashions express their uniqueness. Although the people are diverse, they share some similarities--every student has at least one special, hilarious, or sad memory made during the years in high school and they all share the experience of teenage life. It's as if the chalk lines extend around the property to include all Big Reds.

Chillin' on the last day for '05 graduates, Samuel Browning (05), John Brewster (06), Latisha Mitchell (06), and Eric Washington (05) smile for a memory.

Jasmine Becker (06), Danielle Landschoot (06), Lori Klymko (06), Vanessa Vocino (06), Ashley Erwin (06), and Andrea Edgerton (06) crowd together one day during "C" Lunch in the hall.

Preparing during drama class for History of Rock-N-Roll, Blair McDowell (06) does Sarah Swoffer's (06) makeup for her later performance in Michael Jackson's "Thriller."

David James,

We're so proud of you. What a beautiful heart. You have grown so much, but there is still so much more. Never stop learning. Remember, everyone has something to offer. Guard yourself and look to God, your lion's heart and your mind's eye when making choices. Everything need not make sense to everyone else, as long as God is in your heart and you know you've done your best. Never say never...don't ever quit and remember...in a nutshell...! Matthew 7:7, 7:13, and 17:20 and Psalm 23.

We love you-Semper Fi-JT, Dail, Mom, Amanda, and Rich

Ted was a 12th grade student at PHHS. He enjoyed participating in historical reenactments with the Port Huron Museum's French Colonial Society and was a member of the Les Coreus de Bois et Voyageurs de Ste. Claire. (Ste Calir Voyageurs) He also volunteered at the Silver Trails Boy Scout Camp. He liked to hunt and fish, and was especially fond of tractors, especially his own Farmall Club Tractor. He loved all animals, especially his two dogs, "Sport" and "Bo", and his horse, "Jeramiah". Mr. Dennis Shannon said, "Ted was an excellent person who cared a lot about getting a better education towards life."

World Wide View

Can you imagine spending a year away from your family in a whole new country? Sophia Falkenburger (06), Frederikke Rasmussen (06), Fabienne Meier (06), Mia Aselmeyer (06), and Ditte Hansen (06) all left their families to come to America.

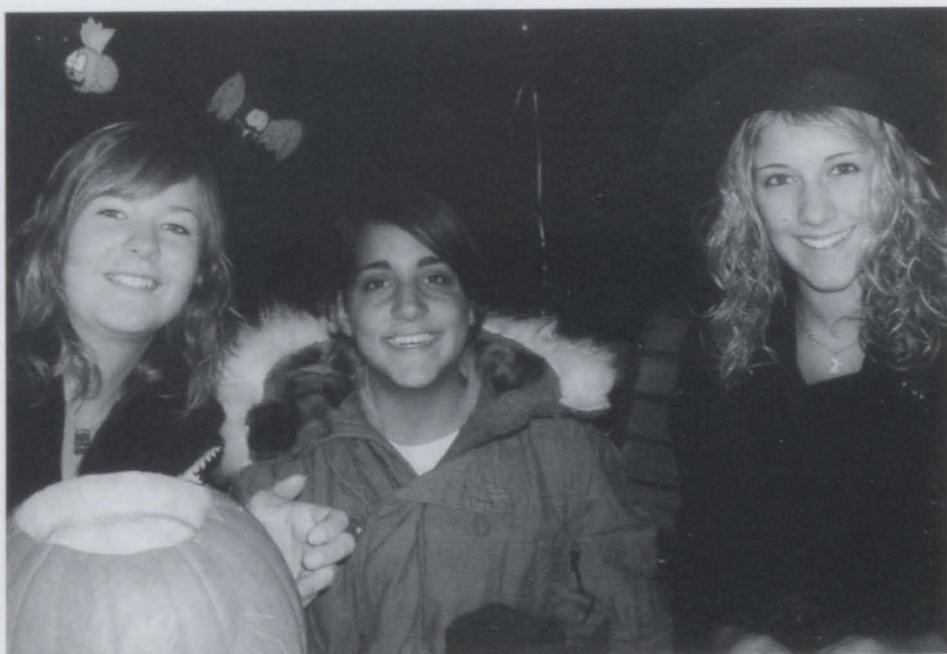

The foreign exchange students had different inspirations for visiting this country. "My mother lived here for four years, and I just think the United States is an interesting country," said Frederikke Rasmussen (06).

"There are so many differences! But I think one of the biggest is the school spirit. We don't have that in our school in Germany," said Mia Aselmeyer (06). In Germany, students can choose to leave highschool in ninth or tenth grade or go through the thirteenth grade.

"Here young people go out more to the cinema or bowling," said Frederikke Rasmussen (06). Another difference is, "The hallways are always crowded and the day is longer and the breaks are only five minutes long and you don't get to go outside during the school day," said Sophia Falkenburger (06). "PHHS is so much bigger and our schedules are so much different," said Fabienne Meier (06).

Popular places to meet the exchange students outside of school were The Raven Coffee House, or the lake if weather permitted. At school students could find them in art, working as teacher aides, and practicing Spanish.

Mia Aselmeyer (06), Fabienne Meier (06), Frederikke Rasmussen (06), and Ditte Hansen (06) shine like stars at the Hollywood Homecoming Dance.

Bundled up for a night of Halloween fun, Sophia Falkenburger (06) dresses up as a pirate.

Experiencing carving a pumpkin in America are Ditte Hansen (06), Fabienne Meier (06), and Frederikke Rasmussen (06).

Steering The Rest

With the excitement of Homecoming, the class officers became busier by the minute. They had to work with their classes to create a float design and book a building site for the two weeks of construction. Along with float building, the officers had to get their peers to sign up for the competitions in the Games Assembly.

Once Homecoming was over, the class officers turned their attention to fundraisers and activities. The seniors contemplated Community Rewards and fundraiser dodge ball games and finished their plans for senior activities. The juniors worked on selling PHHS ornaments and designed their "Big Red Christmas" entry for the Festival of Trees. The sophomores planned to collect class dues. The freshman focused on electing their officers.

Senior Class Officers: Vice President Tiffany Hering, President Ashley Bowden, and Secretary Brianna Chapman.

Junior Class Officers: President Angelina Taylor, Vice President/Treasurer Tiffany Hunter, Historian Amber Hunter, Vice President Kathy Weller, and Secretary Jessica Bukowski.

MR. H. RONALD WOLLEN

Mr. Wollen's early education started at Nokomis Elementary, then Chippewa Middle School, and PHHS. Next Mr. Wollen attended St. Clair Community College where he received an Associate Degree in Advertising Design. Continuing his education he went to Wayne State University where he graduated with a Bachelors Degree of Science and a Masters Degree in Educational Leadership with thirty hours of School Administration.

Mr. Wollen started his teaching career in 1973 at Washington Intermediate School in Port Huron. He taught art classes and as he gained seniority he taught reading and computer classes.

He moved into an administrative position when he became an assistant principal at Woodrow Wilson

Elementary School, a position he held for five months. Then, he moved over to Central Middle School where he performed his duties as assistant principal for fifteen months. Following those fifteen months he moved on to Port Huron High School.

After six years as an assistant principal at Port Huron High School, Mr. Wollen became the principal of Chippewa Middle School. He remained principal there for three years. After Dr. Crosby retired as Port Huron High School's principal, Mr. Wollen applied for and was appointed to the position.

The most challenging thing about being the principal at Port Huron High School, according to Mr. Wollen, is his desire for the students of Port Huron High School to be successful not only in academics, but in life.

Mr. Wollen feels the best thing about being principal at Port Huron High School is having the opportunity to work with students.

Mr. Wollen's goals for Port Huron High School are to continue its pride, tradition and excellence, along with his personal goal that all students will be successful and learn.

"This is one of the finest high schools in the state of Michigan, Bar None," Mr. Wollen tells students, faculty, and parents. This statement is exemplified through PHHS's recent national award for 100 years of Continuous North Central Accreditation.

During school hours he enjoys dealing with the students at Port Huron High School, but in his free moments, Mr. Wollen loves spending time with his family and playing golf.

Teacher Collaboration

It's Two for Tuesday--PH style. This year the staff dished up a new schedule. Students got a regular school day, plus a special morning list of activities at 7:37 on Tuesdays.

Looking for a way to improve student learning, teachers began collaborating starting November 15, 2005. Using a complex calendar of meetings for the teachers, and special events for the students, the process began.

Students had the opportunity to take up tests, attend club meetings, listen to guest speakers, do homework, use the internet, attend class meetings, talk with counselors, etc. Several classrooms, the Media Center, and the cafeteria were open for their academic business.

While the students were engaged in their choice of possibilities, teachers were meeting with colleagues who taught the same class in an effort to reach similar educational goals. Faculty members not at those collaborative sessions supervised students' gatherings. The administrators helped with sessions and supervision.

Mrs. Lori Symko, Ms. Laura Foster, Mrs. Deb Hesterberg spent part of their summer vacation learning collaboration techniques.

Constructing Hollywood!

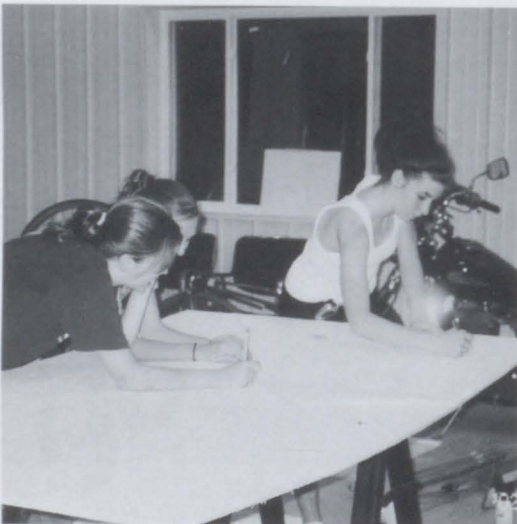

People scream, cameras flash and Marilyn Monroe floats toward the crowd as she rides the junior's winning float.

The Hollywood theme came to life from the initial inspiration of Student Council, who selected the theme, and each class whose steering committees designed the individual pencil drawings from which the floats were created.

The lifesize Marilyn Monroe stole the gaze of the onlookers at the annual Homecoming Parade; it also stole first place in the Homecoming Float Building Competition. Made mostly of papier mache and chicken wire, the float took forty-five hours to build.

Tiffany Hunter (07) said that the best thing about float building was "interacting with people and getting a job done."

The sophomore float base reads, "PHHS beat Mott" as it sits at Marty's Auto, their construction site, on Dove Road.

Sophomores Melissa Bailey, and Brenna Clark work diligently on their second high school class float.

Action! The seniors took the stage with their larger-than-life Movie Marker. Made of chicken wire and plastic flowering; the senior float came in second place.

And the Oscar goes to... the sophomores; made of painted styrofoam with a daub or two of glue, the six foot five inch statue grabbed third place. It took a mere two hours to form the statuette, but the full two weeks to add the finishing touches, including the rotating platform for Oscar. One mishap occurred when a large pothole shook the float and loosened the head of the statue.

"Now Featuring a Big Red Victory!" The freshman class float was the fourth place winner for the contest. The giant Movie Reel was made of chicken wire, papier mache, and fabric.

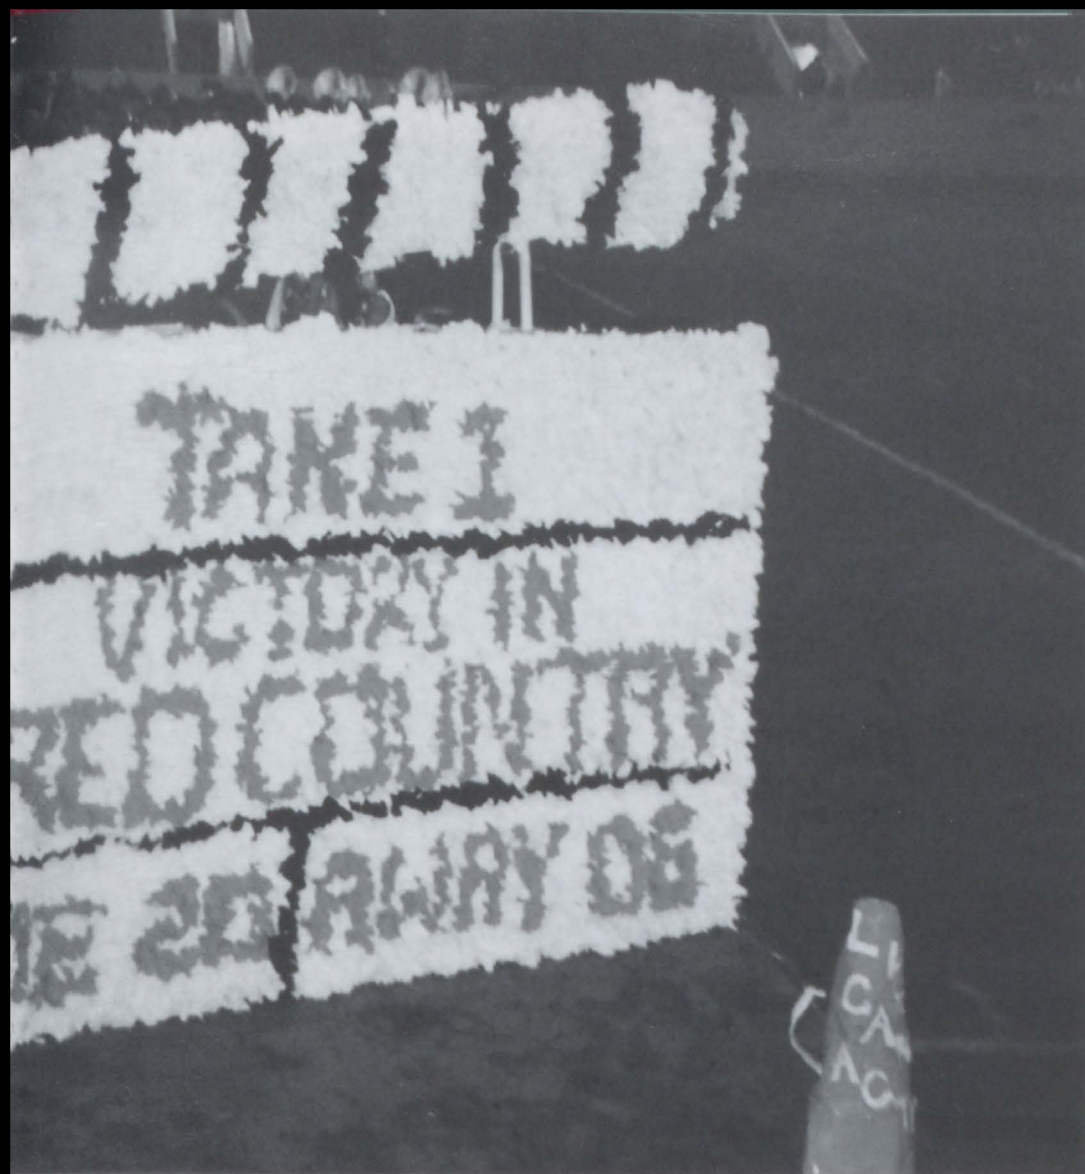

According to freshman Heather Hillman, the best thing about float building was "hanging out with my friends!"

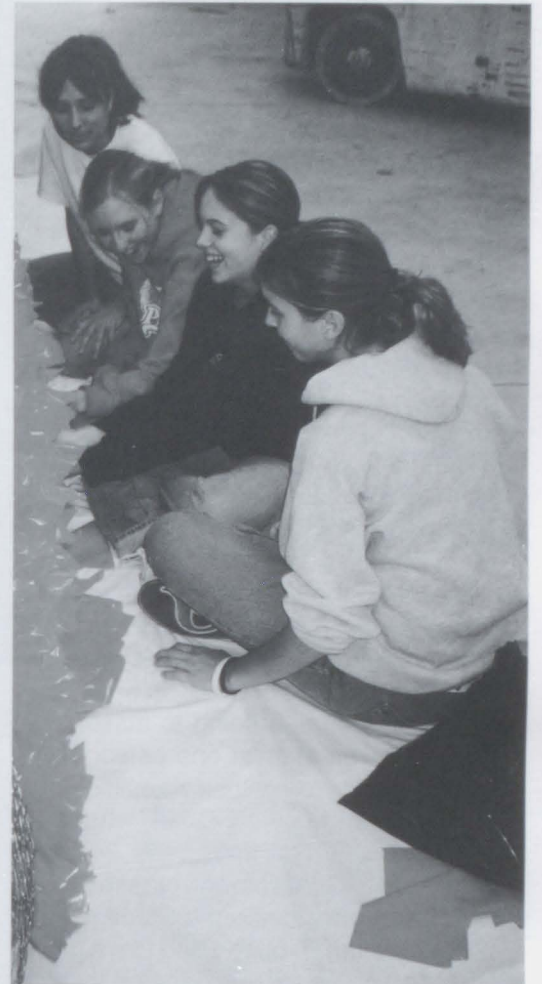

The junior's float was a lifesize Marilyn Monroe made of papier mache.

Papier mache is messy. Juniors Brittany Gilbert and Jessica Bukowski need to go get cleaned up.

The hard working senior class float builders take a break.

Jacqueline Shonka, Brenna Clark, and Colleen Lum are all work and no play, well, maybe a little play.

Juniors take a second to congratulate themselves Float Building Competition of 2005 with "Big Red for the hard work that led to a first place in the Walk of Fame 2007."

Seniors Abraham Klimas and Sarah Cook work on flowering their float.

The Final Countdown

The class of 2006 counted down the days until May 25 when their high school careers finally came to a close. "Senior year went by so fast," stated Kathleen Horning. "I can't believe it's over," said Laura Gleason.

Throughout the year, several college representatives from all across Michigan visited Port Huron High to inform students about college choices.

In the final high school year class leaders stressed the importance of giving back to the community. When the Red Cross ran a blood drive, seniors volunteered to donate their blood. "I gave blood because it is what I can do as a human being to make sure that maybe at least one person can get a chance to live their life a little bit better," said Matthew Doan, who gave blood numerous times.

The U.S. Government classes challenged each other in the Student Council's annual Canned Food Drive. All the food collected was donated to the Salvation Army. "My class was not offered any extra credit points, I just explained to them that on Thanksgiving some people will not have food on their tables," stated Ms. Kris Pettengill, whose students brought in 65% of the collected food.

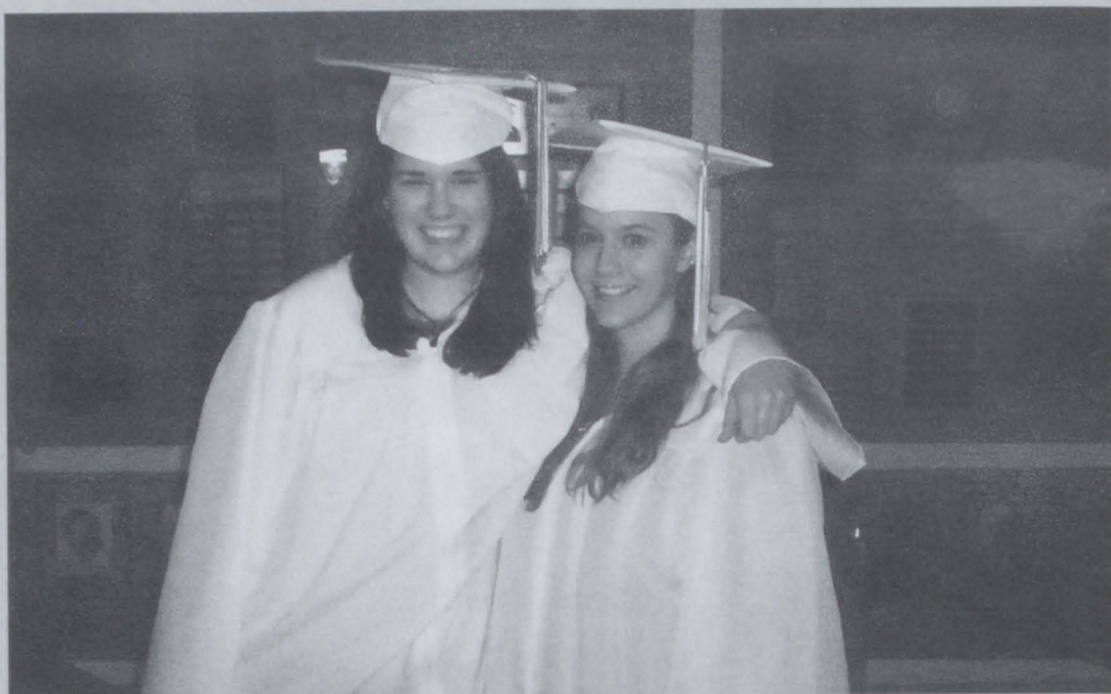

Senior year was marked by special graduation events and tasks.

On Decemeber 1, the U.S. Government classes rounded up to have their height measured in order to be fitted to their caps and gowns.

After hours of practice, the seniors were prepared to march into the gym dressed in their caps and gowns to be watched by family and friends.

On May 19, seniors and their dates dressed elegantly for their last formal dance as high school students. Prom was held at the beautiful Fore Lakes Golf Course.

At the commencement ceremony on June 14, McMorran Arena was filled with the bright colors of red and white as the seniors walked across the stage one by one to collect their diplomas and to finally realize that high school was over.

Mrs. Karen Jamison's U.S. Government and Current Issues studnets Stacy Sullivan (06) and Hannah Zegelian (06) get ready for the big event, wearing their caps and gowns for graduation.

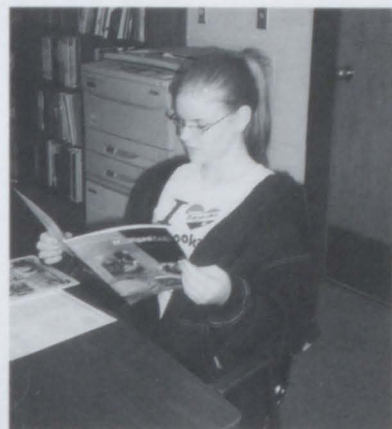

While at Homecoming, seniors Jerome Bankston and Naesa Collier sneak a picture with their U.S. Government teacher Mrs. Trish Ford.

Frank Robert Anglebrant seeks information from Belfour's representative, Mr. Shurkey, on cap and gown measurements.

Reading a brochure about college opportunities, Sara Walker (06) prepares to make a college decision.

Not only were Ms. Kris Pettengill and Mrs. Trish Ford U.S. Government teachers, both are the Senior Class Advisors.

Senior Derek Cook, a student of Mrs. Trish Ford's U.S. Government class, helps stack food during the Canned Food Drive.

Filling in the chicken wire, Casey Finch (06) and Sidney Hayden (06) showed their senior spirit by decorating their Homecoming float.

The Board Room

During the National Honor Society Induction Ceremony, the five officers Blair McDowell (06), Tierra Raglyn (06), Sonja Bailey (06), Tiffany Hering (06), and Ashley Bowden (06) start off the ceremony by candle lighting.

ACADEMIC DIVISION

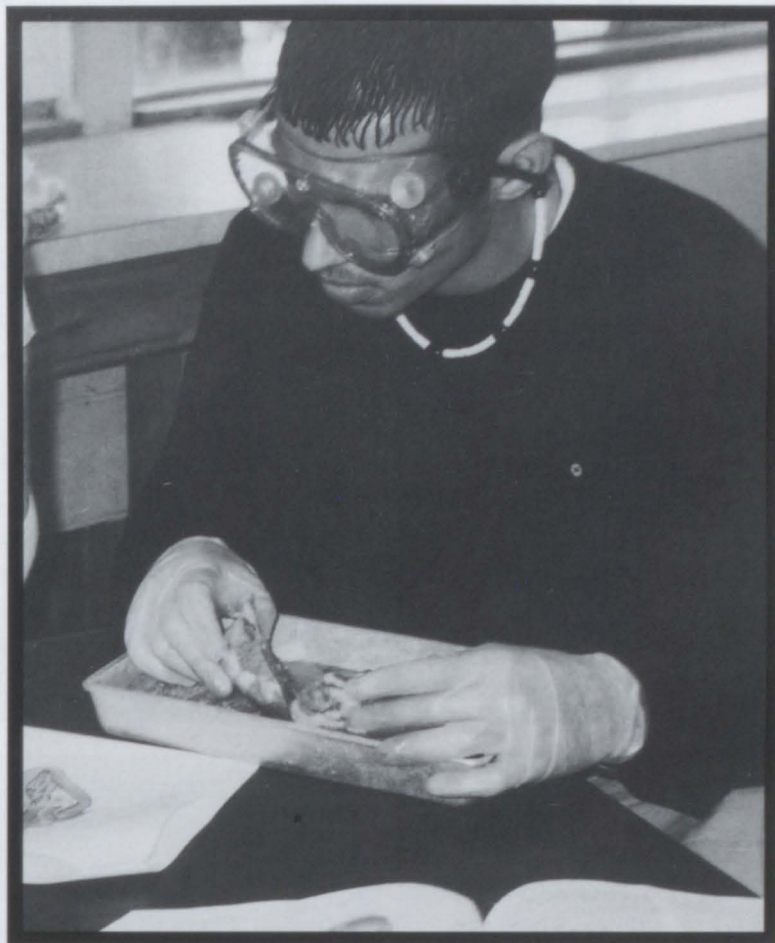

In white chalk the teacher handwrote the day's assignment on the green board, a visual reminder to go with the verbal instructions. Chalk symbolizes the educational process, removed easily to ready the board for the newest lesson, moving students one step at a time to the next level.

Academic excellence, a goal through 100 years of North Central Accreditation, topped the list of aspirations. The lesson plans for classes called for projects, presentations and experiments to augment the typical book and written work. An extension of that included fine arts offerings: band, vocal, instrument, and drama classes. As the eraser whisked away the writing, flakes and flecks fell and settled on the ledge, a dusty reminder of the accomplishments of the days and years.

Drum major, Tyler Osburn (07), leads the Big Red Marching Machine down 20th Street at the beginning of the 2005 Homecoming Parade.

With heart in hand Christopher Ellis (06) dissects a heart for one of Mrs. Patricia Panzer's experiments.

Mrs. Denise McCaffrey's Performing Arts' Class showed off their talent for the fifth graders at Roosevelt Elementary School while re-inacting Romeo and Juliet.

My Way

Projects and presentations invigorated instruction by letting students learn by doing. Many teachers like to reinforce lessons with projects.

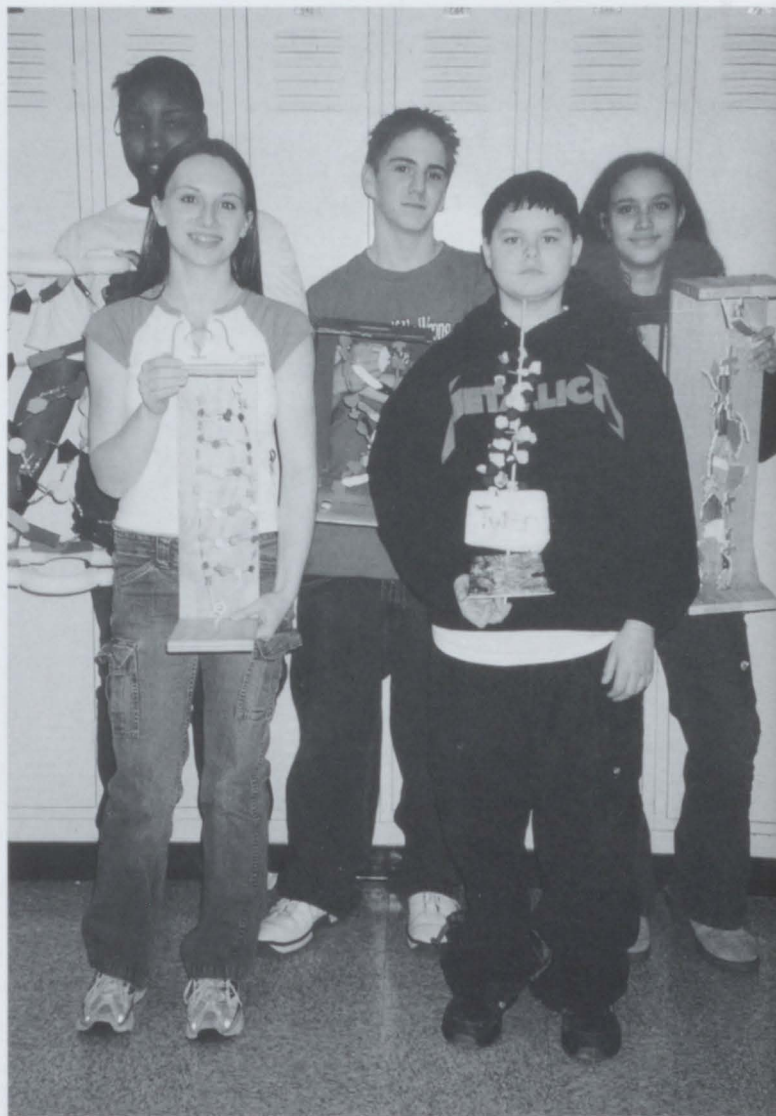

Mr. Kurt Baker assigned his A.P. History class a few projects during the year. Their first was a debate about women's rights. That project took about two weeks to research, prepare, and debate. "The hardest part of the project was bringing up relevant data during the debate," said Thomas Fielitz (08). Another project they did was a research project at the end of the year. He assigned the class to certain groups to research a specific era. The group had to present the most important historical facts to the class.

Ms. Robyn Steven's American Literature Class acted out a play to help students understand the Salem Witch Trials. This presentation was used to reinforce the information they learned in The Crucible.

Another teacher who often assigned projects was Mr. Rock Stevens. In Psychology class these included a taste test, a blind-fold walk around the school, and how to analyze dreams.

Students also built triangular kites out of paper and straws and later flew them outside in Ms. Kelly Blay's Geometry Class.

Norianna Brown (07), Lorraine Shepley (07), Kyle Steele (07), Taylor Clinkscales (07) and Tonya Brockitt (06) show off their DNA models from biology class.

On March 14 Jordyn McCormick (06) slices a pie in Ms. Robyn Stevens Geometry class, Pie Day. They were learning about fractions, and Ms. Robyn Stevens decided that this activity would help the students with the lesson.

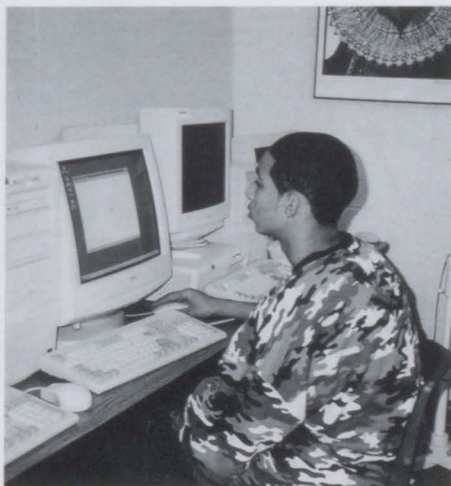

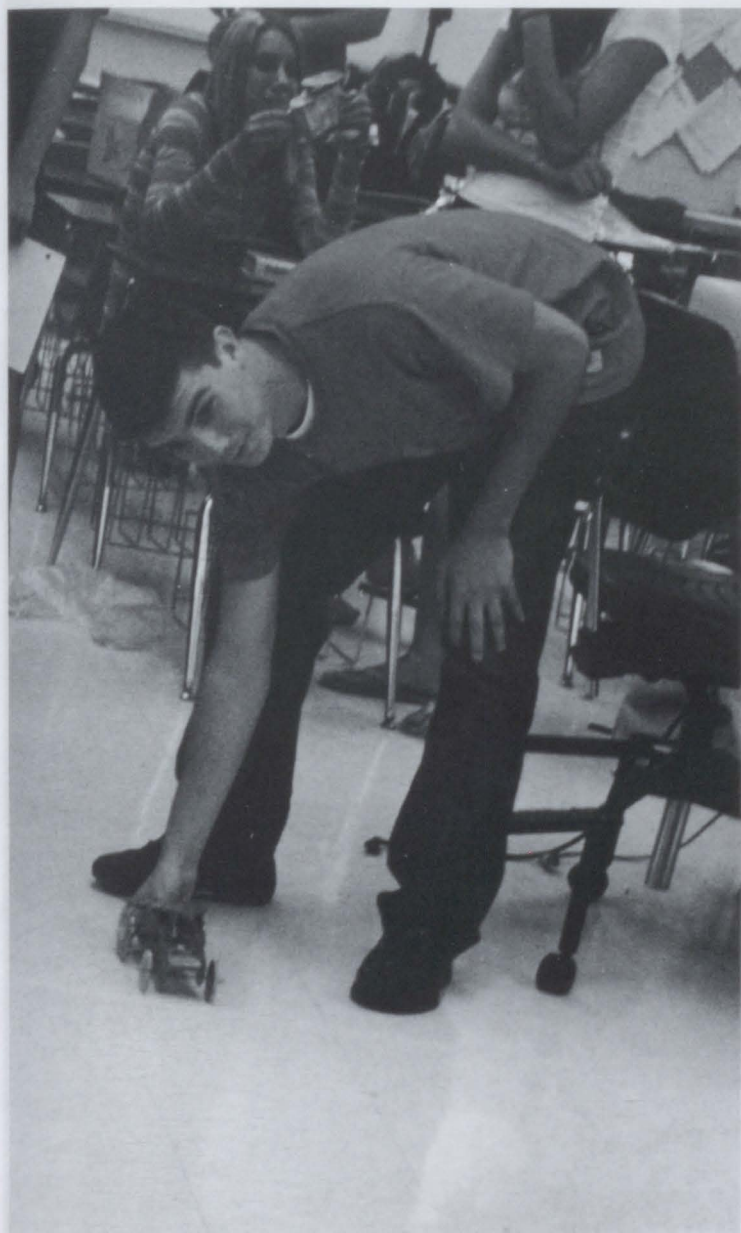

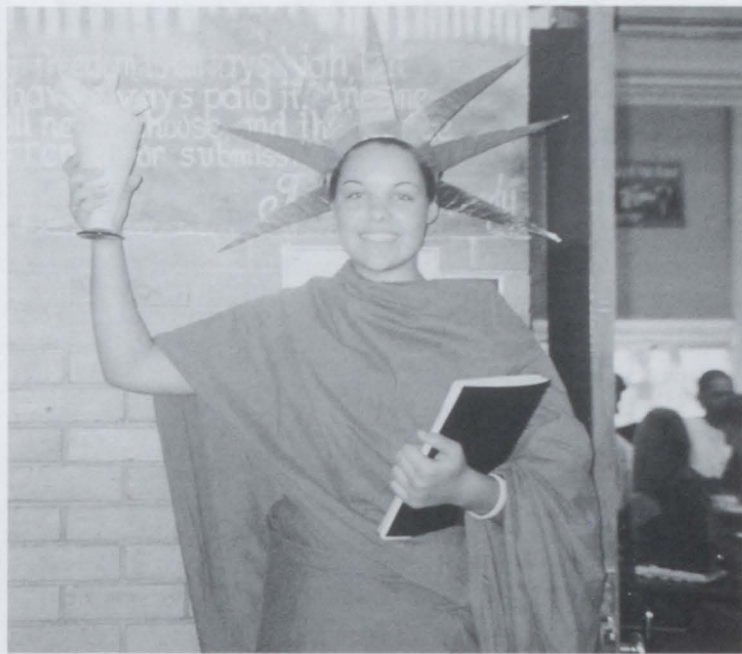

Michelle Mallon (07) channels Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. during an A.P. History project. Shannon Robbins (07) asked her questions to help inform the rest of the class.

Performing the classic tale The Odyssey are Jessica Bayless (07), Angela Wallisch (06), and Luke Sheldon (07).

Latisha Mitchell (06) dresses up for Constitution Day to represent her favorite part of the constitution.

Every year the Biology Class makes cell models to show how each part of the cell works together and helps the cell function.

Using the computer, Timothy Taylor (07) does research for a Writing from Literature project in Mrs. Mary Jane Zauner's class.

Jacob Beninati (06) checks his lines before releasing his mouse trap car. The idea behind the project was to show how motion works using laws of physics.

Away from the Chalkboard

Teachers were fueled by a simple idea on a chalkboard, that then evolved into something much clearer. Mainly used by physical and social science classes, experiments became a vital part of the curriculum.

Teachers found that experiments developed knowledge and allowed the students to understand an abstract idea through a learn-by-doing method.

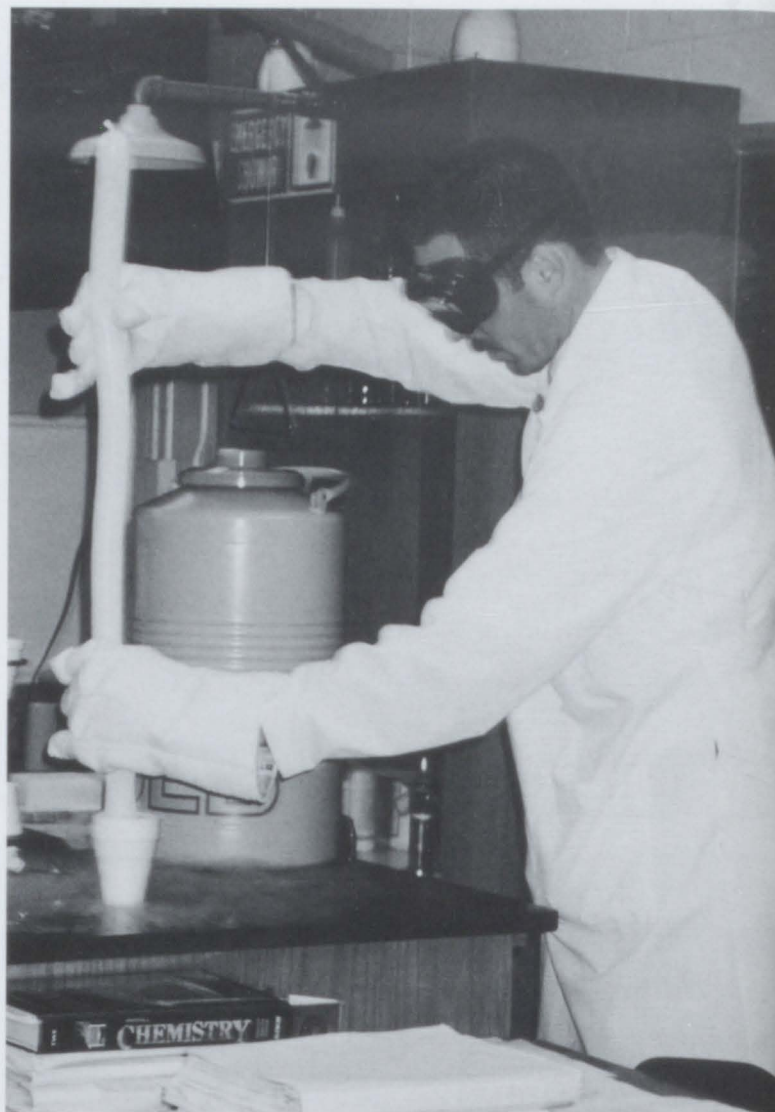

"I used them (experiments) frequently," said Mr. Robert Weiss. Especially fundamental to his chemistry classes were classroom labs involving unique chemical reactions and formulas.

Mr. Glenn Meek taught his students a great deal about the laws of physics as they raced their cars, powered only by a mouse trap. "It was fun, but difficult," said physics student Aaron Grattan (05).

Each year, the Anatomy and Physiology classes dissect cats. The smell from the classrooms was certainly overpowering. The Anatomy and Physiology classes also dissected sheep's hearts.

Taking students away from the chalkboard and into the laboratory, was critical according to teachers and students who use hands-on learning, by way of experiments, to demonstrate important concepts and ideas.

During CP Chemistry, Mr. Robert Weiss uses liquid nitrogen to shrink a balloon.

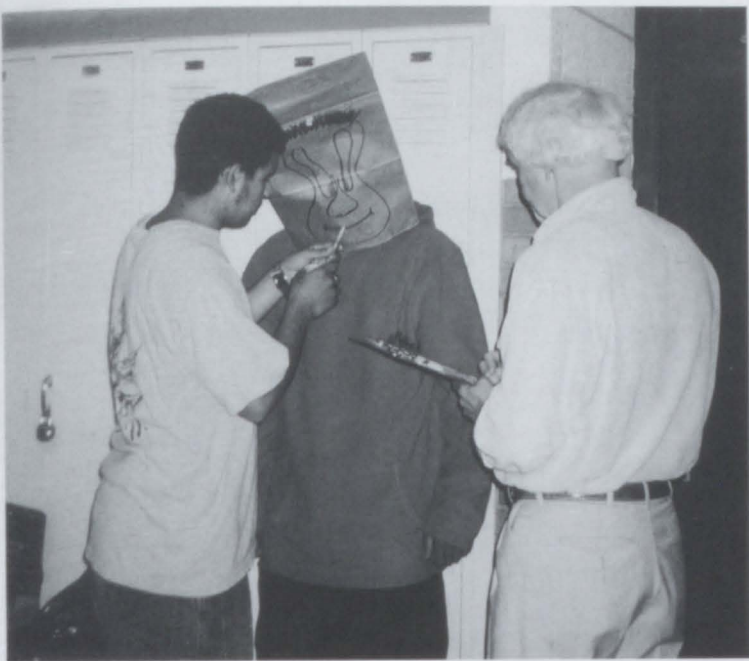

Viewing a piece of hair under the microscope, Joshua Walters (08) and C. Alexander Newby (08) find the answer to their bellwork question.

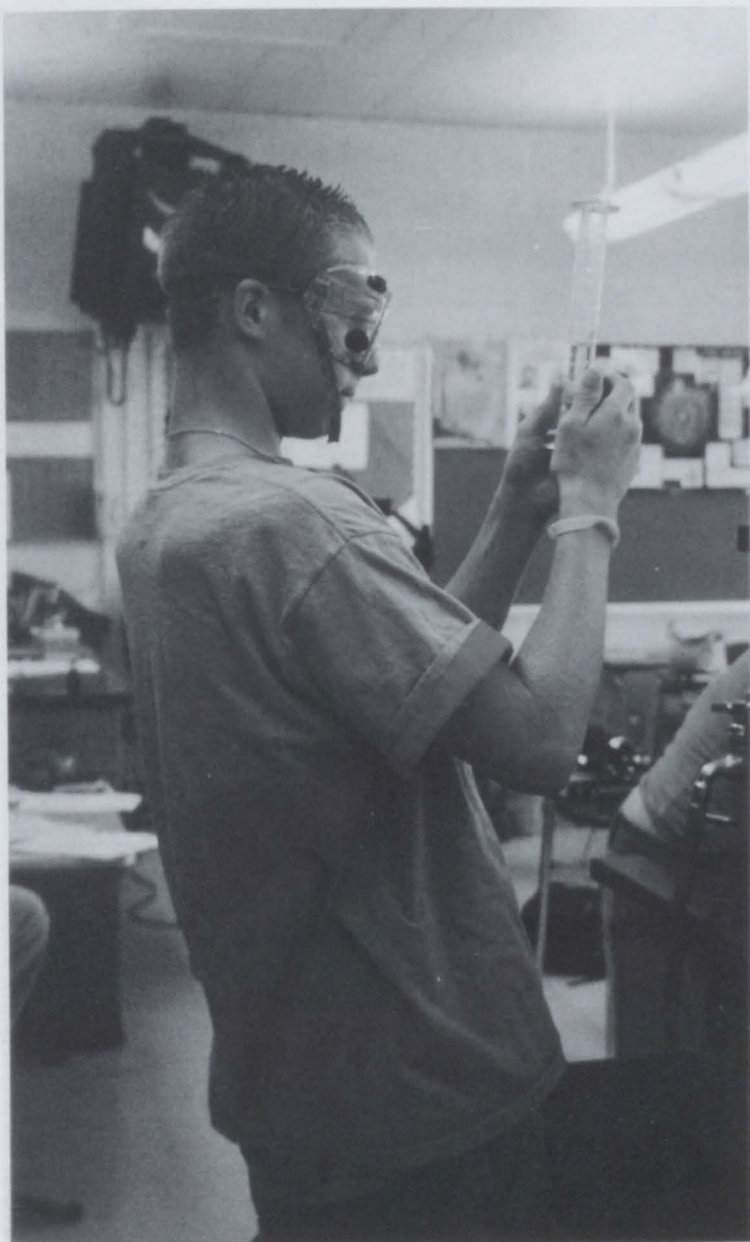

Slicing a sheep's heart open, Jena Jackson (06) and Elizabeth Perkins (07) search for certain parts of the heart and distinct veins.

Testing their tastebuds, Abel Aviles (07) gives Michael Harper (06) a drink of a certain type of pop to see if the drink can be determined by only one sense.

During a lab, Destani Blatt (07), Amanda Tallmadge (07) and Courtney Dzieglewicz (08) form three liquid layers with distinctive interphases.

Chantel Kesner (05) examines a cat before dissection occurs.

Over several days, Emily Mohr (08) takes notes on the spreading of bacteria in her Ecology Jar.

Learning how to read a graduated cylinder, Evan Prout (08) examines the amount of water collected.

More Info

There are many different things going on in the Media Center at once every day. TV Productions, researching, classes, and announcements all happen in the Media Center.

There used to be two media specialists, but this year due to cut backs there was only one. Mr. Jeff McCabe is the main librarian, and he has aides that assist him throughout the day, so he is able to run the library smoothly. His assistants help with simple tasks to keep the library organized; like checking in and out books, running errands, and putting books back on the shelves.

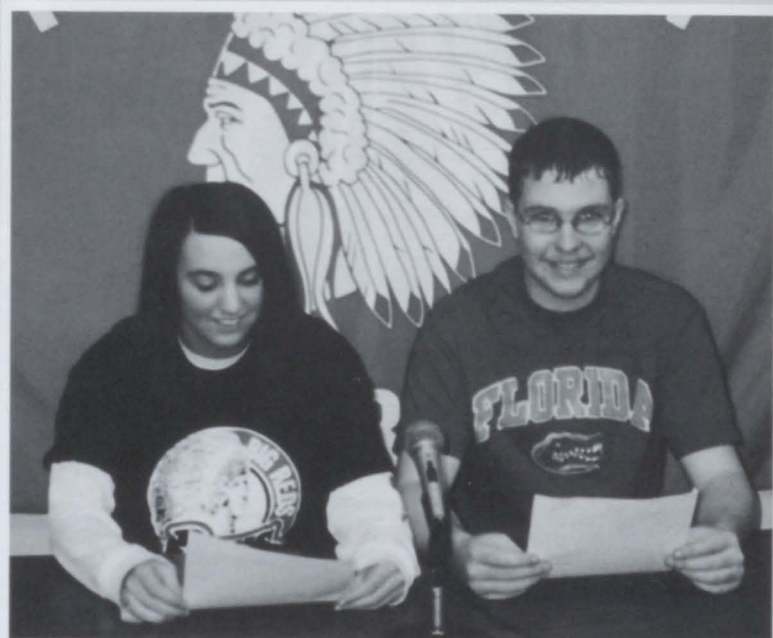

Students use the Media Center for the reference books and computers, to study for tests and other homework assignments. Some catch up on the newest fiction for entertainment or use the resource books to fulfill a class assignment.

There are twenty students who participate in TV Productions. In order to be in TV Productions students had to be at least sophomores. Jerome Bankston (06) said, "I have learned many different shooting techniques along with projects that put you in real shooting situations." Some students in this class also got to do remotes, which is where they get to help the professionals tape sporting events for Channel 6.

William Currier (06) readies the camera and checks to make sure everything will run smoothly.

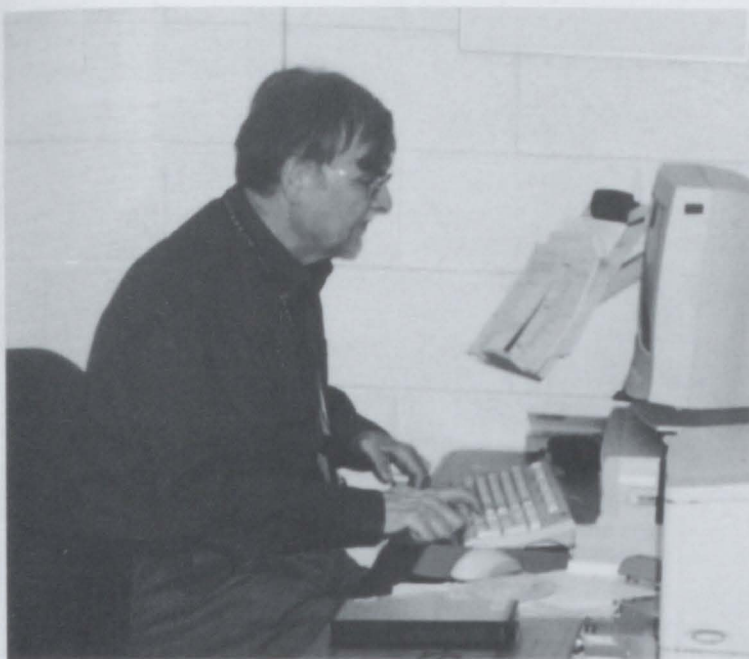

Starting off for her future career as a cinematographer, Haleigh Bookrum (07) gets ready for the daily announcements.

Here's Ashley Fine (06) and Roy Gardner (06) live with the Morning Announcements.

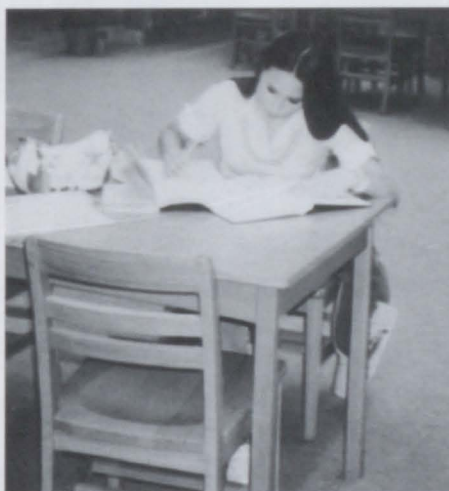

After checking to see which students are present, Mr. Jeff McCabe updates his records on the computer.

On the computers, Erica Grant (06), Katelyn Hunger (06), and Joshua Miller (06) try to get their work done.

During third hour, Megan Cook (07) makes sure the camera is working correctly.

Using the Media Center, Stephanie Lash (07) studies for a test.

Mr. Stayer shows Carolyn Meyer (07) how to use the TV Production's technology.

Valuable Assistance

How do teachers get help while students get a homework-free hour and no exams? The answer is teacher aides.

Assistants help do things like correcting papers for teachers, organizing material, filing papers, and running errands.

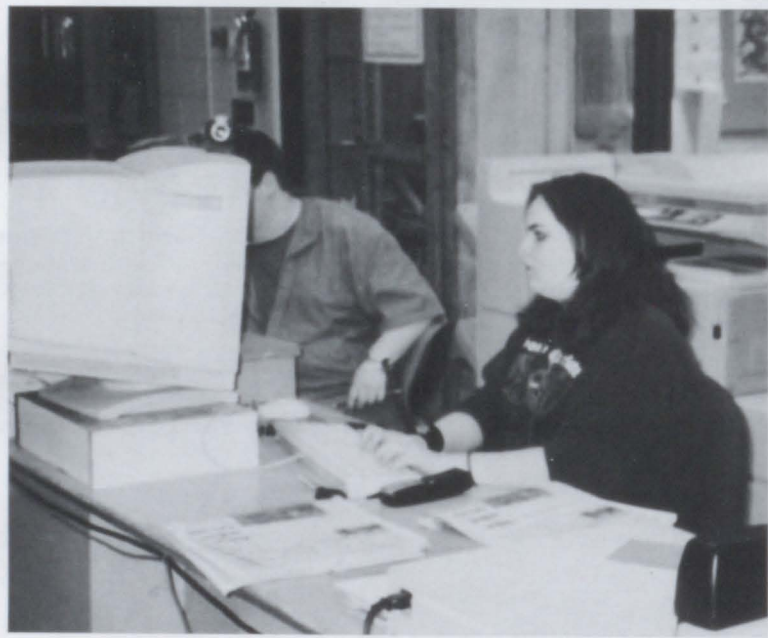

According to Mrs. Rose Burgess, "A teacher aide is a breath of fresh air in the midst of a busy day." Teachers liked having a trustworthy aide.

Students chose to become teacher aides for different reasons. For some it went with their desired career, others were interested in being helpful. Holly Gross (06) said, "I thought this would be a good experience for me because I'm going into nursing and I like to help with people." Students also wanted to learn new things.

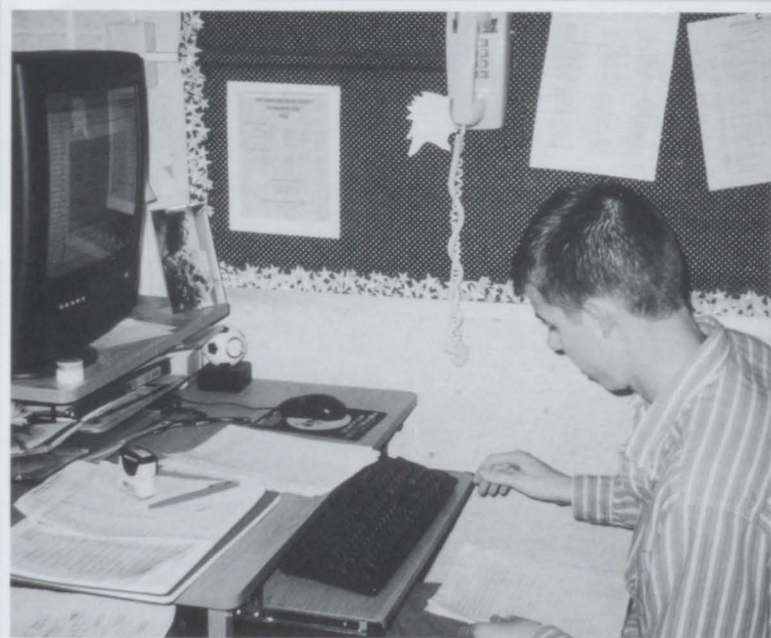

Teacher aides were not the only type of aide. A student could be an office aide, which involved filing papers and running passes. Or they could become a library aide, where they could help set up movies and other technology.

"It builds responsibility as well as character in a student." This is why Mrs. Andrea Malachi-Wansedel chose to have a teacher aide. Mrs. Rose Burgess believes, "Students need to rise to the ability to organize, create, and help take a lead."

"Good Morning, Port Huron High School!" Latisha Mitchell works in the main office answering the phone.

Joshua Miller (06) and Jackie Launstein-Bevins (06) concentrate on their computer work as Mr. McCabe's aides.

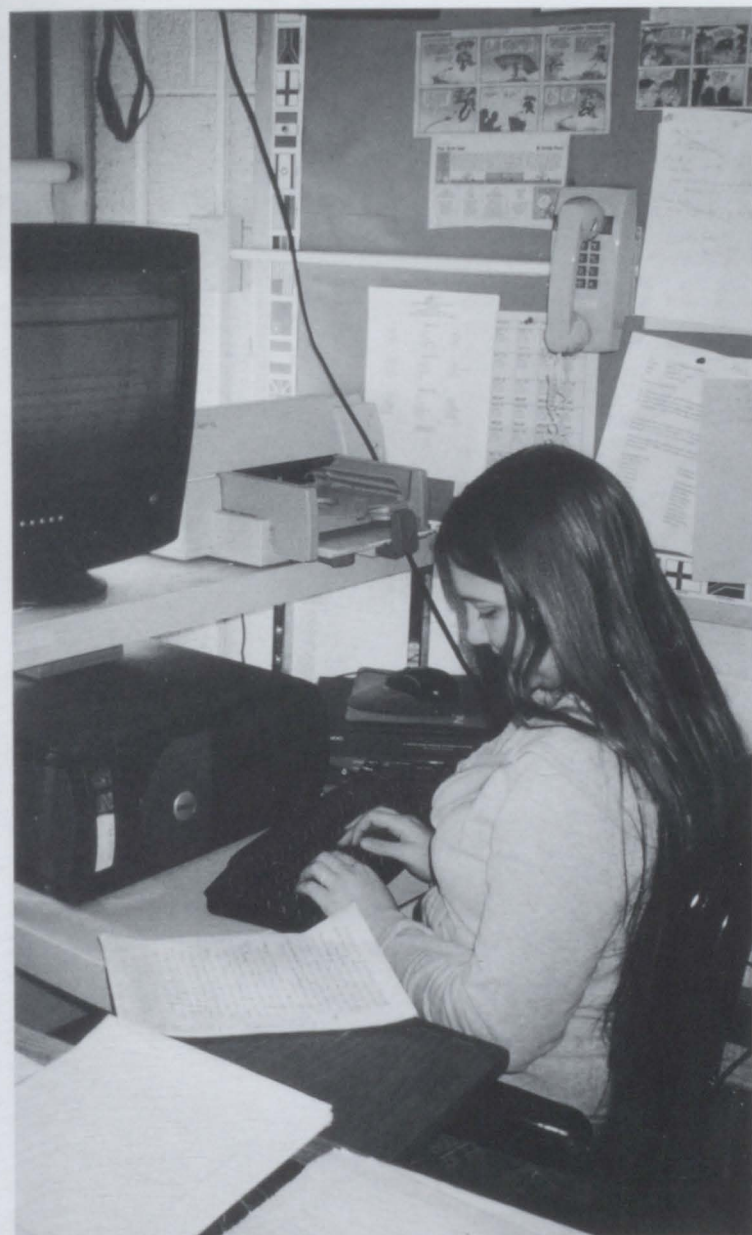

Mr Dave Reno's fifth hour aide, Adam Luttrell (06) helps record grades into the computer.

As one of his duties as a Media Center aide, Joshua Miller (06) checks a book out to Philip Karl (07).

While working on the attendance for the day, Kyle Ruck (06) takes a time out for a picture.

Kaylen Evenson (08), Chantele Foster (06), and Oramel Burnham (07) work as library aides for Mr. McCabe during sixth hour.

Angela Wallisch (06) grades papers for Mr. Burgess during fifth hour.

During Mr. Kurt Baker's US History class, junior Haley Genaw types a report on the computer.

Uno, Vwei, Trois

There's more than one way to say everything. Taking a foreign language helped students to learn not only the language but also the culture. Spanish, German, and French were the three classes available this year.

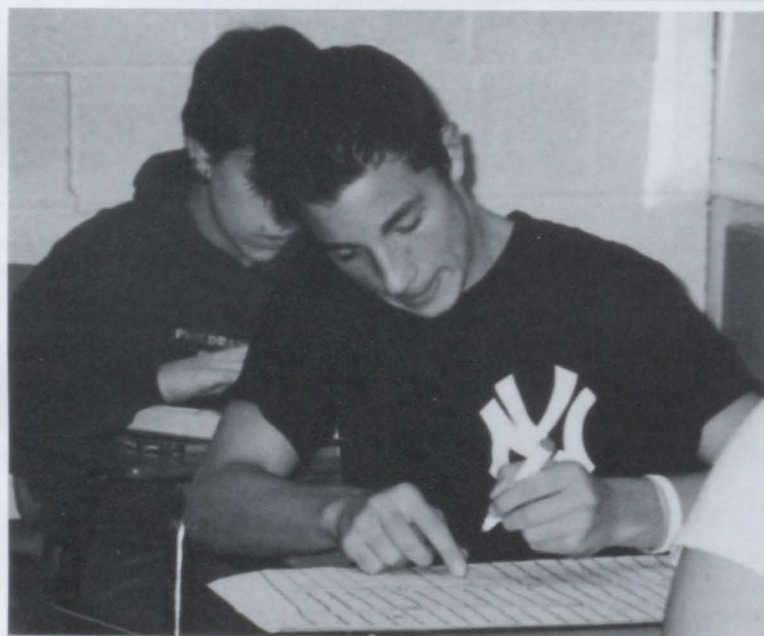

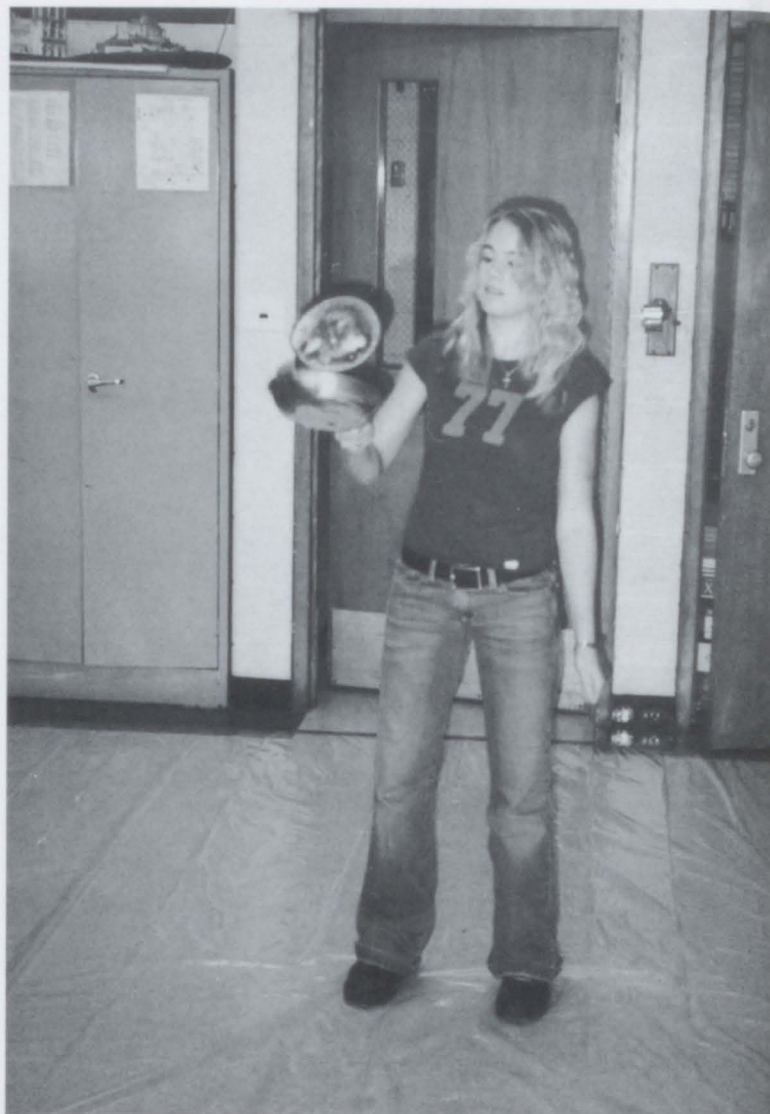

Fiesta Day was the major event for Spanish class members. Students brought in Spanish or Mexican food and each class period had a buffet style meal. Judges decided which dish was the best in each hour. Mr. Timothy Owens also took the students on a field trip to a restaurant called Xochimilco in Mexican Town, Detroit.

German students sold Advent Calendars with German chocolate as their fundraiser for their annual trip to Frankenmuth. The students also shared their foreign language experiences with students through the Distance Learning televisions.

Mr. Keith Hodge taught the French courses. Everyone celebrated Saint Day, and students brought in food and shared, just like they would have on their birthdays.

Marcia Williams (07) chose to take French class this year because, "Learning the meaning of different words, and seeing how different it is from English, is my favorite part of the class."

Skillfully shooting the crepes into the air, Tiffany Hering (06) learns what cooking is like in the French culture.

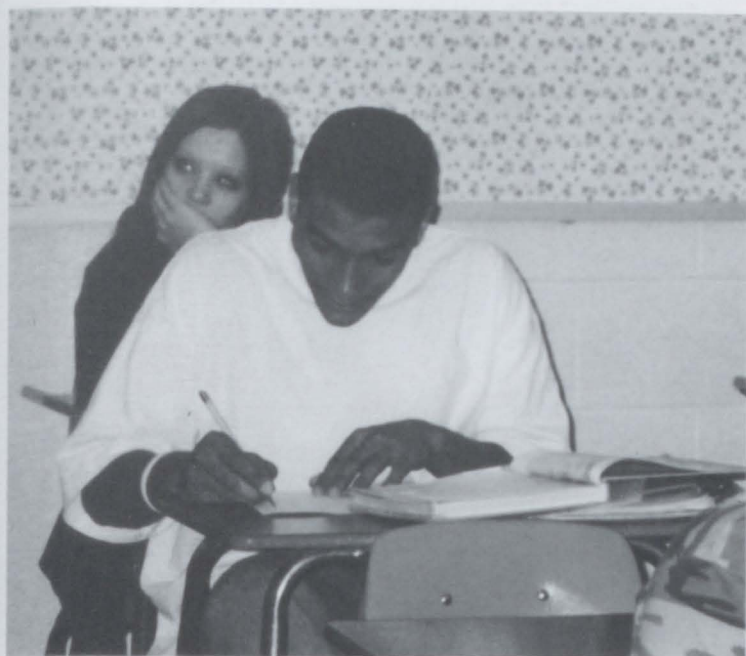

With a steady hand, Samuel Seppo (08) puts the finishing touches on his seasonal calendar for Mrs. Renee Hinkley's sixth hour Spanish Class.

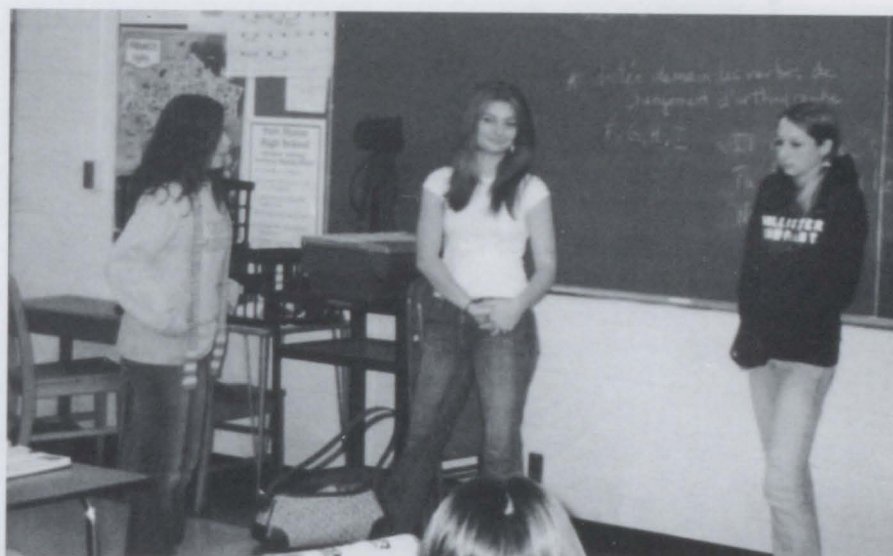

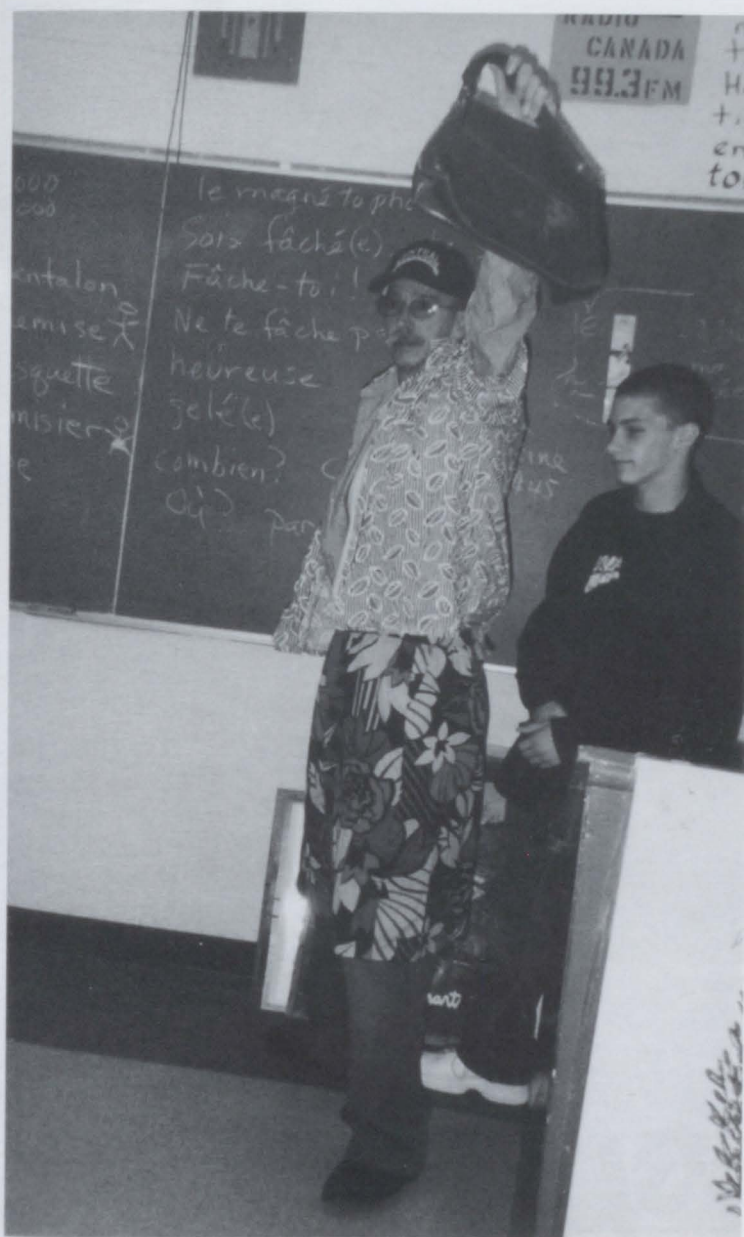

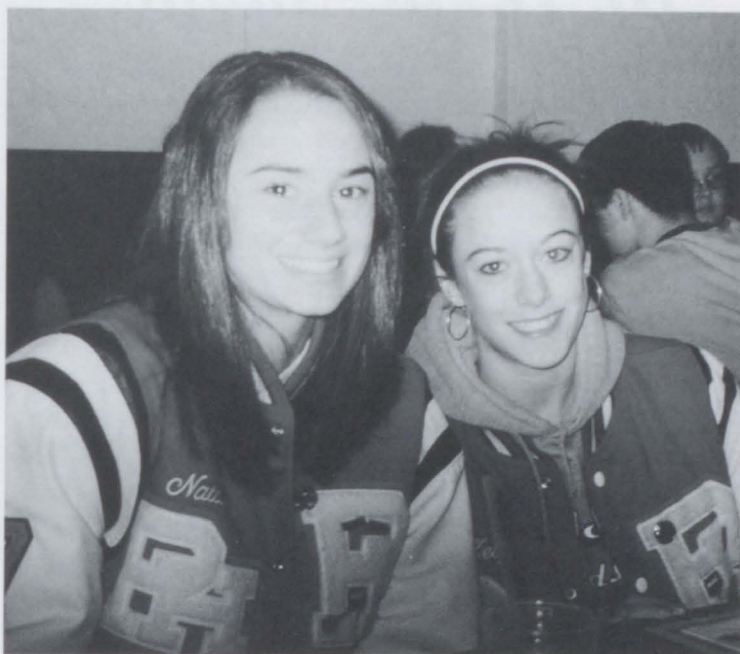

Jordan Gutierrez (07) finishes up her work during Spanish class with Mr. Timothy Owens.

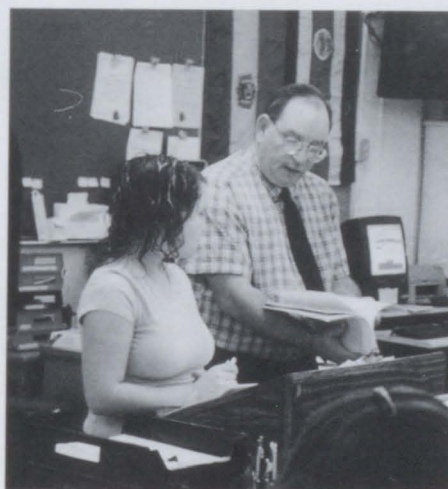

Jordan Brown (08) concentrates on finishing up his book work in his Spanish class.

In Detroit at Xochilmilco, Natasha Nutt (07) and Kelly Fuchshofer (07) dine with Mr. Timothy Owens and other Spanish students.

During third hour with Mr. Keith Hodge, Samantha Secory (08), Brittany Gilbert (07), and Casandra Bennett (08) practice their "French Speaking" while running through their skits.

Kendra Jansen (07) helps Mr. Timothy Owens during one of their Spanish Club meetings.

Mr. Keith Hodge teaches students about French attire.

We're in Shape

The Peanuts Gang, a popular comic by Charles Schultz, sang cheerfully while exercising the brain and body. Hopefully students at PHHS can say the same after taking Health and one of the many Physical Education classes offered.

In Health, students covered a variety of subjects such as pregnancy, parenting, and proper nutrition. Twenty-five students said that the most important part about Health class is learning how to keep your body healthy and protecting it from diseases or illnesses.

Although only one year of gym is required, the fun does not have to end there. Other physical education classes are offered.

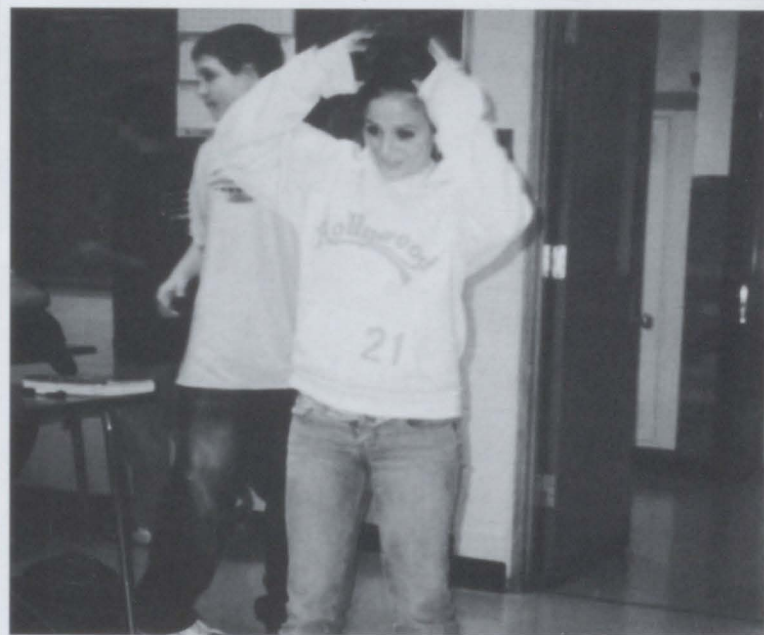

At PHHS, students could take everything from Football Theory, to Weights and Aerobics. Students even had the option of taking Leadership Training, a class where they were taught to teach physical education. This class included warm up routines for general gym classes, supervising activities, and taking attendance. "It teaches you a lot about yourself, and also teaches you how to be pro-active," said Deaanah Brown (08).

"The goal of the Physical and Health Education Department is to give students information that will allow them to make informed choices to live long healthy lives," said Mr. Joe Gilbert who teaches both Health and gym.

Working as a team, Nicholle Ingles (07) and Samantha Jobbitt (08) pass a medicine ball back and forth in their Volleyball Theory Class.

Mr. Shawn Racignol's sixth hour General Gym Class gets ready to hike the ball during their football unit in the fall.

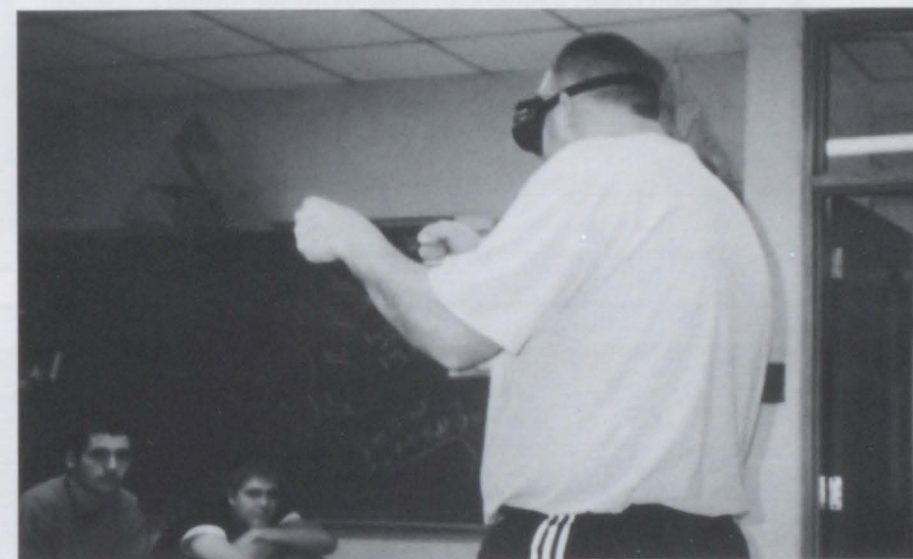

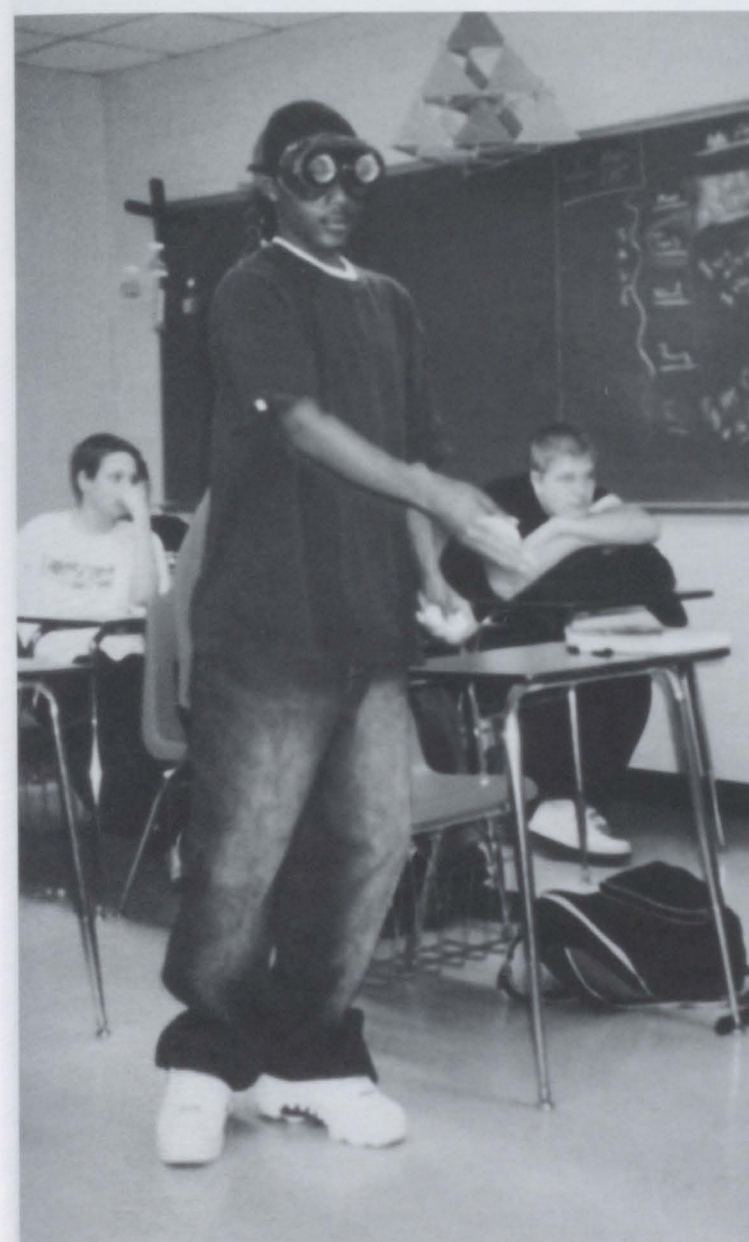

Walking the line, Andrea Covrea (09) slips on the intoxication goggles in Mr. Joe Gilbert's third hour Health Class.

Throwing a pitch for his General Gym Class, Mr. Shawn Racignol strikes out a player.

Ms. Elizabeth Brandt's Softball Theory Class plays by the rules outside on the diamond.

Mr. Joe Gilbert explains to the class the "Drunk Driver" activity.

Albert Gerow (09), Gary Murdick II (09), Cortez Kidd (09), Joseph Pellegrino (09), and Anthony Pelzer (09) discuss strategy during their general gym class.

Angelo Azeem (09) attempts to get home safely in the "Drunk Driver" game in Mr. Joe Gilbert's health class.

Other Knowledge

From information about the body's health to the future plans of the graduates, PHHS had diverse guest speakers. They were either professionals or people with life experiences, who came to the school and shared their knowledge.

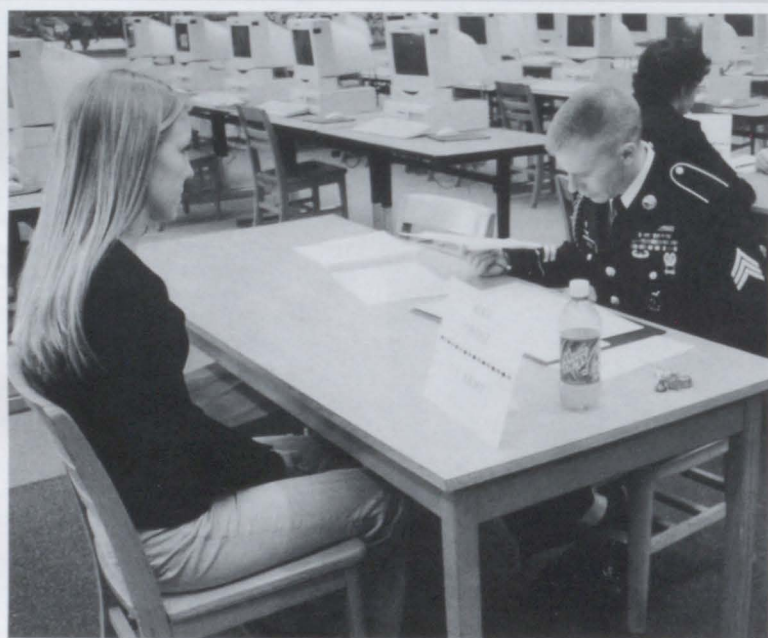

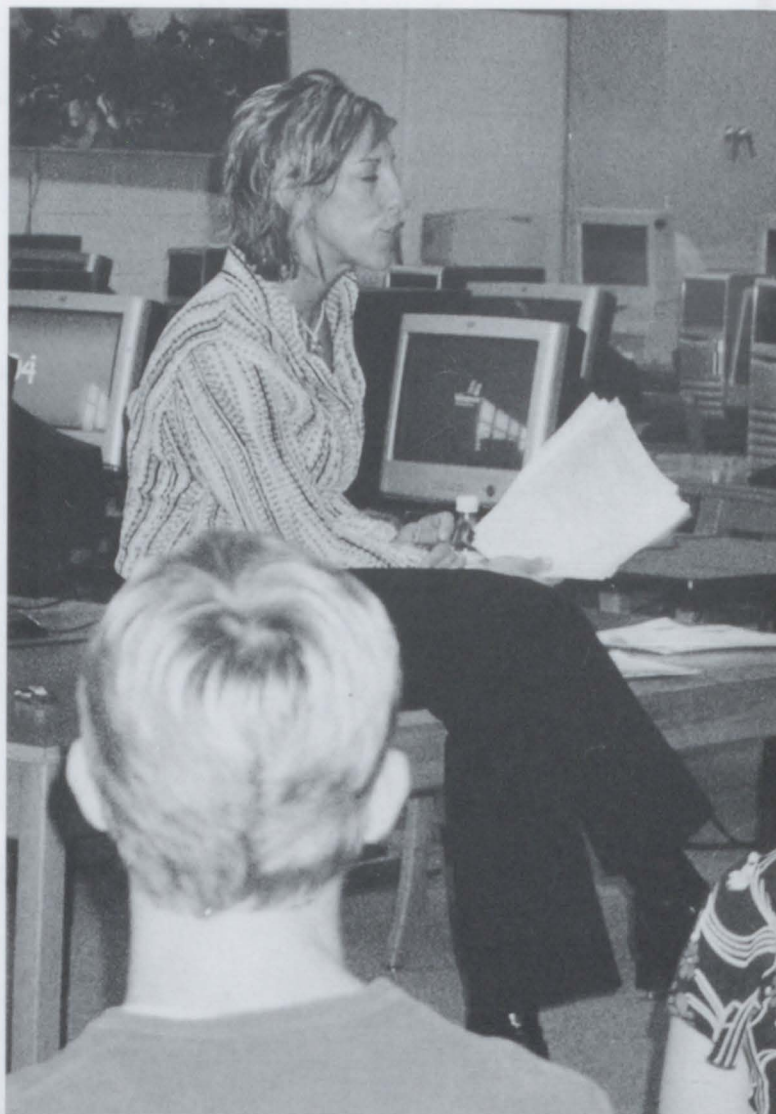

One informative guest speaker was Michelle Chicone of the St. Clair County Child Neglect and Abuse Council. She lectured seniors on "Just the Facts," telling them about real life situations like unprotected sex and sexual harrassment.

There weren't just educators as speakers; there were students, too. Westwood College student, Jamie Morgan came in to consult with the Class of 2005 about making the decision to go to college, or choosing the right one. Several other colleges sent representatives as well.

The Armed Forces occasionally set up tables in the lunch room to talk about a future with either of the military branches. Mr. Kurt Baker's American History classes invited a speaker to talk about Social Darwinism and cloning.

Sports Editor Jim Whymen and Chief Photographer, Tony Pitts from The Times Herald talked to Ms. Elizabeth Brandt's literature class on Career Day.

Talking about real high school situations, guest speaker Michelle Chicone discusses "Just the Facts" with the seniors.

Looking over portfolios, U.S. Army representative, Mike Orosz interviews Chelsea Kivel (05).

Working together, 2004-2005 seniors talk about solutions during the "Just the Facts" presentations.

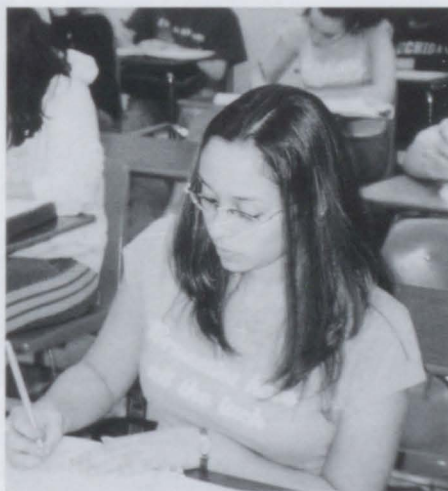

Focusing on the speaker, seniors attend a presentation given by the U.S. Army to explain the benefits of joining the Armed Forces.

During a guest speakers presentation, Courtney Jonseck (08) works on a worksheet provided.

Being interviewed by Baker College employee Dan Kenny, Eugene Edwards (05) presents his portfolio.

Working on projects, Jordan Gutierrez (07) takes notes from a guest speaker.

Seniors were paid a visit by Westwood College student Jamie Morgan. He came to discuss college choices and the cost of living on your own.

Note Worthy

Talk about note worthy; sweet notes came from room 301. The Choir consisted of three different choral programs. Students started by joining Vocal Theory, where they learned the basics of correct posture, tone, pitch, and how to read music. Then, when the students felt confident enough in their voices, they were able to audition for Concert Choir or Woman's Ensemble. Concert Choir was made up of boys and girls who knew the basics about music. Woman's Ensemble was the top choir group for females.

"Choir takes hard work and dedication," said Anginene Riser (08) of Concert Choir, but it had rewards. "We earned our trip to festival at Oakland University and the Candle Light Concert was a hit!" said JoLisa Ervin (08).

Mr. Beasley helped each of his students in need. "He has helped further my voice and I'm very fortunate to be in his class," said Donna Smith (06) of Woman's Ensemble.

When he's not working with choir, Mr. Beasley could be found teaching one of two Guitar classes. In Guitar students learned not only how to read music, but how to comprehend it and play it. For Kenisha Williams (06) Guitar class was a way to express herself through music and have fun doing it.

And the beat goes on as Tony Tidwell (08) shows that Guitar Class can be fun.

CHOIR OFFICERS: President, Kenisha Williams (06), Vic President Danielle Adent (08), Mr. Terry Beasley, Secretary, Amber Hinojosa (06), and Treasurer, Shadilea Johnson (07).

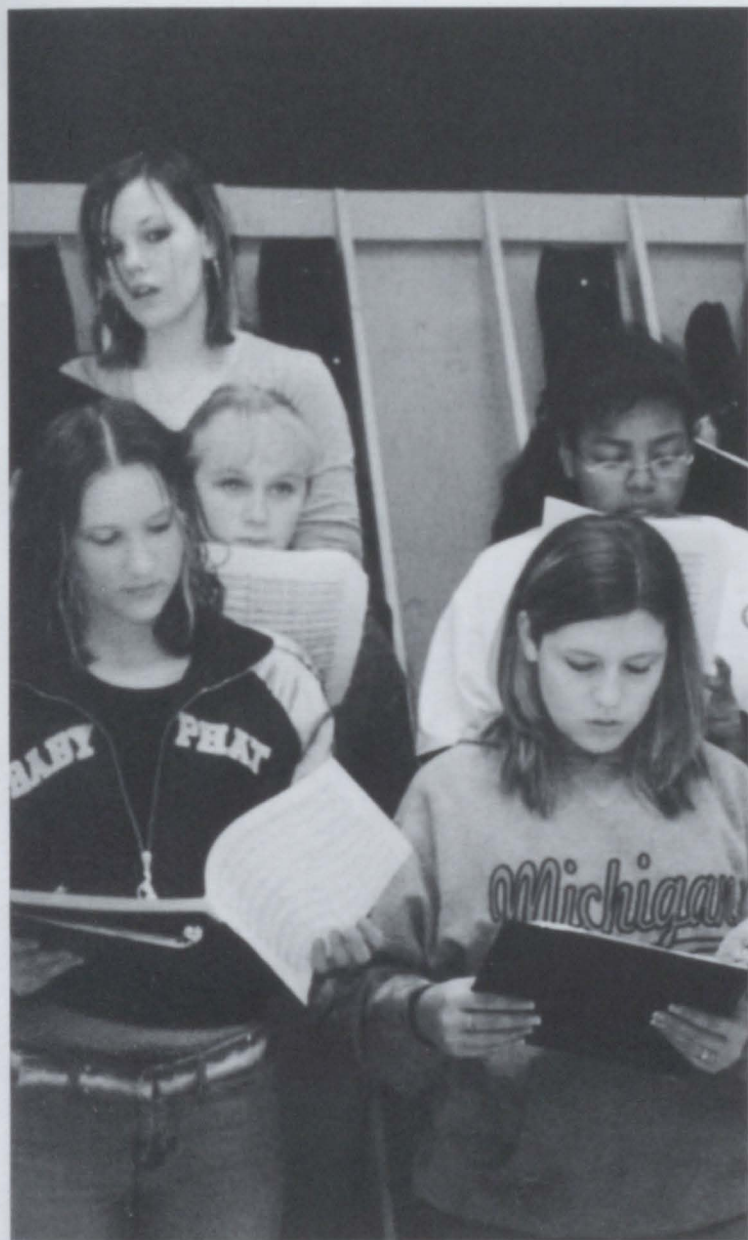

Mr. Terry Beasley helps Aaron Kester (06) touch up on his tunes during third hour Guitar Class.

Focused and ready to go, Connie Gordon (08) looks over her music while playing her guitar.

Instructing with emphasis, Mr. Beasley conducts practice before a concert.

In formal attire, Concert Choir, Vocal Theory, and Woman's Ensemble perform together at their first concert of the year.

Concentrating on playing her guitar, Lindsay Teichow (08) learns a new song.

Looking over their music, Elizabeth Newman (08), Melinda Frappier (07), Deaanah Brown (08), Stefanie Monzo (08), and Jennifer Wesch (07) warm up their voices during practice.

Note These

The band cut off; the lights were lit bright, reflecting off the instruments, then the crowd stood up in a wave of applause, not at McMorran, but at PH's very own Performing Arts Center, a recent and spectacular addition to the school.

The band program had four different groups: Concert Band, an entry level group, Symphonic Band, intermediate band, while Jazz Band and Wind Ensemble represented the highest level in the program.

After marching season, the band was busier than ever; all four groups had competitions.

The highlights of the year included the spring trip to New York, where the Jazz and Wind Ensemble performed in clinic with the New York Philharmonic. Also, Solo and Ensemble in March at Walled Lake was held for the seventeen musicians who ranked first at the earlier Rochester Solo and Ensemble.

The band increased in numbers, in musical ability, while producing entertaining concerts and students.

Eight steller individuals auditioned to be part of the February East Shore Concert held in the Performing Arts Center. Others chose to play in the pit band for the musical, Peter Pan.

"Band is great when your instrument's not crushed," said Matthew Netter.

Brianna Chapman (06), Matthew Netter (07), Tiffany Hunter (07), Alexander Meyer (07), and Thomas Fielitz (08) perform "Sleigh Ride".

Getting ready for the next song Mr. Daniel Griffith double checks his music sheet.

In class, Kevin Koschnitzke (07) plays his trombone to be prepared for the upcoming concert.

In class, Megan Lockwood (08) plays her trumpet to the beat of instructor Mr. Griffith.

Tuning their instruments in the gymnasium, Michelle Gouin (06) and Tyler Osburn (07) prepare for the Christmas Assembly.

Beating to the tune of the song are Matthew Schoettle (06) and Daniel Williams (06) on the drums.

Warming up his tuba in class, William Ball (07) plays his tune up notes.

Gregory Martin (08) and Sarah Orr (08) wait for their cue on the drums.

Dust In The Wind

Following the Candlelight Ceremony, the National Honor Society increased their membership to one hundred and twenty-nine students.

ORGANIZATIONS DIVISION

Deadlines, meetings, fundraisers, and a range of activities created a frenzy of motion like dust in the wind.

Students interested in career-focused organizations joined Yearbook, Drama Club, Lighthouse, or Business Professionals of America. Others who were intrigued to test their knowledge became Quiz Bowl members; leaders joined Student Council and the academically talented were selected for National Honor Society.

Besides academic and leadership groups, athletic organizations such as Thunderbirds, Bowling Club and Team, Equestrian, and the Rebels Hockey were available to active students.

For every type of student there was an organization where they could meet students with similar interests and create memories.

Chalk Dust and Deadlines

"Hey, look at this picture!" The PHHS Yearbook is mainly known for the pictures of students and staff, but there is a lot more work than just taking and choosing photos.

"Deadline" was a word of dread, it brought proofreading names, fighting for a computer, interviewing players and club members, writing stories, rewriting them, photographing events, and recording statistics. Staff members also spent hours raising money through ads, book sales and fundraisers.

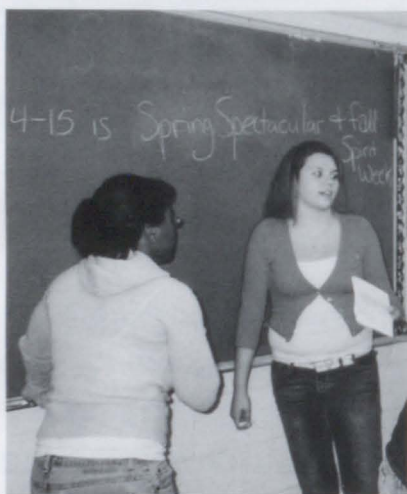

Fundraisers, including their annual Flower Sale in May and a Maredy sale in November, helped to keep the yearbook at the same price for the last three years.

"Yearbook was harder than I thought it would be, it takes a lot of time and energy to get everything done to meet a deadline," said Stephanie Mierendorff (08).

"This years has been rough with all of the problems with our computers, but the class came together and we worked through the bumps," said Co-Editor in Chief, Amanda Smith (06).

As a major accomplishment the 2005 yearbook, Traditions and Transitions received a national first place rating from American Scholastic Press Association.

"Chalk dust," this year's theme for the yearbook, was chosen out of 100 suggested themes by the yearbook class. The "Chalk dust" theme symbolized the school experiences that students will keep in their memories.

Port Huron High's Leaders

Leading the school in Homecoming, fundraising, assemblies, and charities throughout the year, Student Council was a student run group at PHHS.

Meetings were where the organization got things done. Ideas of leaders were discussed, planning was done, and votes were taken. Things were decided as a whole. Members were given an agenda of what was going to be brought up during the meetings.

In the third week of September, Student Council raised money for the Hurricane Katrina victims in Louisiana. Seniors collected the most, and overall, the school's grand total was $1,400.00. During a December Red Cross Blood Drive, Port Huron High reached its goal of collecting 65 pints of blood. There are three blood drives a year, held in the Media Center. Raising just over 6,661 pounds of food for the Salvation Army, Port Huron High School came in first as the "Top Collector" among the schools in the district.

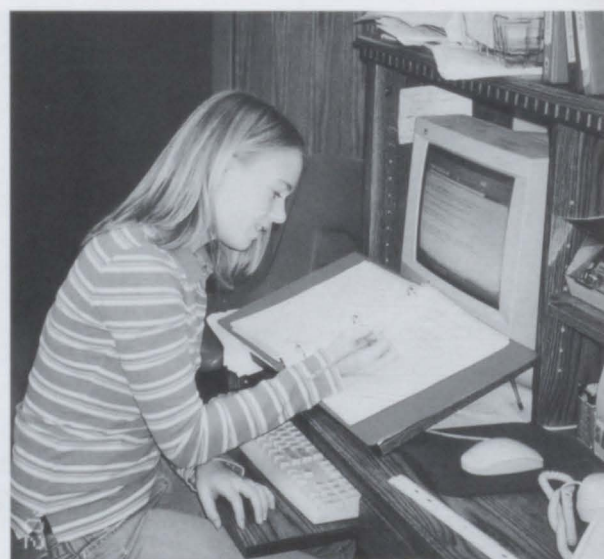

"We have been very active all year. We've met or exceeded all of our goals. We are constantly involved in some kind of activity, whether it be in school or community service. Homecoming was a HUGE success. With the Canned Food Drive this year, we set another record. We hope to do well in our Jail and Bail Campaign again this year. In Jail and Bail we've been the number one school, three out of the past four years," said Mr. Keith Hodge.

For the past seven years, Mr. Keith Hodge served as the Student Council Advisor.

Secretary Heather Krestik (07) and Vice President Ashley Bowden (06).

Writing a new agenda for the next meeting, President Tiffany Hering (06) spends her fourth hour in the Student Council office working with Mr. Keith Hodge.

Here Comes...

The Big Red

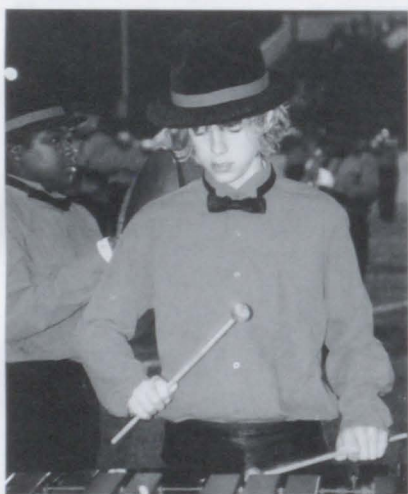

Marching

Machine!

"Band, Take The Field!" was the opening line to the band's half time show at the MSBOA Festival held at Memorial Stadium. Their performance was based on the book Oh The Places You Will Go! by Dr. Seuss. The band, which showed remarkably well, this year scored a Second Division in the AA ranking.

The show, put together by the director, Mr. Daniel Griffith, consisted of such hits as "All Star" by Smashmouth, "Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is?" from the hit musical, Chicago, and the classic, "Ain't No Mountain High Enough" by Marvin Gaye and Tammi Terrell.

This year was also very special in another way for the band, the first official band camp was held at Camp Stapleton. Those who stayed at Camp Stapleton spent their week practicing their music, sets, and formations as a whole. The daily schedule consisted of events such as "Basic Blocks" where the students learned to march with their instruments, and keep an even step size for formality throughout the performance. In "Sectionals" the students learned and memorized their music, and there were Band Rehearsals, and mock performances the band played for the chaperones and parents. Tiffany Makowski (07) stated, "The most difficult part definitely was trying to coordinate your body to march on step into the formation while playing the right memorized music at the same time!"

Tyler Moulton (09) plays his pit solo during the performance of "All Star".

"5-6-7 BAM!" Port Huron Thunderbirds had a thrilling year. For the first time ever, they raised enough money to go and compete in the 2005 National Showcase competition last April held in Columbus, Ohio. There the girls earned, for the first time in eight years, superior ratings on all of the routines they took -- pom, kick, and hip hop.

The Thunderbirds then went off to Band Camp with the Big Red Marching Machine, which was a unique experience. They marched with the band, but at sectional time they huddled around Cabin Six with their coaches where they created the beginning of their pom routine for their 2005-2006 competitive season, along with the performances for the halftime show with the band.

After football season ended, the girls focused their attention on their competitions. They finished their pom routine, created their kick, and their hip hop routines just in time for their first invitational at Hazel Park High School on November 20. At this event, they received excellent ratings for all three routines.

Their next competition was to be held at Port Huron Northern on December 4, but PHN cancelled, and the Thunderbirds took over that competition along with hosting their invitational in February. Next, they competed at the HPAC competition in February, and then, they went to States back down in Hazel Park.

Quiz Bowl

Takes

a Mind

Challenge

It's a game of knowledge, are you ready? The members of the Quiz Bowl Team were. Team players were a group of students who took such pleasure from learning and from adding more facts to their store of knowledge that it led them to thirteen wins and only three loses.

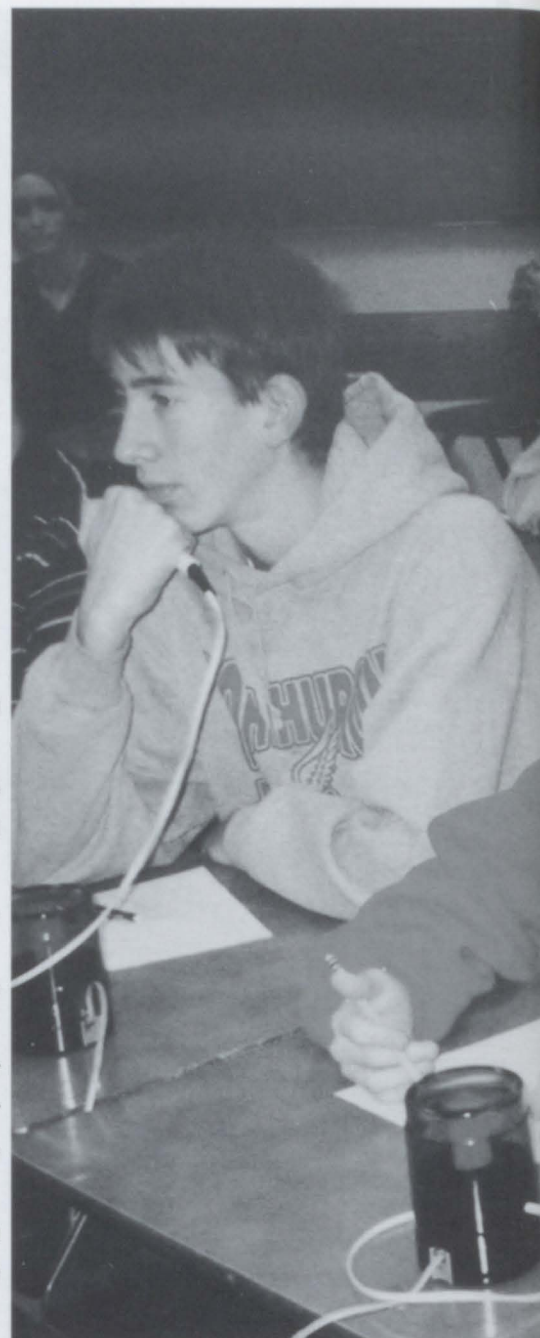

The members prepared themselves prior to the start of the race and won their first, two meets against Marysville and Port Huron Northern. William Warsinski (06) helped them to their first win by scoring ninety points.

"I joined during my junior year because I wanted to show off my immense sports knowledge. I also needed to get involved for the National Honor Society," said Adam Hart (06).

In order to prepare for meets the members were asked questions. Usually the students were asked individually, but occasionally they were asked in teams.

It was both knowledge and speed that helped the team gain points. Being fast on the buzzer meant more opportunities to rack up the score. The students used practices to increase their knowledge and their speed. A major event was their St. Clair County Community College tournament win.

"One of the questions I was asked was, if you go into a drugstore and buy a product with aluminum zirconium, what product did you buy? I buzzed in and said, 'deodorant'," stated Sarah Gliniecki (08).

Former Quiz Bowl member Matt Chapman (04) checks wires to make sure buzzers go off correctly.

Setting out the buzzers, Bradley Prochazka (06) and Derek Cook (06) prepare for their match.

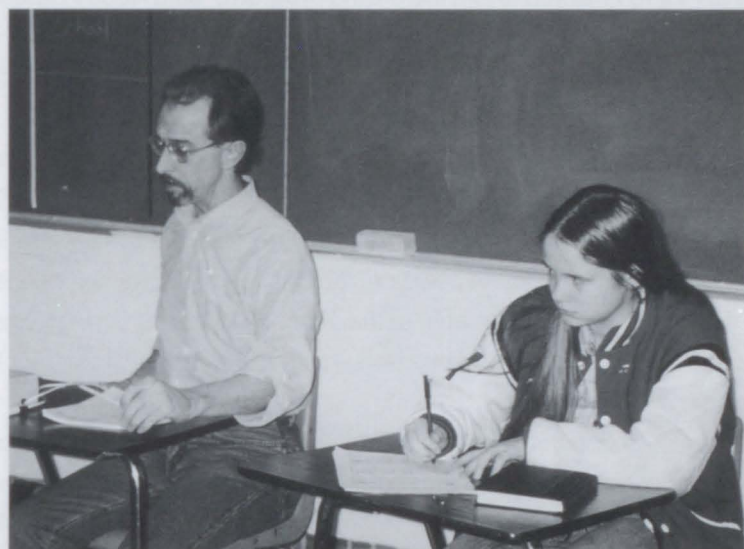

Sarah Swoffer (06) finishes setting up the buzzer system while Sarah Gliniecki (07) and Haley Weicht (07) await the start of the match.

Drama:

Acting,

Singing,

Dancing!

The theater lights dim, people stop talking, the stage lights up, and the first show in the new auditorium began. Things were expanded in PHHS's after school drama program including an all new auditorium, additional plays, longer performances, and fresh new faces." I knew when I came to PHHS I wanted to join the drama program," said Abbey Bates (08). "The shows were funny, and the new auditorium is spectacular."

"The auditorium gave students a chance to practice on the actual stage that they would be performing on," said advisor Mrs. Miki LaPla.

The auditorium has also meant having more performances. The Drama Club performed three shows: The Night of One Acts, Curious Savage, and Peter Pan. The One Acts, as referred to by students, gave an opportunity for many kids to get a role whereas the straight play and musical required more time to practice, a bit more experience, and when members are not on stage they are busy getting ready for the next show. "During the time off between shows, I like to practice on my singing, dancing, and acting skills," said William Rock (07) "I like to be ready for the next show."

The technical aspect of the show was an important part. With a new booth, pit, and workshop, the "teckies" could do their job more efficiently without fear of a set design breaking. "Working back stage is so much easier now, everything is in one place," said Christina Cutler (08).

A camera shy student, Jared Jarvis (07), hides in the woman's evening dress.

"Read all about it"...The Lighthouse has a new advisor!

Former Port Huron Northern teacher, Mrs. Erin Eastman took over the position from Ms. Elizabeth Brandt, "The collaboration needed to put together something from scratch takes great effort and makes for a great accomplishment."

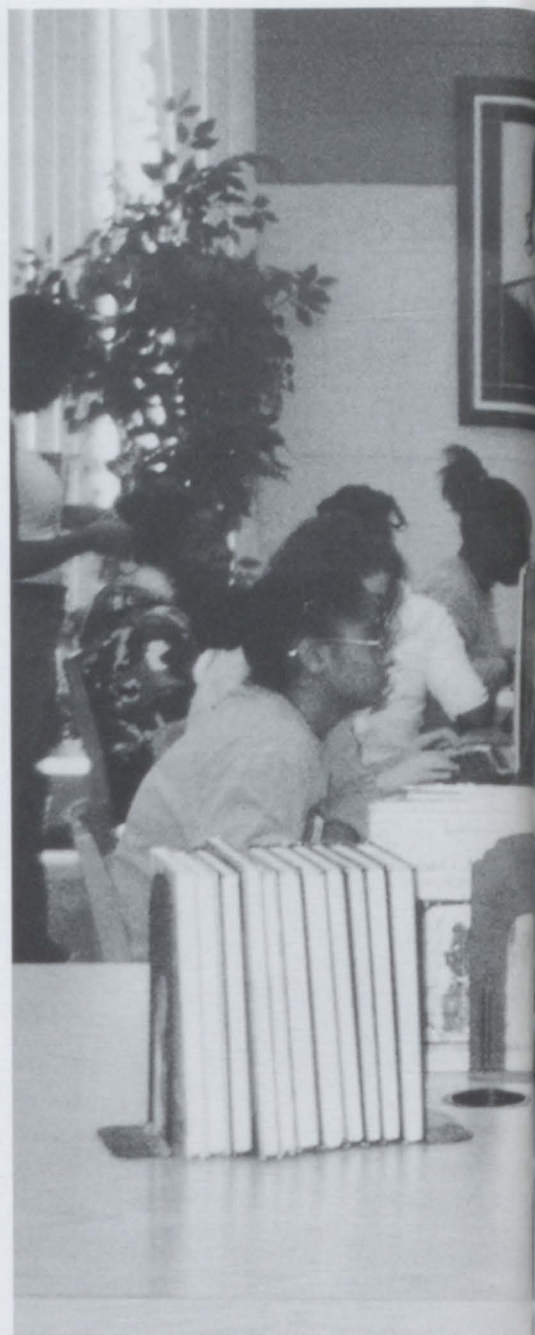

The new advisor was joined by new staff members. "I've always been interested in writing journalism," said Sara LaRue (06) who chose this class as an elective.

Experienced staffers helped new members with the transition. The writing and reporting assignments taught career skills. "It prepares me for what I want to do after high school by helping me talk to new and different people, work on deadlines, and how to get along in a large group," Leah Stitchick (06) said.

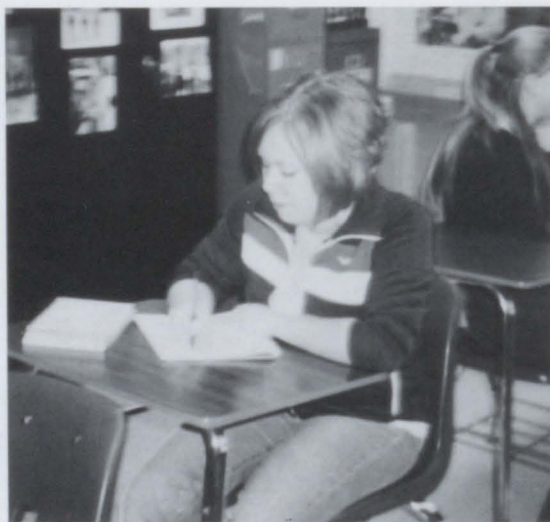

Each student was required to produce one article per week. This was not a problem according to Shalanon Brooks (07) who said, "With news you never run out of stories." Article categories included sports, student activities, editorial, entertainment and features.

The budget freeze made publication difficult since the classroom was not equipped with the needed hardware. Staff members were often found in the Media Center at the computer bank.

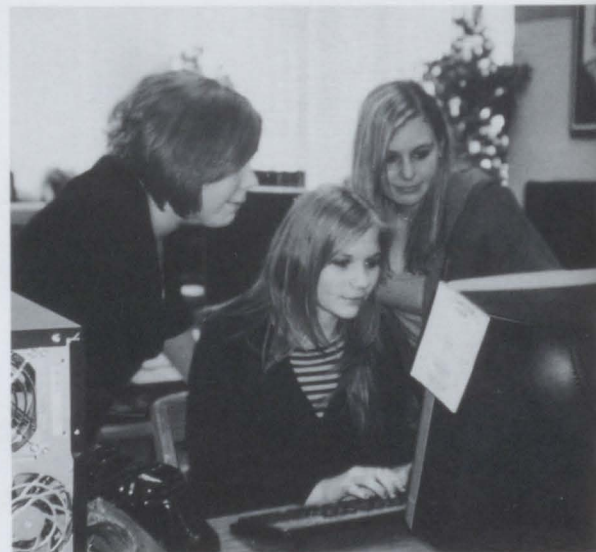

To help better their reading and writing skills and increase their vocabulary each staff member has to read a novel on Tuesday's and Thursday's.

Kimika Woods (08) types her final copy in the features section of the Lighthouse.

Knock Those Pins Down

Two league titles! The Bowling Teams sure kept the pins down, with excellent winning seasons. All of the home games competed were held at Port Huron Lanes, the same as the previous year. The Bowling Team was set up with a mens' team and a womens' team. Each team played each other twice in the league and the school that had the most wins took the title then went to Regionals.

Both teams this year were headed by two new coaches, Head Coach Mr. Matthew Langolf and Assistant Coach Mr. Steven Turak, who also happened to be former Big Red bowlers. The high rolling men's team won all but two games which led them close enough to take the league title. Gary Tinney (06) got 290 points on a game for the team which ended up being his personal best score.

At the start of this season the girls team was undefeated. Although they lost their first game against Anchor Bay, they ended up winning the second game and took the league title. The ladies did very well and as Ashley Erwin (06) recalls, "We were down at the end of the second game (against Anchor Bay- the hardest team in the league) but we won it and beat Anchor Bay which kept us at the top."

The letter winners for the girls were Staci Hilliard (08), Stephanie DeLano (06), Ashley Erwin (06), and Katherine Hatfield (07). For the boys Nathan Kelly (06), Matthew Gossman (09), Michael Gossman (09), Joshua Bailey (08), and Gary Tinney (06) received letters.

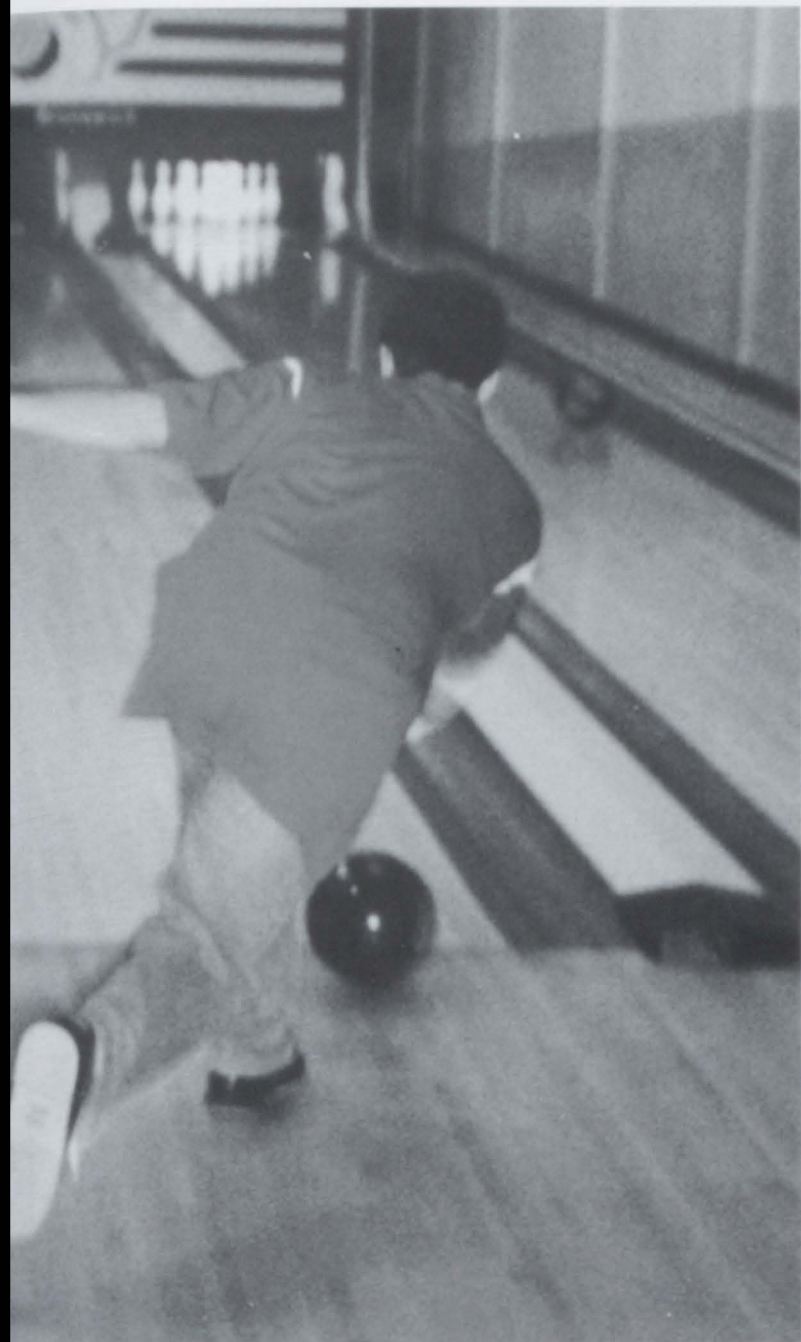

For the best score, Nathan Kelly (06) aims for the spare.

Taking advantage of the lead, sophomore Joshua Bailey lets go of the ball.

One of this years MVP's Gary Tinney (06) releases the ball in hopes for a strike.

Striking up a spare, Michael Gossman (08) anticipates the best.

Don't Spare the Strike

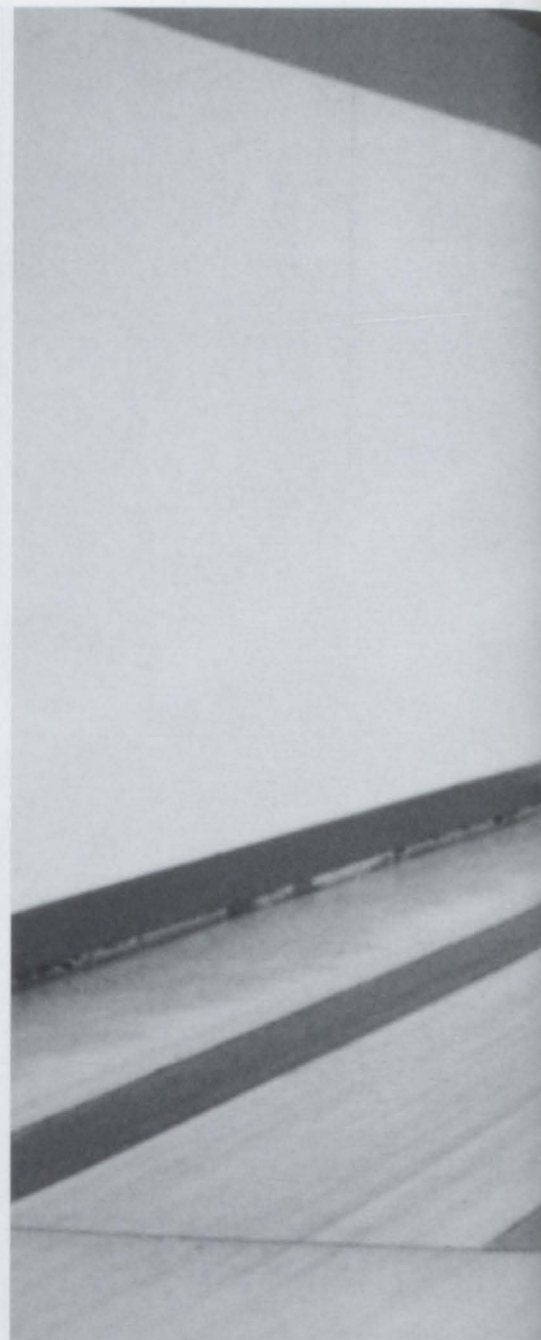

Fun--isn't that what extra-curricular activities are supposed to be all about? By getting involved in after school activities, students get the chance to experience new settings and meet people. Mr. Juan Hernandez has been the sponsor for the Bowling Club for the last five years.

He stated, "Each bowler is on a team and competition exists between teams and individuals." He later added that, "The Bowling Club is a fun activity for all age groups."

"I like to bowl and I thought it would be fun to be in an after school activity," said Kayla Toles (08). It turns out she was right because on an average Tuesday, the Bowling Club had about 40 consistent bowlers throughout the season which was a huge increase over last season. Every year the group size increased.

The Bowling Club, which offered pressure-free competition, met after school on Tuesdays from October until mid-December at Blue Water Bowl. For only $4.00 a week, students could bowl three games, have shoes provided, and choose from a variety of different bowling balls to borrow from the bowling alley.

Three out of every four dollars went to the bowling alley to pay for shoes and the balls that were used, and the last dollar went into a pot and helped pay for the end of the season party that celebrated good times and great scores. Trophies were also awarded at March Awards' Banquet.

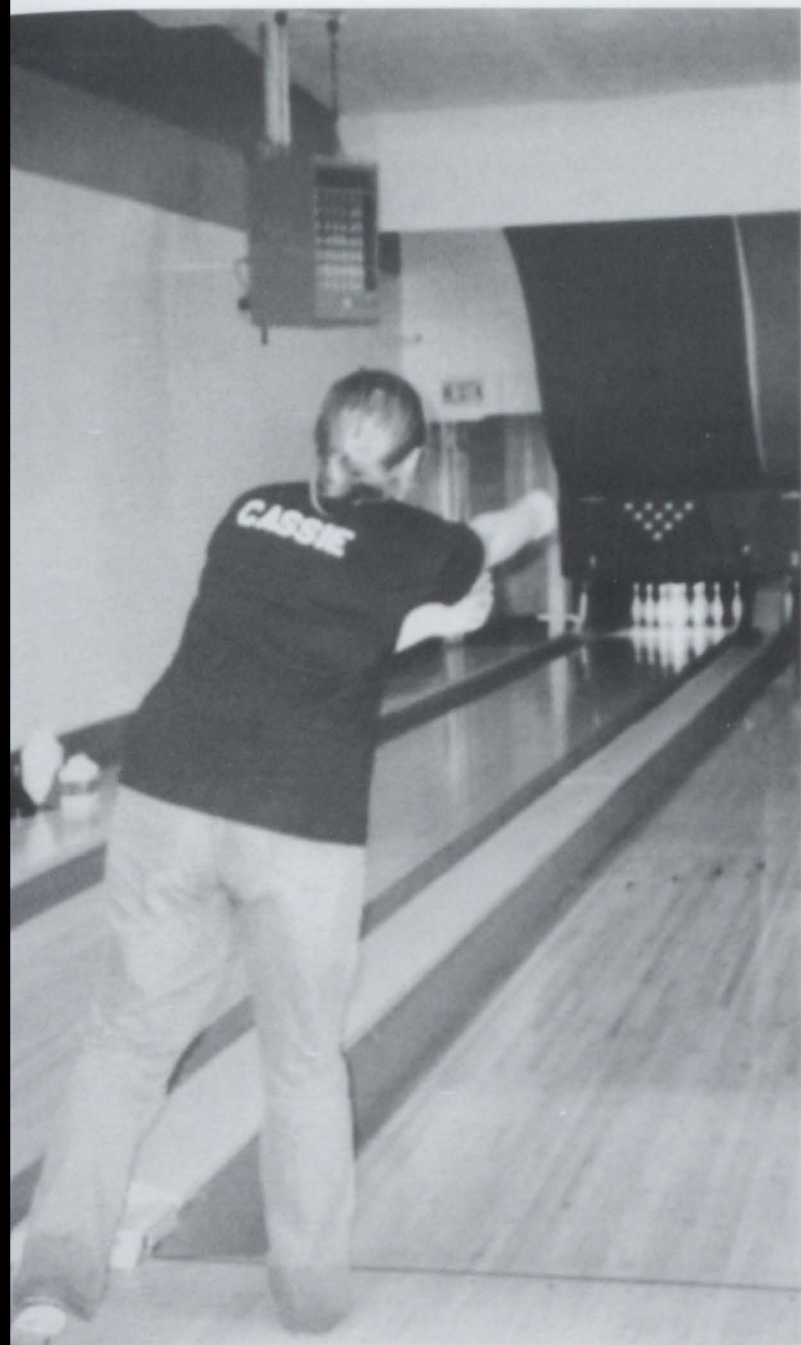

Coming back from her great frame, Katy Shepley (06) got nine pins down.

Hoping for a good roll, Sophomore Rachel Klimas has high hopes.

Looking back to see how many pins he got down Andrew Devine (08) shows his enthusiasm.

Picking up a spare, Cassandra Moody (08) bowls with the alley's hot pink bowling ball.

Swinging back for the final frame, Michael James (09) lines his ball up with the arrows.

Hoping for a good score, Abraham Klimas (06) bowls his second frame.

Getting his spare, Roy Gardner (06) finishes up a great game.

Looking To The Future

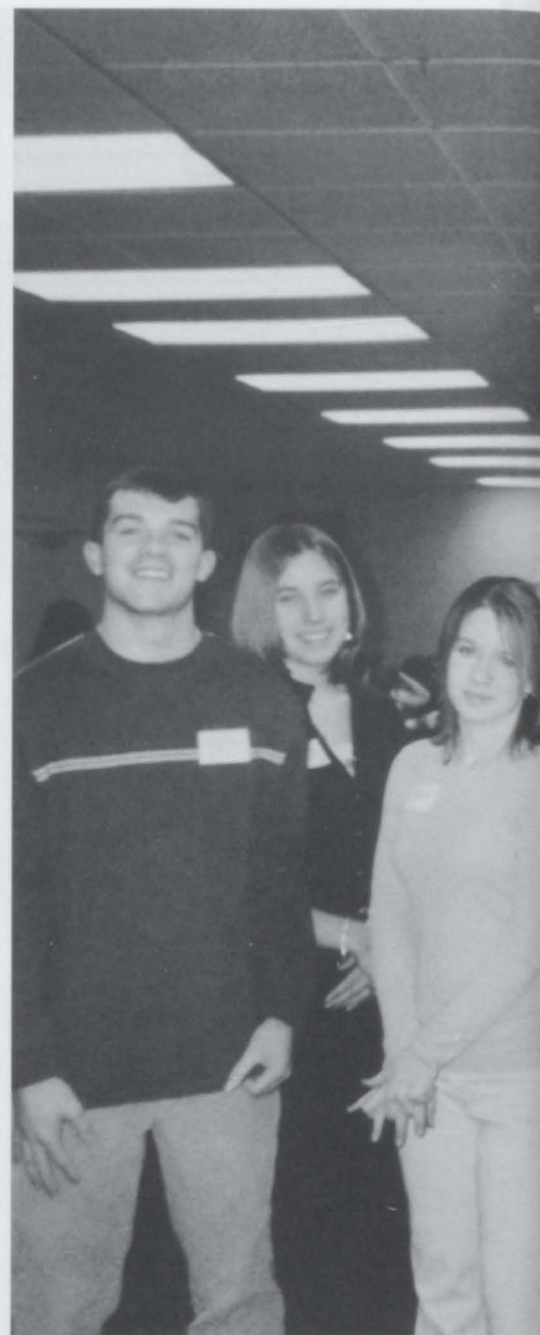

Looking to the future, some students chose to work with Business Professionals of America or to join the Mock Trial Team.

Five BPA students rated at the top of their class in the annual BPA Competition led by new advisor Mrs. Connie Kreh. In January the BPA had their competition at Baker College. Seven local high schools and more than 220 students entered this competition. Student testing categories included Viewing Skills, Financial Concepts, and Small Business Management. Students who reached the state finals included senior Gail Lohr who received second place in Payroll Accounts, Jodi Fuller (06) earned third place in Fundamental Accounts, Staci Regulinski (06) placed fourth in Fundamental Accounting and second in Desktop Publishing, Kyle Ruck (06) earned his spot of third place in Desktop Publishing, and Catherine Gouin (07) won fourth place in Basic Office Systems.

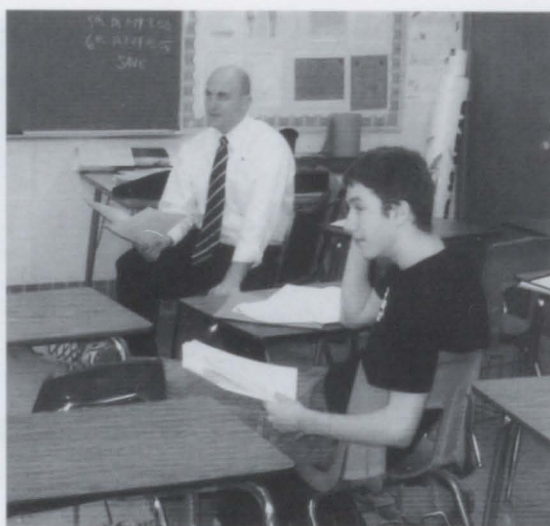

"All Rise, court is now in session." Mock Trial was new to PH. Mrs. Shelly Jex a PH teacher, Mr. Ron Kaski and Mr. Frank Partipillo, two county attorneys, volunteered their time to help the chosen students to prepare for the two state-wide meets in February and March.

At first, meetings were about inside information on working through a case in court. Within about two weeks, there was a court case assigned that would be judged at meets. Honorable Judge Mrs. Cindy Platzer was the judge that oversaw their meet.

The attorneys answered any questions and gave their professional opinion on things to do and not to do in the courtroom. Topics such as leading questions, cross-examination, direct examination, objections, calling witnesses, opening and closing statements, and proper use of court room words were covered.

During B lunch, Ashley Eggleston (06) and Alicia Crocker (06) sell flowers to a freshman for his Valentine.

Scholarship, Leadership, Character, Service

The Candlelight Ceremony opened the year with a twist. The ceremony of new National Honor Society members was held in the recently completed Performing Arts Center, making it a more memorable event for all 129 members, old and new.

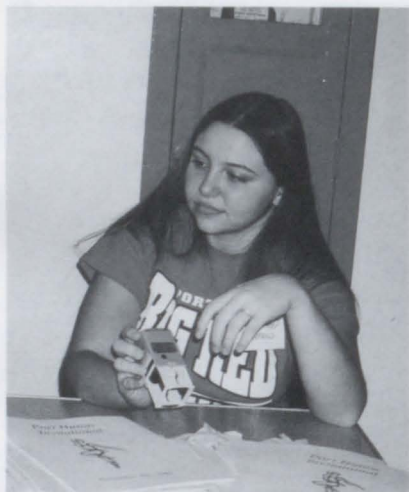

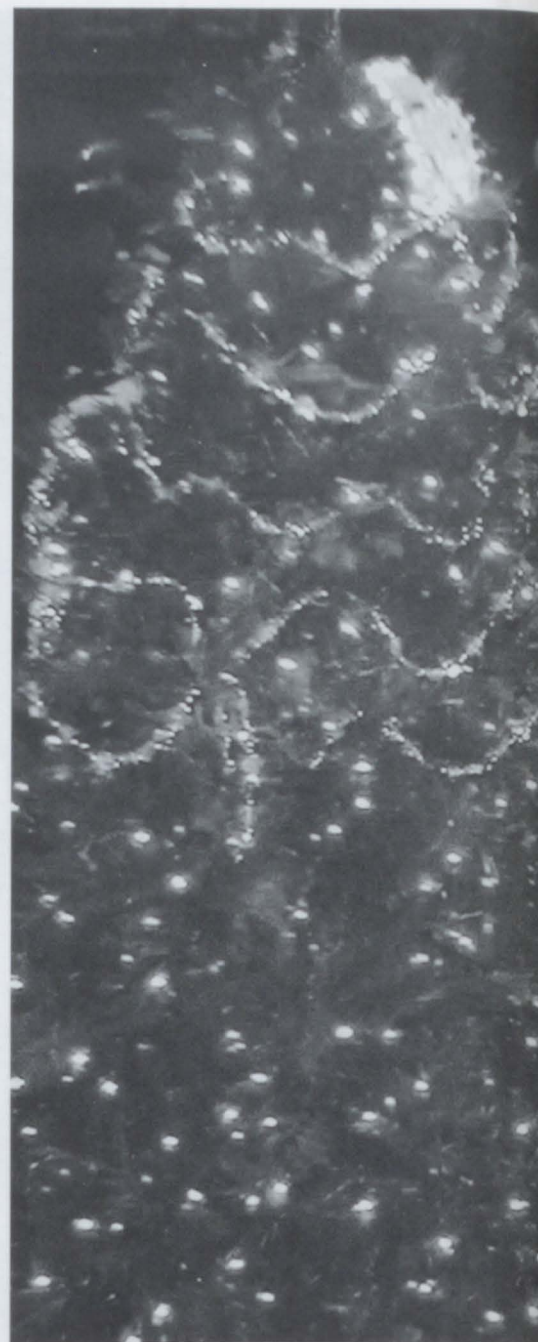

With the induction completed, the NHS members went to work doing community service. Members were required to complete at least ten service hours per semester. Some of their services were spent with the Festival of Trees, Toys for Tots, soup kitchens, elementary schools' activities, and Salvation Army activities, as well as other programs, which were based on the members own interests.

Besides their work in the community, NHS members extended a helping hand to some of their fellow peers at the after school tutoring program offered every Monday through Thursday.

Like any other group, NHS held fundraisers. They sold baked goods, candy canes, and holiday items. They also hosted their Scholarship Luncheon in March.

The elected 2005-2006 officers were Blair McDowell, President; Tierra Raglyn, Vice President; Sonja Bailey, Secretary; Tiffany Hering, Treasurer; and Ashley Bowden, Historian. The NHS advisors for the year were Mrs. Deborah Hesterberg and Mr. Timothy Owens.

"We are trying to make NHS a more active organization rather than just an honor group," stated Mr. Owens.

Two Plus The Crew

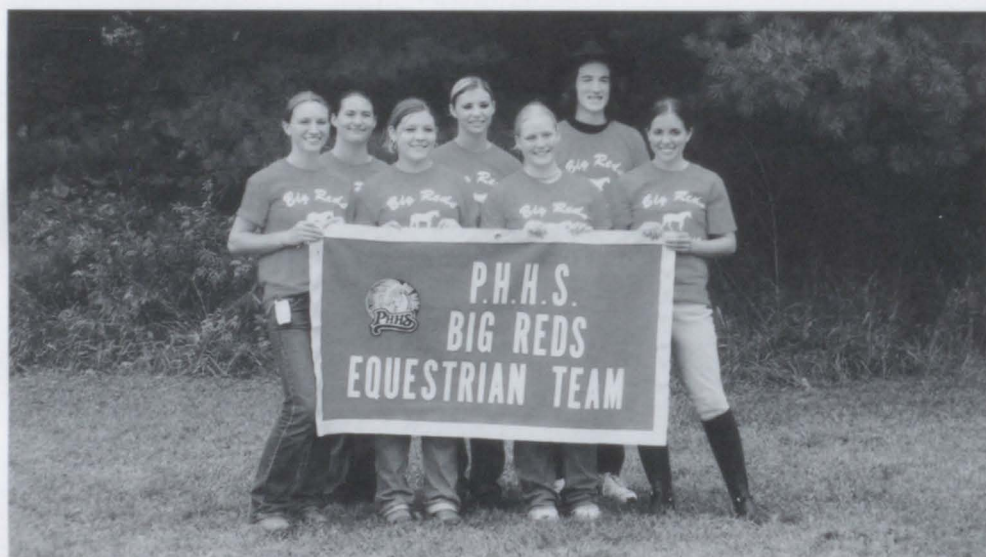

Talk about teamwork! It takes both the horse and rider to make individual points for an Equestrian. Then, it takes the rest of the "crew" members to rack up the points for the team by adding all the individual points together.

Weighing their strengths, riders chose to compete in one of the three basic divisions. The Western Division typically includes the slower horses with bigger saddles and fancier clothes. The Huntseat Division is difficult to be judged in because the aspects that are judged are exactly the same for each rider. "Saddleseat has really high stepping horses, it's really pretty," explained Leah Stitchick (06).

Regardless of the division, good posture was essential for presentation and scoring. Riders had to be formally dressed with their numbers displayed on their backs. The horse was expected to look great, too; therefore cleaning the equipment and horse before a show was required.

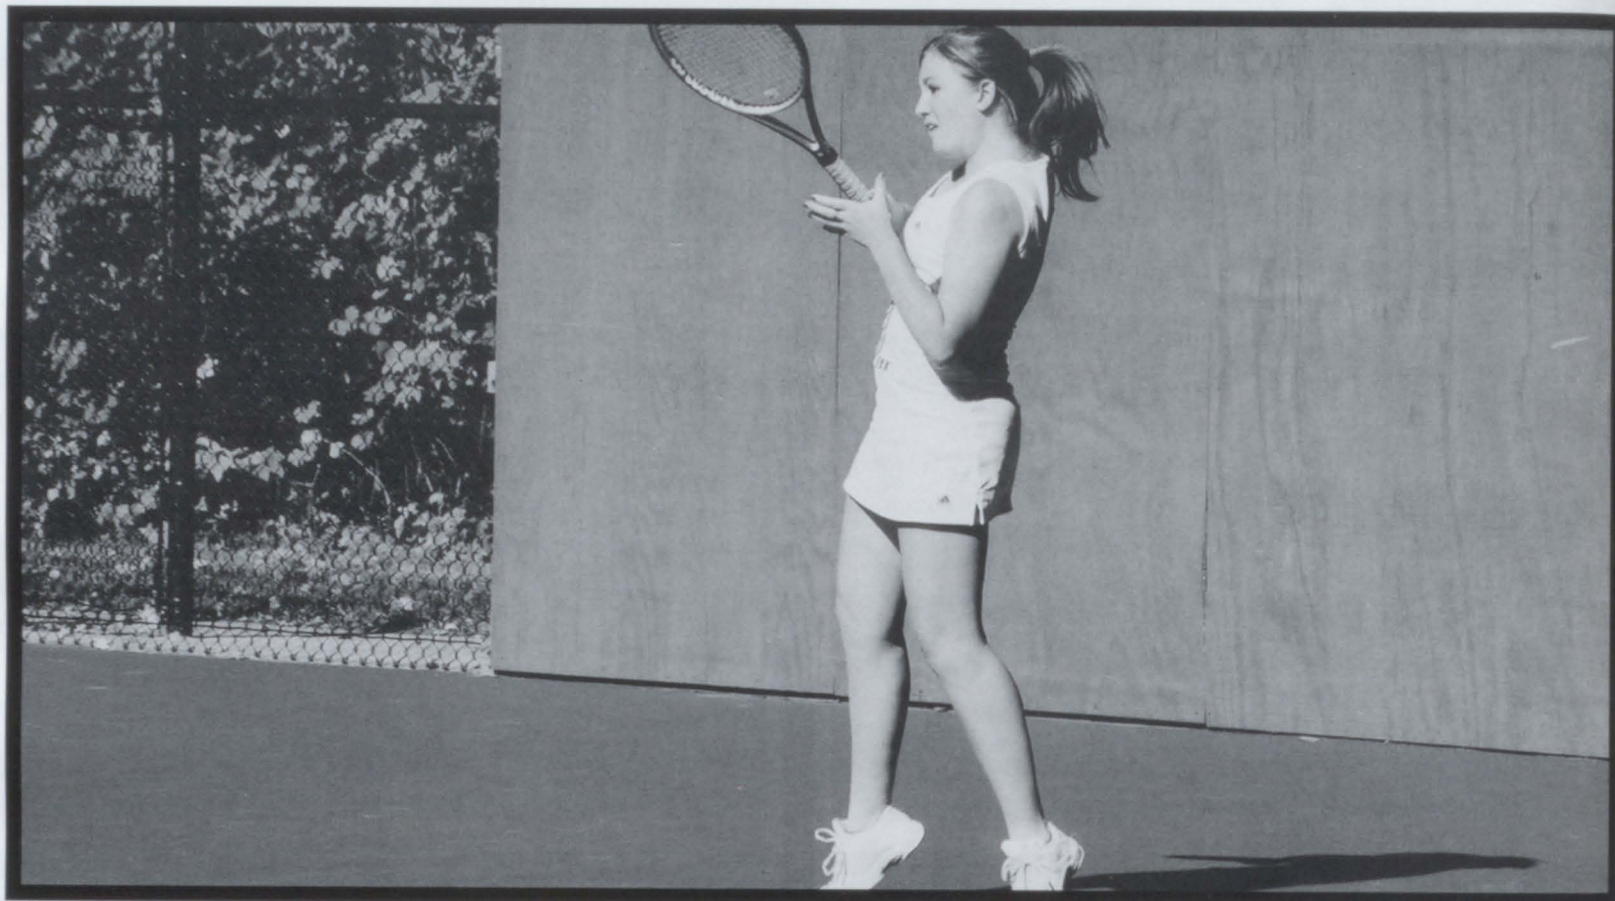

Being on the team also required sacrificing whole days, since riders needed to spend a lot of time with their horses to complete the training needed before a show.

Enjoying the work was typical for Equestrians. "Cleaning every stall at the fair ground was really fun. It doesn't sound fun, but it was," said Rachel Gieche (07). Rachel also said, "This year was the first year that we had a Capac player on the team."

SPORTS DIVISION

Trophies, banners, plaques, and awards--Big Red's claimed their prizes. Once again, teams and players excelled.

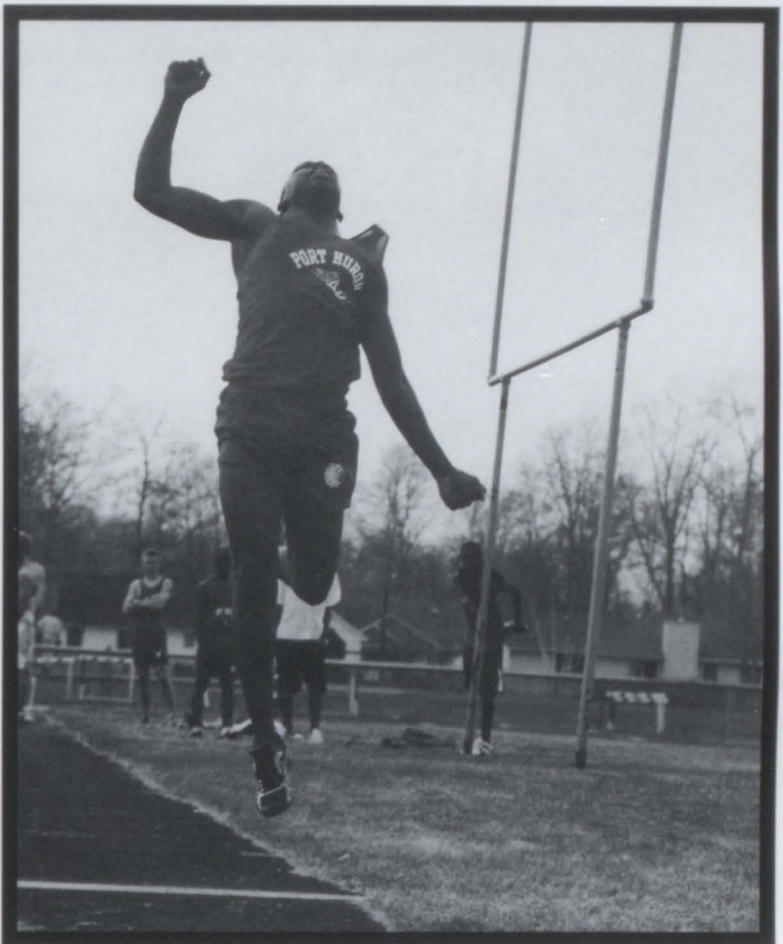

First year team members Caitlyn and Chelsey Bonney (08) broke the school records for 3rd and 4th place in the Cross Country 3.1 Mile Run. The Red Dawgs Swim Team took the MAC Gold Division. Girls Soccer, Tennis, and Basketball also won MAC Divisions.

For the first time ever, Boys Soccer raced to a win over PH Northern, definitely a victory! Girls Track captured first place in the Spiess Relays, an accomplishment not equaled in several years. Sportsmanship, always important at PH, was the award won by the Girls Cross Country Team.

Senior running back Christiaan Williams plows across the line of scrimmage to pick up yards for the Big Reds.

At a meet against cross town rivals, sophomore Deandre Bankston stretches to gain as many feet as he can.

Boys Varsity Soccer players Nicholas Oberski (07) and Adam Luttrell (06) race to the ball at a home game vs. Chippewa Valley.

MAC White Champs

"Good afternoon staff and students. Today, the following have been cancelled for this evening: Girls Golf..."

The rain, the snow, the hail, and the lightning! These are the worst weather conditions for golf, and any other outdoor sport for that matter.

The harsh weather conditions caused many cancellations and postponements for the girls.

"Golf carts rocks my socks," screams Catherine Gouin (07). The golf carts gave the girls some fun during the days when practice was at an outdoor golf course.

This year the Girls Golf Team was composed of seven members. Each member worked to earn one of the six competing slots.

The girls practiced after school at either the Birchwood Athletic Dome, Golf Country, or Fore Lakes depending on the weather.

The team finished their season with their best team score of 178 against Utica and a season record of 7-1, which tied them with Fraser to be the MAC White Champs.

Game, Set, Match!

The Varsity Tennis Team, fared well rounding out their season with a score of four wins, five losses and two ties.

Many of the boys owed their success to the hours spent practicing. "We practice a few hours per day, mostly hitting balls and working on our serves," stated Joshua Klaas (06). Others played well because they were very comfortable with their partners. The number one doubles team of Brian McDougal (05) and Steven Privette (05). "Steve is not only my tennis partner, he is one of my best friends; so I always just go out there and have fun." The partners went to the MAC Red and came out as champs. "Coach Mr. Greg Berra has helped us a lot through the years; he was excited to see us win," Brian McDougal (05) added.

"With the help of Coach Mr. Jeremy Rosenau, I have seen great improvement in my serves and backhand," stated Ian Edgerton (06).

Coach Rosenau worked along with Coach Mrs. Lori Shymko, to coach the Junior Varsity and Varsity Tennis team.

With a slice serve, Varsity's number one singles Brett Lynch (07) scores an ace.

On Your Mark

"First and second call for the 3,200 meter run," the announcer said. The boys made their way to the starting line as they readied themselves for the two mile event which is eight times around the track.

Though the guys had a tough season, most of them had outstanding personal records. The 400 by 1 relay team consisted of; Jordan Brown (08), Darius Jackson (08), Jonathan Blake (07), and Deandre Bankston (08) who pulled through with an average of second place in every meet. Anthony Adent (05) was the top long distance runner at every meet.

Head Coach, Mr. Michael Pionk stated that a total of twenty four freshmen joined the team this year, with great attitudes about track and field. "They came out to practice and tried their best," said Coach Mr. Michael Pionk.

"Even though we didn't come out on top, we showed great effort and improvement. I am very proud of the boys," stated Coach Mr. Eddie Kindle.

"PH, WE ALL, WE GOT, YOU KNOW!" When the team needs a little "pep" the girls chanted in a huddle together. Their record was 5-2, and they placed first in the Lowell Speiss Relays defeating Stevenson, for the first time in three years.

The captains were Latisha Mitchell (06) and Ashley Bowden (06). Ashley performed in pole vault, high jump, and ran middle distance. Latisha threw shot put and discus and was also the motivator of the team.

Two more "stars" on the team this season were the freshmen "Bonney Twins" Caitlyn Bonney (08) and Chelsey Bonney (08). They ran the half mile, the mile relay, and the two mile relay.

An addition to the team this year was Coach Ms. Trula Seymour. "Coach Seymour has made a huge difference in the team, and our spirit," said Ashley Ahles (08). She had once stated, "It doesn't matter if we won, it only matters if we went out there and worked our hardest."

Sliding Into Home

"The absolute best thing about coaching is the relationship I get to build with my players," said four year Freshman Coach Ms. Elizabeth Brandt. "They make my job fun, and I enjoy seeing their progress throughout the season."

The three softball teams this season worked to perfect their games. At practices the Freshman and JV teams worked on drills like soft toss and the 50 ball defense. The teams would also work on grounders and pop flies. The freshman team would play a game called Golden Glove to practice their quick hand and eye coordination. If they made a mistake fielding the ball they were out. The last one standing had the "Golden Glove." Hannah Kostanecki (08) commented, "My favorite drill was the Golden Glove because it was a fun and competitive drill. Everyone tried their hardest." The freshmen came out overall winning eight and losing two.

Coach Mr. Juan Hernandez and Coach Mr. Kevin Kilbourn led the JV Softball Team, which came up winning nine and only losing one.

Pitching for the JV team was freshman Kandace Thomas. On the mound she struck out a total of eleven batters.

The Marine City Mariners were the Varsity Softball Team's biggest competition in their MAC Division. The Big Reds secured second place only coming up short of Marine City by three games.

Helping the Big Reds achieve their second place was their four year varsity pitcher Lauren Eschker (06) and three year left fielder Ashley Trombley (06).

"The girls worked hard this year to capture second place." Coach Mr. George Popa commented, "Hopefully next year we can come back and beat Marine City for the first time in a while."

Kandace Thomas (08) pitches for the Junior Varsity team.

Ready for a pop-fly, Varsity player Laurie Bachler (05), braces herself for the ball.

Reaching Potential

"The thing I enjoy most about coaching is seeing the players reach their potential," said Coach Mr. Shawn Racignol, who led the Junior Varsity team for the 2004-2005 school year. "I look for great attitude and work ethic." The Junior Varsity team ended the season with 6 wins and 4 losses.

The Freshmen team headed by Coach Mr. Ryan Mullins closed the season with 7 wins and 2 losses. "We work together in many ways, like cheering each other on during a game," commented Christopher Crimmins (08) who just finished his first year playing Big Red baseball. First baseman and one of the pitchers, Christopher Mix (08) stated, "It didn't matter to us if we won or lost because we just were playing for fun."

The Big Red jerseys were worn well by the 2004-2005 Varsity team. They had an astonishing season with 6 wins and 5 losses, qualifying them for the Mac Blue Championships. The Big Reds came in second place.

Two of the Varsity team's best offensive players were seniors Matthew Galanos, and Jason Torgerson. Matthew Galanos (05) was one of the pitchers, who also played in the infield. Jason Torgerson (05) was an outfield player during the defensive part of the game.

"The outfield is harder than most people expect," said Christopher Ellis (06). "After you run and dive for a ball it really hurts, but you don't think about the pain, you think about winning." The outfield players for the Varsity team worked on drills that improved their speed and accuracy. They had to be able to run to the ball, and position themselves correctly under it.

Through many wins and losses the Big Reds finished the season with a great reputation.

Keeping his eyes on the ball, Eric Haddix (05) gets ready to bat.

Up to bat, Matthew Frey (07) bunts the ball and makes a run for first base.

League Champions

The Girls Varsity Soccer team became a part of history this year. The girls went undefeated in the MAC Blue Conference to win the league with a record of 10-0-1 and a record of 14-3-1 overall. The Varsity team had lost only two seniors from last season, so they were eager to get on the field and start playing.

To anyone who watched the girls play, it was obvious that the team had heart and determination. "Our strengths are team speed and strength. Teams are not stronger or faster than us and that plays a major factor in each game," stated Coach Mr. Dennis Shannon.

The captains for the Varsity team were Kimberly Oberski (05) and Renee Privette (06). The Junior Varsity captains were Danielle Tuttle (06) and Amanda Tallmadge (07).

While the Varsity team did not change a lot of faces, the Junior Varsity team added eight new people to improve their team.

"We're always open to new team members," said Junior Varsity Coach Mr. David Jock.

Margaret Walsh (06) races for the ball against Anchor Bay in the first District Game.

Renee Privette (06) battles for the ball with help from Christina Senyk (07).

Go the Distance

"You'll thank me later," was the encouraging quote from Coach Mr. George Moger who wanted the girls to run harder. "I said this to inspire the girls to run harder, and I believe it was successful."

The Girls Cross Country Team conditioned for meets six days a week. Practices included a variety of stretches, long quality distance, and intervals.

"The hardest workout was the sand hill intervals," said first year runner Amber Duncan (08); "Intervals are when you sprint for a shorter distance."

To prepare for a meet the team would have a moment of silence before yelling, "GO BIG REDS!". On the occasion a runner received a personal best after a meet she was rewarded with an ice cream from Jimmy's Frozen Custard.

"I'm glad I joined Cross Country this year," said sophomore Katelyn Walker, "I enjoyed getting in shape and making friends. Cross Country is a very supportive sport, with the small amount of members we all became very close."

Finish Strong

"My most memorable moment this year was our win at Marysville," said Coach Mr. William Prout. "Our guys not only came in first, but everyone ran well."

To get that win the boys practiced for two hours a day, six days a week. A popular workout regime was the "Bridge Run" in which the boys would run to the Blue Water Bridge and back, which totaled a round trip of eight miles.

"The Bridge Run is the longest run we do; it's hard but fun at the same time," said freshman Noah Prout.

The day before a meet, the boys would prepare themselves by doing two miles at a slow pace. This was to loosen them up and give them a day without a rigorous practice. Just before the meet they would warm up with a few pick-ups.

"We all support each other before the meet, JV cheers for Varsity and Varsity cheers for JV," said returning runner Christopher Crimmins (08). "It's a good sport to make friends and challenge yourself."

During the Marysville/Roseville Dual Meet, freshman Brockton Feltman takes first place from the Marysville opponent.

Just past the mile mark are Luke Privette (08), and Brockton Feltman (09).

Alexander McAuley (07) keeps pace with an opponent.

GOAL!!!

For the first time in the eleven year history of PHHS men's soccer, the Big Reds Varsity Soccer Team defeated Northern. The 3-2 victory sent cheers through the stands. James Senyk (06) said, "I got the breakaway and just went for it. It was the best feeling to get the game winning goal against Northern."

The Varsity Team had a record of 9-7-2 overall and 5-6-1 in the league. Richard Jock (08) stated that he enjoyed the Northern game, "because everybody's friends with everybody, but when the game starts it gets real intense and the crowd is awesome."

The Junior Varsity Team had a lot of new players. "I've been playing for three months because I wanted to try something new," said Davon Hawkins (09), one of thirteen new players.

The Junior Varsity Team had a record of 14-2-2 overall and 7-1-2 in the league.

"Before the game I discuss with them the importance of playing every game as if it were the last," Coach Mr. Dennis Shannon said.

Celebrating the last game of the season, David Jock(06), Oliver Glenn(06), and Adam Luttrell(06) show their school pride.

Back to Back

On September 10th, the Girls Varsity Tennis Team celebrated their second straight first place win in the Port Huron Invitational. Everyone on the team medaled, which included six first place medals and two second place.

The girls also won their second consecutive first place in the MAC Blue Conference. They tied L'Anse Creuse North and Cousino for first place.

The Varsity captains for the 2005 season were Hayley Lynch (06), Sarah Robinson, (06) and Ashley Curtiss (06). The Junior Varsity captains were Breeyn Maxwell (07) and Cassandra Bushaw (06).

As usual, the Junior Varsity Team was enormous, including two foreign exchange students. However, this year differed from the rest. The position of JV coach was given up by Mr. Greg Berra, and student teacher, Allison DeGrow took over the group of girls. She played tennis for Port Huron Northern and was state champion during her high school tennis career.

The Varsity Tennis team proudly displays their medals and their first place trophy in the Port Huron Invitational.

FIRST DOWN

What's it take to get a first down? Practice! Practice! Practice!

That's exactly what the Freshman and Junior Varsity boys did this season.

During practice there was running, scrimaging, and exercises. Later, they split into their own groups to perfect their skills for a specific position.

"I loved everything about football; the games, practice, just football in general. Football isn't just some thing you do just because you want to do it, you have to love the game," said Durrand Ashford (09).

Highest scorers for the season were Andrew Jowett (09), Bradley Davies (08), and Lee Evans (08). The Junior Varsity captains were Bradley Davies (08), Darius Jackson (08), Andrew Pesta (08), Christopher Cotton (08), and Emanuel Lopez-Alvarez (08). The Freshman Football captains included Andrew Jowett, Dontrell LeBeau, Jonthan Matthews, Andrew Page, and Matthew Wilcox.

"I got to wear a PHHS jersey and represent the team," said Dionte Worthem (08).

Setting up the play, Andrew Jowett (09) prepares to complete the pass.

Kyle Ellis (08) and Justin Kindle (09) rush to help a fallen teammate.

"Down, set, hike," the Freshman football team faces Frasier.

High Expectations

Down, set, hike! The Big Reds were off to a new season, with a few big stars missing from last year's roster; but, Coach Mr. Eddie Kindle stated, "I am ready to work with the changes."

The two kickers on the team were Christopher Tatti (09) and Oliver Glenn (06) who also played on the Varsity Soccer Team.

For the first time in three years, the Big Reds had an unfortunate loss against the "cross-town rivals", Port Huron Northern, by a mere single touchdown.

"My senior year was dedicated to the underclassmen to teach them what great leadership is, and to never give up," said Kenneth Robinson (06). The team may have had a tougher season this year than last, but team spirit and hard work never seemed to have left the Big Reds' minds or hearts. "If we work hard enough and are determined enough, we can win!" said Coach Mr. Joseph Gilbert. He also said, "The kids stayed positive and worked hard all season. We were in every ball game!"

At practice Aaron Fiscelli (07) breaks through the defense of his opposing teammates.

"Let's Go Big Reds!", chants the team during the assembly before the Northern game.

Senior Christian Williams runs a play to score a touchdown for the Big Reds.

Gaining Respect

Working on jumpshots, perfecting lay-ups, creating friendships with teammates, these were what players gained during the girls basketball season, but that wasn't all.

Another great off-shoot of team membership was "Winning the respect of others," said Melissa Delano (09), a guard on the Freshman Girls Basketball Team. "We gain a lot of it. Everyone sees how determined we are, and how hard we are willing to work."

The Freshman team ended the season with 12 wins and 8 losses.

"As players on the freshman team, the girls have to learn how to come together from different schools and work together as one team," said Freshman Coach, Mr. Ken Parlardg.

The Freshmen and JV girls practiced every day after school to perfect their techniques.

The JV team finished the season with 8 wins and 12 losses.

"We finished the season strong. We worked hard to have great defense and offense, but in the end we also had great friendships," said Jessica Kindler (08).

With anticipation, Ariana McCoy (08) watches her free throw to see if she scores.

With good form, Katrina Oberski (09) jump-shoots the ball.

Meghan Curtiss (08) tries to protect the ball from the opposing team.

A Bit More

A bit more free throws, a little longer practice and a few extra drills was what the Varsity Team did to improve their game a bit more.

"During the off season some of us played on a travel basketball team while others went to different camps. About a week before tryouts we ran a conditioning practice for an hour and a half, then we went over to Roosevelt to play some more," said Brianne Donaldson (07).

Adding a bit more effort, the basketball team members played extra scrimmages with other teams, and between themselves at practice.

"I am extremely proud of the girls, they worked really hard and it showed on and off the court," said Coach Mr. George Popa. The girls achieved an overall record of 11-11. Their MAC record was 8-4.

The Varsity captains for the season were Margaret Walsh (06), Latisha Mitchell (06), and Renee Privette (06).

"This year has taught me to depend on my teammates and be positive despite the huge disappointments life throws at you," stated Renee Privette (06).

With a defender blocking her jump shot, Margaret Walsh (06) "throws it up" and scores two points for the Big Reds.

Rachel Meharg (07) prepares to take the ball for a lay up.

Nothin' but Net

The pep band plays, the cheerleaders cheer, and the crowd goes wild as the JV Boys' Basketball team wins their first game of the season against Anchor Bay.

With only eleven players the JV Basketball Team ended the season with a record of 6 wins and 10 losses.

"The boys worked hard this season at practices and games," said Coach Mr. Jeremy Rosenau. Practices were grueling, but it all paid off during the games. The practices involved scrimmages, running drills, and shooting drills.

"It was my second year on the team and I get better every season," said Christopher Cotton (08).

A new set of faces made up the Freshman Boys Basketball Team. "I was excited when I found out that I had made the team," said Justin Kindle (09). "I knew it would be hard but I was ready for anything."

"I am very proud of my team this year and look forward to next years," said Coach Mr. Ken Parlardg.

While Durrand Ashford (09) scores a point the team works quickly to set up for another play.

On a time out the boys get a quick pep talk from Asst. Coach Mr. Tim Franz.

The boys rush toward the basket to see if the ball is in.

From Behind the Arc

"Three pointer, Danny Price (06), for the Big Reds!" reported the announcer. Price was the leading three point shooter in the start of the season.

These Big Red guys knew how to keep their audience on their toes. It was an exciting year, they started the season with a five game winning streak, broken with the game against St. Clair. The team quickly recovered when they beat Fitzgerald in overtime.

"Practice was really tough, but it paid off," said senior John Brewster. With practice every day after school, the players trained in all the aspects of the game. From lay-ups to rebounds, and free throws to defense, teamwork was key. This season's leading scorers were Danny Price (06), William Pinson (06), and Robert Banks (06). They led the Big Reds with many three point shots and a great number of two pointers.

"Teamwork was a major advantage we had. The boys played all the right moves," stated Coach Mr. George Moger, the head coach for the past twenty-five years.

"All hands in" the Varsity Boys rev up for a victory game.

John Brewster (06) prepares for a free throw.

Keeping the advantage, number 22 William Pinson (06) looks for the pass.

Flash that Red Light

The buzzer sounds...the crowd cheers...the red light flashes (a goal)...and the PH Hockey team has won the game against Marysville, ahead by one point!

Using the McMorran Pavillion or Main Arenas, the guys practiced skating drills, shooting drills, defensive and offensive drills. Port Huron's home games were held at either the McMorran Main Arena or the Pavillion.

"We tried really hard during practices, even though they were really, really tough. And with each game we got better and better," said freshman, Andrew Jowett.

Taking on a new responsibility Coach Mr. Dennis Shannon, with four assistant coaches led the Port Huron High School Boys Hockey Team.

"Being my first year as the head coach, this has been extremely fun. The guy's really worked hard and have improved every day, with every practice and every game. Hopefully with their hard work we will continue to improve each year," stated Coach Mr. Dennis Shannon.

Bump, Set, Spike

With new players and new coaches, this season's volleyball teams were full of different experiences and attitudes.

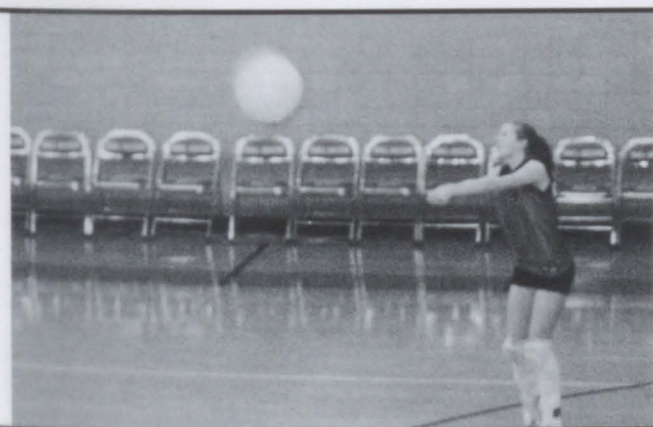

"We've played six games so far this season, and we've won four of them. It feels great," said Melissa Delano (09).

During two hour practices the girls reviewed bumping, setting, serving, spiking, and blocking. They did a variety of drills, to perfect their techniques. The practices and games were much different for the freshmen this year. "High school is a lot more competitive than junior high," said Anne Russ (09).

The Junior Varsity team found a new coach in Ms. Cheryl Lay. The captains were Ashley Ahles (08) and Jessica Kindle (08). Freshman captains were Karissa VanSlyke and Anne Russ. The Freshman team also welcomed a new coach, Ms. Lindsey Redlaysk.

The teams were very supportive of each other, despite the circumstances. "It's great to have your teammates supporting you whether you're on the floor or on the bench," said Caitlyn Bonney (08).

During the St. Clair game, Jessica Kindle (08) uses the overhead serve to score a point.

Warming up before a game, Hannah Jones (09) bumps the ball to her partner.

During a time out, Junior Varsity talks over strategies.

Volleyball Spirit

Screaming, cheering, and clapping noises echoed coming from the volleyball court and the side lines. Enthusiasm among the team members built support, spirit, and camaraderie.

"If I make a bad pass and get down on myself, it helps a lot when my teammates tell me 'it's okay, you'll get the next one'," said Chelsea Beeler (06).

The team needed to support each other as they went through a shift in coaching positions for the second year in a row. Coach Mr. Keith DeLong replaced Coach Mr. Terry Gamble from last year.

This year the Varsity team opted to play a libero, who plays only defense and is not allowed to serve.

The 2006 Varsity captains were seniors Chelsea Beeler, Danielle Landschoot, and Ashley Somerville.

The girls almost always took their opponent to four or five games where they scrapped for a win. "We were known as scrappers and underdogs, we tended to fight back after one lost game in a match," said Toni Spana (07).

Take It To The Mat

For the sixth year in a row, the Big Red Wrestlers successfully defended their title of City Champions when they competed against Port Huron Northern and Marysville at Marysville High School.

Starting the season with seven returning varsity wrestlers and another seven slots to fill, the Big Reds started a year of rebuilding.

"We lost some experience from last year's team. So our main focus is to get that back with the team this year," said Coach Mr. Dave Reno.

The Varsity team consisted mainly of one senior, eight juniors, three sophomores, and two freshmen. These numbers changed based on injuries and challenges. Despite the age variances the wrestlers became a close knit group.

"You get to be with your friends for four months and its like your part of a family," Travis Frasier (07) said.

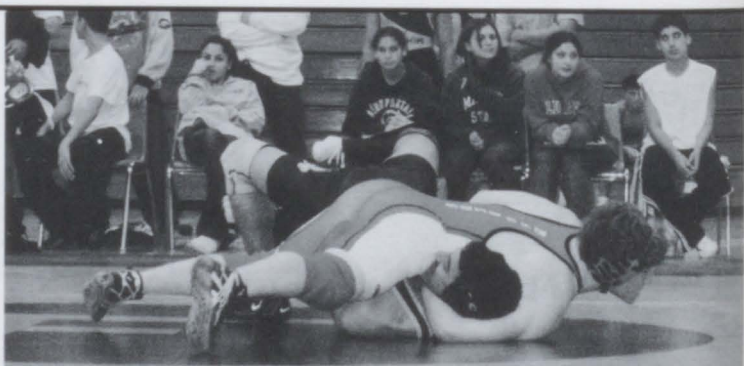

The team wrestled from November into February. They had four team dual tournaments. The Big Reds also had two individual tournaments.

Old Game, New Players

"I love being able to participate in a school sport that I really enjoy," said Boys Golf Team member Christopher Carmichael (09).

Golf has been played here at PHHS since 1949. The basic rules haven't changed over the fifty six year span, only the players. This years Boys Golf Team had many new talented athletes. An impressive 50 percent increase in players from the last season.

"We had quite a few new golfers this year," said six year coach Mr. Keith Hodge. "They have really bonded as a team and as friends."

The boys practiced every day after school at the Black River Country Club. They perfected their putting, driving, and chipping.

The "Big Red of the Year Award" went to Justin Peltz (07), with a score of 46.91, who also held the lowest score all season. The "Captain's Award" was given to Steven Curtiss (07).

"I'm glad I joined the team this year, it allows me to spend time with my friends while doing something I really like," said Eric Bradbury (08).

Cheering has been taken to new heights. Stunting, is the art of gracefully lifting teammates into the air. The Freshman, J.V., and Varsity teams have excelled with stunts compared to last year, with fewer errors and injuries. Amanda Ruck (06) said it's what inspired her to become a cheerleader. Redder the Better

"There is always one little girl in the stands that is watching you, I don't want to disappoint her," said Heather Pesta (09). Cheerleaders draw their inspiration and spirit from the fans, and each other.

For the first time in Port Huron High history, the Varsity Cheerleaders played host to their very own Big Red Clinic, with the assistance of Freshman and Junior Varsity Cheerleaders.

Elementary age girls came for a two day practice to learn a special halftime show. The routine was performed during the Varsity Basketball game against Marysville. The young cheerleaders wore matching t-shirts, which were included in the participation cost of the clinic.

The Varsity team went to Saturday morning competitions, and strived to defeat the tough teams in the Class "A" Division.

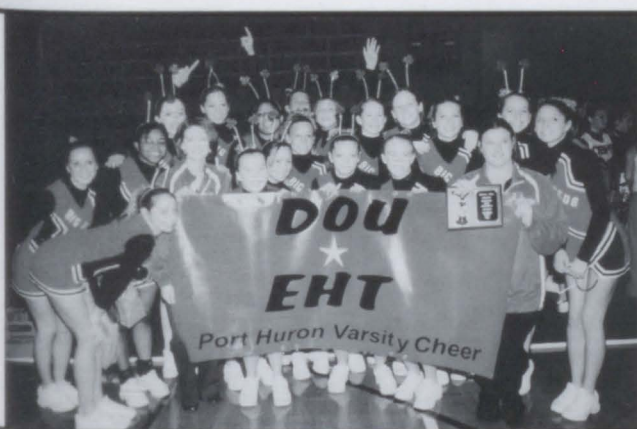

"I'm excited about featuring Port Huron and showing off all the hard work and discipline that we've made this season. We are finally putting Port Huron on the map for competitive cheer," said Varsity Competitive Cheer Coach Ms. Robyn Stevens.

At the first competition of the season,

Varsity took home a first place finish, crushing cross-town rivals, Port Huron Northern and Anchor Bay.

During practices, the girls repeated stunting and conditioning. The Junior Varsity and Freshman teams practiced together, while Varsity practiced in the cafeteria. Of course, all of the cheerleaders get excited about the PHN game. "The crowd at that game was so big, we had a huge section to cheer with us," said Stacey O'Neill (08).

"...The Redder, The Better, This Big Red Team Together!" they chanted.

Sink or Swim

With a twenty-seven girl team, and an invite to the MAC Gold, nothing could stop the Red Dawgs Swim Team. With girls from both PHHS and PH Northern, they pulled off a fabulous ten to ten year!

A unique asset to the team was the friendship shared between the teammates. When an error was made by one of the girls, their teammates were there pushing them to do their best.

"The thing that I like most about our swim team, is the relationship we build with our teammates," said Jessica Fiedler (07). "We don't have arguments about our schools. We swim and have fun."

This year the Red Dawgs Swim Team took the MAC Gold Division. "We started early this year, conditioning for 2 months. Our hard work paid off; we deserved the MAC Gold," said junior Ashley Finch.

"I was inspired to join the Swim Team by the competition from other schools, and my own passion for swimming," said Kati Crane (06). "On average we swim over 200 laps at each practice, and every one of them makes us that much better!"

Doing the butterfly at a team practice, Sarah Johnson (08) focuses on her form.

Ice It

Girls took to the ice in two different ways. One group went for the grace of figure skating; the other went for the speed of hockey.

The Rebels, an all girls team composed of Lady Big Reds and Lady Huskies, faced a year of changes. The first of which brought Coach Mr. C. Randall Cosens to the bench.

How did this effect the Rebels? "They acted like a team as always," said Coach Cosens. If anything the changes brought the girls closer.

"Since we lost our previous coach our friendships have grown stronger and now we are more like sisters," said Ashley Janderwski (07).

Of the fifteen girls on the team Sarah Bachman (08), Ashley Janderwski (07), Kirsten Jex (09), Karly Kerr (08), Melissa Mertz (08), and Student Manager Shawna DeRosia (08) represented Big Red Country on the ice. The 2005-2006 Rebels team has seen the biggest turn out of Big Reds ever.

The Rebels were led by captains Danielle May (07) and Margret Quinn (06). The assistant captains were Angela Piscoitta (06) and Keri Schmidt (07).

The girls had a tough season. Their first win was against Grosse Pointe Ligget with a score of Rebels nine and Liggets zero. But they skated well against their toughest opponents, Cranbrook and Grosse Pointe South. The Rebels finished their season with a record of four wins and ten losses.

The four games the girls dominated were against Grosse Pointe Ligget, Regina, and twice against Bloomfield.

While the Rebels played rough, the figure skaters gracefully glided across the ice.

The Figure Skating Team had nine girls on Varsity who took third place as a team in districts. This qualified them for the State Championship.

The Rebels set up for the face off and wait for the puck to be dropped.

Eager to put the play into action Margaret Quinn (06) and Ashley Janderwski (07) await the blow of the whistle.

Joined at the hip, Rebecca Hill (07) and Captain Margret Quinn (06) make their way toward the puck.

Gliding skillfully on the ice, Sarah Bachman (08) holds her hockey stick in the air while keeping perfect balance.

Tiffany Meyers (08) attempts to block her opponent.

Trying to keep the advantage, Ashley Janderwski (07) races to the puck.

Celebrating Art

The eleventh Annual Fine Arts Festival allowed and encouraged students to express themselves in creative and unique ways. The Festival has been held every spring for the past eleven years, where students and parents are welcomed to admire art, music, film, photography, and writing pieces in several categories.

2004-2005 Fine Arts Festival Winners:

Audio: Background to My Unconscious Life; Cody Tuttle (05)

Video: PH Montage; Sean Whitcomb (05)

Poetry 9th/10th: A Prayer for Mercy; Shannon Robbins (07)

Poetry 11th/12th: Chain of Poverty; Heidi Helms (05)

"Best of Show" Writing: Love, Life, and Lunch; Kameel Stanley (05)

The Festival organizers included Ms. Janet Barrett, Mr. Scott Magneson, and Mrs. Renee Hinkley.

Setting up her senior portfolio, Rebecca Frasier (05) enlists the help of Jessica Fiedler (07). The portfolios allowed students to display any of their art work that was not entered into the Fine Arts Festival.

With a first place in the Poetry, Ceramics/Sculpture, and in other Mediums categories, Shannon Robbins (07) discusses what inspired each of the pieces.

With great interest, Jessica Bayless (07) looks over one of her fellow classmates art work at the Fine Arts Festival.

Mrs. Renee Hinkley and Mr. Scott Magneson congratulate Michael Mowinski (05) on his accomplishments in Graphic Design.

After the awards were given, Brandi Vollmar (07) and Amber Vollmar (07) take a look at some of the other entries from the Pencil and Ink Category.

Before the awards ceremony starts, Angela Wallisch (06) takes a look at some of the entries from the Painting Category.

Checking out the Ceramics and Sculpture entries, Danell Alexander (07) finds her personal favorite. This category included items such as masks, bowls, and other creative items.

A Feast!

The brave English, the debonair French and the young American colonial troops carried out their on-going conflict to see who would gain control over Pine Grove Park for the 25th anniversary of The Feast of the Ste. Claire. The Feast recreated and exhibited four periods of Michigan History between 1750 and 1840. Four camps divided the Native Americans, the British traders, the American revolutionaries and the French explorers. Many people from all over the Great Lakes Area, who re-enacted history with their displays, showcased in the early American living, cooking, crafts and activities.

Two days before The Feast of the Ste. Claire began, Port Huron High students volunteered to go to Pine Grove Park to assist Feast Coordinators Mr. Harry Burgess and Mrs. Rose Burgess in setting up the re-enactment. "I enjoyed helping Mr. Burgess with the Feast! It's a great event that many people look forward to each year and I'm glad I was able to make it happen," said Jacob Beninati (06).

After set up was complete, spectators scanned the festival while being entertained throughout the two-day period. Activities included Fife and Drum shows, short plays, and Colonial wrestling.

From the rumbling of the cannons to the unique display of historical items, and the aromatic smells of colonial style food, visitors witnessed an exciting battle and many demonstrations for the 25th annual Feast of the Ste. Claire during Memorial Day weekend.

Showing off some colonial moves at the Ste. Claire Feast, Tyler Osburn (07), wrestles another colonial opponent. Wrestling was much different in the 1700s and 1800s than what wrestling has become now.

On the watch after a two day set-up, Feast Coordinator Mr. Harry Burgess checks on things to make sure the activities are running smoothly. Mr. Burgess dressed as a French Colonial Officer.

Taking part in the activities, Tayler Carpenter (07) roasts a turkey over a fire with a old-fashion rotisserie. Tayler displays the ways food was cooked in the time period between 1750 and 1840.

Playing a traditional piece, Brianna Chapman (06) marches along in the drum show.

Representing PHHS, David Harris (07) and Mr. Rock Stevens share a pose together during the activities.

During set up PHHS student David Harris (07) carries plywood to help build a tent.

During the preparation, Wayne Herber (07) helps pin up the canvas.

Here Comes Santa Claus!

'Twas the night before winter break. There were joyful students all through the halls, and all of them were heading to the PHHS Christmas Assembly!

As they all walked in and sat down, Mr. Terry Beasley announced the chiors. Some of the songs they sang were, "Sounds of Christmas", "First Noel", "Mary, Mary", "Carol of the Bells", "The Virgin Mary Had a Baby Boy", and "Jingle Bell Rock". It was the beginning of yet another holiday season.

The next to show their glee were Danielle Knecht (06) and Nicholas Oberski (07) guitar duet. The Guitar Class played, "Jolly Old Saint Nick", "Coventry Carol", "Away in a Manger", and "O Come All Ye Faithful".

Next, showing off their holiday cheer, was the Performing Arts Class portraying the classic Christmas story, "'Twas the Night Before Christmas". The choreography design placed students side by side, but every other performer faced north while the others faced south. With a clap and a jump, simulating the sound of reindeer hooves on the roof, the group switched from north to south or vice versa, as the story continued.

The after school Drama Program sang the legendary song from Rent, "Seasons of Love", which received a standing ovation.

Next came the Symphonic Band with their rendition of "Sleigh Ride". They ended the assembly with the school "Fight Song" to get the students to all remember the school over the break.

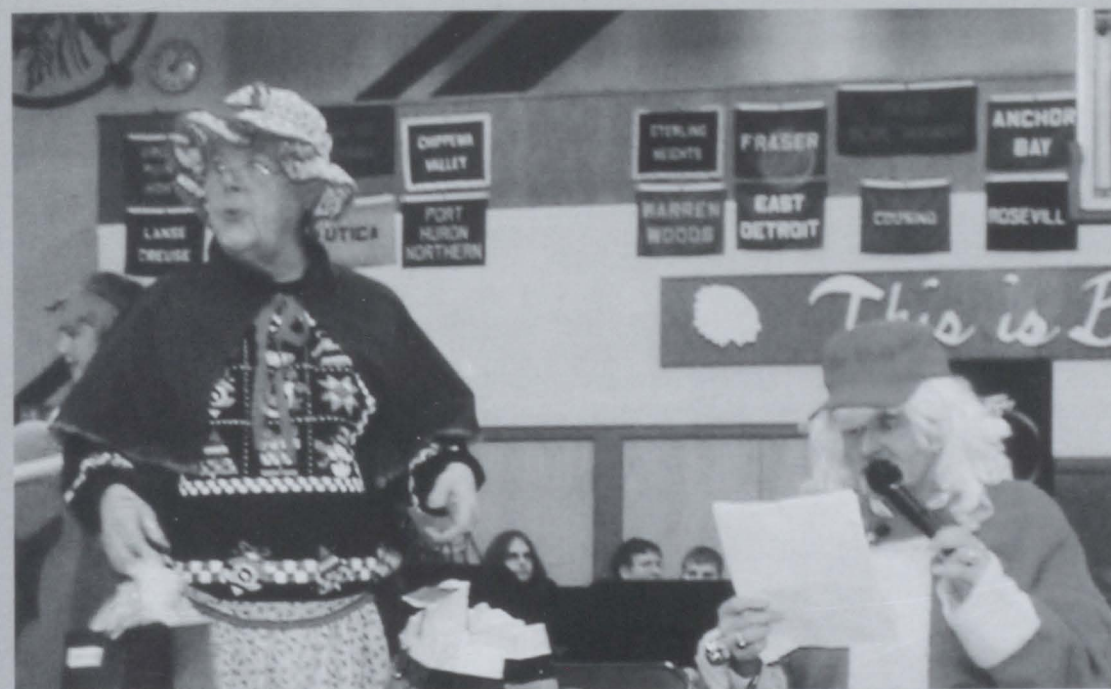

The After School Drama Program sing their hearts out to the song "Seasons of Love" as the rest of the school watches in awe.

The fifth hour guitar class plays to get the rest of the school pumped for upcoming winter break.

The Performing Arts Class shows the school their interpretation of the Christmas Story "Twas the Night Before Christmas".

Mr. Claus (Mr. Rock Stevens) and Mrs. Claus (Mrs. Mary O'Conner) handout some well deserved holiday gifts to freshmen Joseph MacDormott, Robert MacDormott, and Thomas MacDormott.

The clarinets in the Jazz Band play the song "Sleigh Ride".

Megan Morrison (08) and Stephanie Mierendorff (08) show their Big Red Pride by pretending to be reindeer for the Holiday Assembly.

Kenisha Williams (06) sings a solo in "Jingle Bell Rock".

Jet Lag

Finally, no more worksheets, notes, quizzes, tests, or exams. For many students, summer meant sleeping in until after noon, hanging out with friends, lying in the sun, cruising the mall, or traveling abroad. A little jet lag did them good.

"I love summer, no responsibilities, just relaxing at the beach and playing volleyball in the sand, what could be better?" said Tiara Forsyth (08).

Some students took summer vacation as their cue to get out and visit other places. From Ohio to Washington D.C., there were faces of Big Reds almost anywhere in the country. Cedar Point and Florida were two of the most popular places to visit. In Michigan many headed up North, and took in the beautiful landscapes while relaxing at a cabin.

A few journeyed out of the country. Sam McLaren (07) was able to go to England this summer.

"I was born in England. So I go back there to visit with my family from time to time." said Sam McLaren (07).

Other students chose to stay home. They earned a few extra dollars, lounged around, or caught up on some much needed sleep. Many of these teens hung out at the beach to catch a few rays or play volleyball.

Swimming was an obvious choice for this area, with Lake Huron handy and sandy beaches close by. It was a great way to be outside and stay cool.

"Coming back with tan lines and stories is the best part of summer," said Casandra Bennett (08) who traveled to Myrtle Beach South Carolina.

As summer drew to a close, students returned to high school. By the beginning of August students had started practice. Football, soccer, basketball, cross country, tennis, dance, and band had started up. "I think starting practice in summer is helpful, it gets us ready for the season," said Elizabeth Burgess (08).

Justin Finch (07) and Mallorie Krul (07) are enjoying their summer vacation with their families at Niagara Falls.

Lindsay Payton (07), Shelby Wood (07), Sarah Robinson (06), and Natasha Nutt (07) wake up early for their tennis tournament in Traverse City.

While taking a stroll down the boardwalk at Treasure Island, Cortney Howe (08), and Ashley Morris (08) stop and pose for the camera.

Celebrating their win at States by playing a game of miniature golf are Big League Softball team members Ashley Trombley (06), Laura Gleason (06), Brianne Donaldson (07), and Jessica Davis (06).

While in Daytona, Lori Klymko (06) and Cheresa Langolf (06) enjoy the sun, surf, and sand.

Kayla Jones (07) braves the Raptor at Cedar Point. Many kids went there during summer vacation.

Happy Birthday! Sara Walker (06) and Heather Chapman (06) enjoy the final hours of Heather's birthday party.

Community

What does Port Huron have to offer a community member or a tourist? A whole series of events!

Warm weather activities included family trips to the sandy, fresh-water beaches or organized calendar items. Special occasions included the annual Blue Water Parade, McDonaugh's annual Carnival, Port Huron to Mackinaw Sail Boat Race, the Boat Night City Party, Art in the Park Music Events, and Art on the Avenue.

On the 29th of June Memorial Stadium held the 27th Annual Blue Water Brass Competition. All had to come to see who triumphed this year. Seven judges sat ready to rate the six performing bands. One of the crowd favorites was the Madison Scouts -- an all male group, who played, danced, and even sang their way into first place.

When the temperatures dipped in December, the McMorran Arena held the annual Festival of Trees on the Main Arena floor. Organizations and businesses throughout Port Huron entered Christmas trees in the festival to support the Port Huron Hospital Children's Foundation. As supporters browsed to look at the trees, elderly and young volunteers from around the city, worked children's games. Local dance studios performed Christmas dances on stage throughout the Festival weekend.

In January, hockey took the forefront with Silver Stick Competitions for children and teens. The Detroit Little Ceasers Bantam AAA Hockey Team won the Silver Stick Tournament for the second time at the 44th annual tournament at McMorran Arena. The Flags finished 1 - 2 in the tournament.

Also in January, were the Ice Sculptures that lined Main Street Port Huron. The Ice Fest, January 27-29, 2006, featured over fifty different sculptors and pieces. On the front lawn of McMorran were larger sculptures, such as the HONDA logo, little children, and animals.

"She'll be coming round the stadium!" The music was inspired by the American gold rush. The Troopers perform a rendition of the popular song at the 27th Annual Blue Water Brass Competition.

What a great shot! Local children use the ice sculpture for a photo opportunity.

Since the ice sculptures had such a great turn out, the Flags displayed hockey souvenirs for sale.

The Blue Stars performed the music from Final Fantasy. It focused on the movie series' video game music with a slightly different rendition that helped them obtain a first place rating in their category.

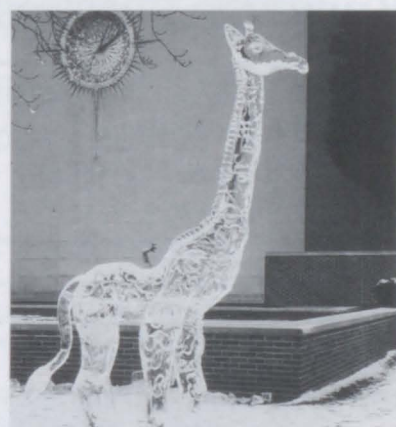

PHHS's own Christmas Tree was proudly displayed at McMorran Arena on December 3-5. Members of the Junior Class helped decorate the tree.

William Ball (07) puts finishing touches on PHHS's tree in the Festival of Trees.

A giraffe stands tall in the front of McMorran Arena during the 2006 downtown Ice Fest.

Move It!

Move it -- physically or mentally. Some PHers chose dance teams other opted for programs like MASTERS.

"I love my dance team, we have the funniest times," said senior Kaylie Koss.

Competitive dancing is a popular sport in Port Huron. There are several teams in town, which compete in categories like Pom, Jazz, Kick, Lyrical, Hip-Hop, Officer Line, and Open. The teams competed throughout the Midwest.

"Dance is just as much as a sport as any other. There is teamwork, sweat, blood, and a passion for being the best. The only thing missing is recognition," stated seven year dancer, Katelyn Walker (08).

While dancers express themselves through physical movements, other students expressed their knowledge.

Last March at the St. Clair County Science and Engineering Fair two PH students were given an all expense paid trip to the International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF).

ISEF was held in Phoenix, Arizona, in May where more than 1400 students from over forty nations competed for college scholarships.
